Soviet Takes Sky Spy Case Off U.N. List

U.S. Not Expected To Follow Suit On Hungary And Tibet

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) —The Soviet Union Wednesday withdrew its U. N. complaint against the United States stemming from last year's U2 and RB47 plane incidents.

But the action, taken with the avowed intention of easing international tension, failed to win United States agreement to dropping Hungary and Tibet from the list of issues still listed for debate by the General Assembly.

Soviet Delegate Valerian A. Zorin told the U. N. Political Committee that because of improved conditions since President Kennedy took office the Soviet Union would not insist upon retaining the complaint on the assembly's agenda.

Tension-Easing Move

"In declaring this," Zorin said, "the Soviet delegation deems it necessary to stress that the Soviet government has been making constant efforts toward the easing of international tension and the improvement of Soviet-American relations, and also seeking to do all it can for the work of the General Assembly to be carried out under favorable conditions."

He said the assembly still had before it the "groundless" questions of Hungary and Tibet, "which impede a relaxation of international tension and do not contribute to the normal work of the general assembly."

He expressed hope that the sponsors of those two items would take the necessary measures to remove them from the agenda "and thereby avoid an aggravation of the situation both at the assembly and in relations between the states in general."

U. S. Reserves Position

The United States has sponsored the question of the Soviet suppression of the 1956 Hungarian revolt, and Malaya the actions of Red China against the people of Tibet.

U. S. Ambassador Charles Yost told the committee the United States welcomed Zorin's action on the U2 and RB47 complaint, but that Hungary and Tibet do not fall in the same category. He said the United States wanted to reserve its position on those two items.

500 Make Surprise Drop In Move To Cut Off Red Spearhead

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Red-bereted royal paratroopers dropped near a rebel spearhead Wednesday in an attempt to cut it off north of this capital, Western military sources said. Some flew in helicopters only recently delivered by U.S. Marines.

The surprise drop was widely interpreted in Vientiane as part of fast, last-minute maneuvering by both sides for positions of strength before Britain and the Soviet Union call for a cease-fire. British sources indicated the call might come within two days.

The government reported that 300 paratroopers of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels jumped from Soviet transports Tuesday onto the vital north-south highway 20 miles south of Muong Kassy.

Western sources said 500 Laotian paratroopers, led by their commander in chief, Boun Leuth, jumped near the highway northwest of the rebel parachute force.

A Westerner who saw the jump said the first wave encountered no rebel air or ground opposition. He reported the paratroopers believe they have outflanked the rebels and could cut them off from the rear.

Transports, 'Copters Used

Muong Kassy lies about 100 miles north of Vientiane on the road linking this city with the royal seat, Luang Prabang. The rebels have held the center sector of the highway for a month.

Western sources said the government paratroopers took off before dawn from Luang Prabang aboard at least 10 transport planes and 1 or more helicopters.

The helicopters were delivered only a week ago from Thailand by the U. S. Marines. The transports were believed piloted by Nationalist Chinese or American employes of Air America, a subsidiary of Civil Air Transport, a private company based on Formosa.

Finch, Carole Receive Life

Lovers Spared From Death In Gas Chamber

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Dr. R. Bernard Finch and his flame-haired mistress, Carole Tregoff, were condemned to life in prison Wednesday for the July 18, 1959, killing of the surgeon's wife.

The 10 - man, 2 - woman panel spared the lovers death in the gas chamber when it returned its decision at 7:35 p.m. EST after 12 hours of deliberations since Monday.

Carole, 24, and Finch, 43, turned deep red as the verdicts were read by the court clerk. After a few seconds, the former model broke down and said:

Finch reached across the table, touching her right arm with his left hand. "We'll fight it, darling," he said, "we're still alive."

"We'll go as high as the Supreme Court if necessary," said Carole's lawyer, Don Bringgold.

Shot In Back

The jury that sentenced the crewcut surgeon and his sweetheart is the same one that convicted them nine days ago of the shot-in-the-back killing of Mrs. Barbara Jean Finch, 33, on the lawn of her West Covina home.

A crowd of about 100 persons jammed in the small courtroom and heard the jury indicate at 6:25 p.m. EST that there was a disagreement over whether the lovers should be given the life imprisonment with its possibility of parole.

The panel asked Judge David Coleman in a formal question:

"Is it possible to return a verdict of life imprisonment without possibility of parole?"

"My answer is no," the judge replied.

Fifty minutes later, the jury buzzed that it had reached a decision.

Appeal Planned

It sentenced Finch to life on both counts of his conviction—first degree and conspiracy to murder. It gave the same decision in Carole's case for conspiracy.

Miss Tregoff also had been found guilty of second degree murder, which carries an automatic five years to life sentence. But Judge Coleman ordered the jury on Monday to consider only the conspiracy conviction, thereby making the second degree charge meaningless.

Maxwell Keith, Finch's lawyer, and Bringgold, Carole's attorney, both said they would appeal the convictions which came at the lovers' third trial. The first trial started in December, 1959. The three trials took up more than 10 months court time. The last trial was concluded, three months and two days after it started.

Leaders Fail To Reconcile China Views

Ways Of Bolstering Western Alliance, U.N. Are Discussed

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan had a "most valuable and useful" talk on world problems Wednesday but did not resolve differences about Red China.

The leaders of the two most powerful free world nations conferred for more than seven hours at the White House in the first day of a three-day series of consultations.

They concentrated on ways to strengthen the Western Alliance politically against the Communist threat, and also on bolstering the United Nations and improving aid programs for underdeveloped countries.

"Most valuable and useful," said authoritative sources on both the American and British sides to describe the wide-ranging talks.

Kennedy is trying to lay a solid groundwork for the future of the Western Alliance during the coming decade, and this was Macmillan's first chance for a general chat with the new President. The parleys, attended by top aides on both sides, were described as completely cordial.

Red China Views Exchanged

Kennedy and Macmillan in general were said to have agreed on a need for strengthening the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's political consultations, on lessening European trade disputes, on improving coordination of industrial countries' aid to backward areas and on buttressing the United Nations.

On the question of United Nations admission of Red China, however, the two countries have not seen eye to eye.

Informants said Kennedy and Macmillan outlined the respective views of their governments on Red China. However, no attempt was made to unify their respective positions, it was said.

Thus the divergence on the issue remained.

The most serious crisis spot of the moment, Laos, was on both American and British minds, but it was not discussed for the time being pending word from Moscow. The British, now negotiating with the Soviet Union on terms of a cease-fire in the troubled Asian kingdom, expect an agreement will be reached shortly.

In Sartorial Agreement

So Kennedy, 43, and Macmillan, 67, both dressed in pin-striped blue suits, spent much of the day talking about the Allies' future.

On the question of China, the British have long recognized the Communist Peiping regime while the United States has not.

Recently, London has leaned toward the seating of Red China in the United Nations. The United States opposes this.

U. S. officials are hopeful that the Allies will stand together on the matter, along with a majority of other U. N. members, when it

Vice President, U.S. Negotiator At Geneva Meet

GENEVA (UPI) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson had a three-hour "exchange of views" Wednesday night with the chief U.S. delegate to the nuclear weapons test ban conference.

Johnson made it clear he brought no special instructions for Arthur H. Dean or the U.S. negotiating team he heads.

Johnson was in regular contact with Washington, partly by radio and apparently at least once by telephone, and may have given a preliminary report on the conference for consideration by Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

When the talks were concluded, the vice president and Mrs. Johnson took a late-evening drive for an hour around Geneva and its lake.

They leave Thursday for Paris, where they will attend celebrations of NATO's 12th anniversary.

Rebels Ready To Negotiate Laotian Truce

The broadcast quoted a statement by Prince Souphanouvong, leader of the pro - Communist Pathet Lao military forces and chairman of the Neo Lao Haksat party.

"I agree with the Soviet government's proposal that the interested parties in Laos should open negotiations on problems relating to a cease-fire," he was quoted.

"The Neo Lao Haksat party will, at all times, be ready to take part in such negotiations."

Earlier it was reported from Vientiane that Britain obtained the assent of the royal government to cease-fire proposals to end the Laotian civil war.

Prince Souphanouvong expressing warm support for the Soviet proposal for a 14-nation conference on Laos said: "I on behalf of the Neo Lao Haksat party... (also) agree that the cochairmen of the Geneva conference, should call for a cease-fire at an early date, so as to restore peace in Laos."

Britain and the Soviet Union are cochairmen of the 1954 Geneva conference.

British Spy Hunt Turns To Dublin

LONDON (AP) — Dublin is the new hunting ground of Scotland Yard counterespionage agents following the trail of five persons convicted last month of spying for the Soviet Union.

Information provided by one of the jailed spies suggested other Soviet agents may have secret headquarters and hideouts in the Irish capital, police sources said.

Tombstone Gift 'Best Insurance'

GIRVAN, Scotland (AP)—Nine years ago Wednesday was Robert Henderson's golden wedding anniversary and his children asked him what he would like for a present.

"A tombstone," he replied, "a nice big one, please, and put it up for me in the cemetery."

Dutifully the children had a stone put up in Igirvan Cemetery with the name and everything but the date of his demise.

Henderson, this Wednesday, observed: "It's the best insurance policy I ever had. I never felt better and I don't think I'll be needing it for a long time. But when I do, I know where it is."

Hammarskjold Repeats Offer To Resign Post

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) —Dag Hammarskjold declared Wednesday he is ready to resign as U. N. secretary-general any time the General Assembly feels he should get out.

He repeated his previous insistence, however, that he will not bow to Soviet resignation demands unless the 99-nation assembly asks him to do so.

The secretary-general's statement generally followed the lines of his declaration of last Oct. 3, but went a step further by placing a standing offer of resignation before the assembly.

Hammarskjold addressed the assembly in the Congo debate. He said the Soviet bloc had been trying to build up a case against him to back Soviet Premier Khrushchev's demands that he resign.

Hammarskjold made it clear he would consider silence of the assembly to mean that he should remain in office.

Tshombe Backs Off As Irish U.N. Troops Arrive

ELISABETHVILLE, the Congo (AP)—President Moise Tshombe of Katanga Province backed off Wednesday from a belligerent anti-U.N. posture after a United Nations warning that new violence against its forces would bring swift action.

The capital of this rich Congo province remained tense in the wake of Tuesday's mob outbreak, but fears of a major clash between U.N. forces and Tshombe's supporters diminished.

Planeloads of Irish U.N. soldiers poured into the Elisabethville airport, and the strong man president was told that any renewal of violence would bring Indian U.N. soldiers to the capital, a U.N. source reported. Tshombe strenuously opposes use of the Indians.

Tshombe met for two hours with the U.N. military chief in the Congo, Gen. Sean McKeown of Ireland, who issued the warning. A U.N. spokesman said the president agreed to rescind all the sanctions he had ordered against U.N. personnel in the heat of his address Tuesday to Elisabethville crowds.

That meant withdrawal of orders to his followers to carry out "general sabotage" against the United Nations, to refuse to trade with its personnel and to deprive U.N. establishments of water and electricity.

The U.N. source said Tshombe told McKeown the sanctions had been "suppressed but not lifted." The informant described this as a face-saving device by the president.

The Irish are prepared to seal off the airport and await reinforcements if Africans go on another anti-U.N. rampage.

The Irish met no resistance from Tshombe's army or police. Throughout the day planes arrived from the western Katanga base at Kamina, and 300 men took up their stations. About 600 are expected to be on hand Thursday.

Under the arrangements with Tshombe, the Irish will guard the airport jointly with Katanga police. But in the event of trouble, the Irish will seal off the airport, allowing time to fly in Indian reinforcements.

Lawyer Held For Jetliner Bomb Scare

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — A Braniff jet airliner with 20 persons aboard made an emergency landing at Norfolk Naval Air Station Wednesday after a "nervous" passenger warned that the plane was going to explode.

Navy demolition experts swarmed over the 707 four-engine New York to Miami jet but found no bomb. They checked a cardboard box carried by the passenger, Alan Henry Strauss, 28, of San Mateo, Calif., and found it contained a harmless radio amplifier.

The FBI arrested Strauss, an attorney, on a charge of violating the federal law against destruction of interstate aircraft, which carries a provision against false bomb reports.

Agents said they had learned no reason why Strauss made the report.

15 Nations Ask Belgian Congo Exit Deadline

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Fifteen countries proposed Wednesday that the General Assembly threaten Belgium with necessary U.N. action if she did not withdraw all Belgian military men and political advisers from the Congo within 21 days.

Yugoslavia and 14 nations of Africa and Asia submitted a resolution to that effect even though Belgium had just agreed to carry out a Feb. 21 resolution of the Security Council that urged the immediate withdrawal of all such personnel.

(In Brussels, sources for the government said only 32 Belgian troops under the direct authority of the Defense Ministry remained in the Congo and would be withdrawn soon.)

The new proposal would have the 99-nation assembly decide that if Belgium did not meet with the deadline unspecified "necessary action should be taken in accordance with the Charter of the United Nations."

The charter authorizes the council to call for economic boycott, diplomatic quarantine and even force to "give effect to its decisions."

Actress Ann Sothern Hurt In Auto Crash

ATASCADERO, Calif. (UPI)— Actress Ann Sothern, 50, was injured Wednesday when a car driven by her 16-year-old daughter struck another vehicle at an intersection of U.S. 101.

The California highway patrol said Miss Sothern and the daughter, Patricia Ann Sterling, were northbound on the coastal highway midway between San Francisco and Los Angeles when the accident occurred.

The actress and her daughter were treated for minor cuts and bruises at Atascadero General Hospital.

Cuba Charges Cruiser Attack

HAVANA (UPI)—Cuba Wednesday opened a new campaign against U.S. operation of the big Guantanamo Naval Base by charging that American warships and planes based there are engaging in "criminal activity" against Fidel Castro's regime.

An angry note of protest was sent to the United States via the Swiss Embassy which now represents American interests here. Replying to Tuesday's U.S. protest against Cuba's attempt to seize the American cable schooner Western Union, the note violently denounced the "aggressive attitude" of U.S. forces in Cuban waters.

Swiss Ambassador Walter Bossi was awakened in the middle of night by Cuban authorities to receive the note for relay to Washington via Bern.

The new Cuban protest note specifically charged that a U.S. cruiser fired anti-aircraft guns at a Cuban plane on March 23 near the port of Imias, about 30 miles east of Guantanamo and said the alleged attack was an example of the "grave ... provocative ... criminal activity" of Guantanamo-based warships.

Livestock Holding Effort Succeeding, Farmers Say

CORNING, Iowa (AP)—Sharp declines in livestock receipts, hogs in particular, at several domestic markets were hailed Wednesday by the National Farmers Organization as evidence that its holding action to force higher prices was succeeding.

But some market experts continued to see only normal pricing factors at play—weather favorable for spring planting over wide areas of the farm belt being their explanation.

Prices were generally steady, with hogs showing gains up to 25 cents a hundredweight in Chicago Omaha, and Indianapolis; Kansas City noted gains of 50 to 75 cents over a week ago.

The NFO holding action got under way Monday and Oren Staley, NFO president, had predicted Wednesday would bring its best showing to date.

"Receipts today at all selling points," he said, "have been substantially reduced from the estimates of a week ago, and interior markets and buying stations, such as Waterloo, Cedar Rapids and Mason City in Iowa, Austin in Minnesota, and others in Illinois, have particularly shown the effects of the holding effort."

In the holding campaign, farm producers of cattle, hogs and sheep have been urged to keep their livestock off the markets until "fair" prices are reached.

NFO has set these as its fair price goals: choice steers, $32.45 a hundredweight; choice hogs, weighing 190-210 pounds $22.75; and choice wool lambs, $29.45. Current prices have been about $5.45 less for steers, $5.45 for hogs, and $10.45 for lambs.

USAF To Eliminate 340 Jobs In Europe

LONDON (AP)—The U. S. Air Force in Europe announced Wednesday plans to eliminate 340 military and civilian jobs on July 1 by combining some functions of the 3rd and 17th air forces.

The major change will be transfer of the command of five tactical fighter, reconnaissance and refueling wings in England to command of 17th Air Force headquarters at Ramstein, Germany.

WE Executives Win Vote Of Confidence

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Stockholders of Westinghouse Electric Corp., which was fined recently for antitrust violations, Wednesday overwhelmingly rebuffed a proposal to oust the company's three top executives.

The ouster move, initiated by shareholder C. A. Olsen of Cleveland, came in the last half-hour of the 75th annual meeting. More than 3,000 stockholders attended the 3½-hour session.

Olsen proposed in a resolution the immediate removal of President Mark W. Cresap Jr., Gwilym A. Price, board chairman, and Executive Vice President John K. Hodnette.

The resolution was rejected by a vote of 27,510,498 shares to 65,976.

U.S. Charges Americans Held In Cuba Mistreated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department Wednesday accused the Castro regime of maltreating American prisoners held in Cuban jails.

"The tragic thing about the situation in Cuba" said press officer Joseph W. Reap, "is that the Castro government is not supplying all the needed foods and medicines, but it is also not permitting the Swiss to step in and provide this for Americans who are there."

The Swiss Embassy in Havana has been representing U. S. interests in Cuba since Washington broke diplomatic ties with Prime Minister Fidel Castro's pro-Communist government last January.

About 22 Americans are now in Cuban prisons, U. S. officials said. Most or all of them are serving various sentences imposed for political reasons by the Castro regime.

American authorities have not yet decided whether to send a formal protest to Havana. Castro has ignored many past U.S. complaints.

Washington has been unable to get an accurate account of the plight of the prisoners. The Castro government has not let the Swiss visit the jails, nor has it allowed the Red Cross to give food and medicine despite U. S. requests.

Reap indicated the American prisoners are getting an inadequate, substandard diet and insufficient medical care but are not actually starving.

The broadcast quoted a statement by Prince Souphanouvong, leader of the pro - Communist Pathet Lao military forces and chairman of the Neo Lao Haksat party.

"I agree with the Soviet government's proposal that the interested parties in Laos should open negotiations on problems relating to a cease-fire," he was quoted.

"The Neo Lao Haksat party will, at all times, be ready to take part in such negotiations."

Earlier it was reported from Vientiane that Britain obtained the assent of the royal government to cease-fire proposals to end the Laotian civil war.

Prince Souphanouvong expressing warm support for the Soviet proposal for a 14-nation conference on Laos said: "I on behalf of the Neo Lao Haksat party... (also) agree that the cochairmen of the Geneva conference, should call for a cease-fire at an early date, so as to restore peace in Laos."

Britain and the Soviet Union are cochairmen of the 1954 Geneva conference.

British Spy Hunt Turns To Dublin

LONDON (AP) — Dublin is the new hunting ground of Scotland Yard counterespionage agents following the trail of five persons convicted last month of spying for the Soviet Union.

Information provided by one of the jailed spies suggested other Soviet agents may have secret headquarters and hideouts in the Irish capital, police sources said.

Tombstone Gift 'Best Insurance'

GIRVAN, Scotland (AP)—Nine years ago Wednesday was Robert Henderson's golden wedding anniversary and his children asked him what he would like for a present.

"A tombstone," he replied, "a nice big one, please, and put it up for me in the cemetery."

Dutifully the children had a stone put up in Igirvan Cemetery with the name and everything but the date of his demise.

Henderson, this Wednesday, observed: "It's the best insurance policy I ever had. I never felt better and I don't think I'll be needing it for a long time. But when I do, I know where it is."

Hammarskjold Repeats Offer To Resign Post

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Dag Hammarskjold declared Wednesday he is ready to resign as U. N. secretary-general any time the General Assembly feels he should get out.

He repeated his previous insistence, however, that he will not bow to Soviet resignation demands unless the 99-nation assembly asks him to do so.

The secretary-general's statement generally followed the lines of his declaration of last Oct. 3, but went a step further by placing a standing offer of resignation before the assembly.

Hammarskjold addressed the assembly in the Congo debate. He said the Soviet bloc had been trying to build up a case against him to back Soviet Premier Khrushchev's demands that he resign.

Hammarskjold made it clear he would consider silence of the assembly to mean that he should remain in office.

ELISABETHVILLE, the Congo (AP)—President Moise Tshombe of Katanga Province backed off Wednesday from a belligerent anti-U.N. posture after a United Nations warning that new violence against its forces would bring swift action.

The capital of this rich Congo province remained tense in the wake of Tuesday's mob outbreak, but fears of a major clash between U.N. forces and Tshombe's supporters diminished.

Planeloads of Irish U.N. soldiers poured into the Elisabethville airport, and the strong man president was told that any renewal of violence would bring Indian U.N. soldiers to the capital, a U.N. source reported. Tshombe strenuously opposes use of the Indians.

Tshombe met for two hours with the U.N. military chief in the Congo, Gen. Sean McKeown of Ireland, who issued the warning. A U.N. spokesman said the president agreed to rescind all the sanctions he had ordered against U.N. personnel in the heat of his address Tuesday to Elisabethville crowds.

That meant withdrawal of orders to his followers to carry out "general sabotage" against the United Nations, to refuse to trade with its personnel and to deprive U.N. establishments of water and electricity.

The U.N. source said Tshombe told McKeown the sanctions had been "suppressed but not lifted." The informant described this as a face-saving device by the president.

The Irish are prepared to seal off the airport and await reinforcements if Africans go on another anti-U.N. rampage.

The Irish met no resistance from Tshombe's army or police. Throughout the day planes arrived from the western Katanga base at Kamina, and 300 men took up their stations. About 600 are expected to be on hand Thursday.

Under the arrangements with Tshombe, the Irish will guard the airport jointly with Katanga police. But in the event of trouble, the Irish will seal off the airport, allowing time to fly in Indian reinforcements.

Lawyer Held For Jetliner Bomb Scare

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — A Braniff jet airliner with 20 persons aboard made an emergency landing at Norfolk Naval Air Station Wednesday after a "nervous" passenger warned that the plane was going to explode.

Navy demolition experts swarmed over the 707 four-engine New York to Miami jet but found no bomb. They checked a cardboard box carried by the passenger, Alan Henry Strauss, 28, of San Mateo, Calif., and found it contained a harmless radio amplifier.

The FBI arrested Strauss, an attorney, on a charge of violating the federal law against destruction of interstate aircraft, which carries a provision against false bomb reports.

Agents said they had learned no reason why Strauss made the report.

WE Executives Win Vote Of Confidence

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Stockholders of Westinghouse Electric Corp., which was fined recently for antitrust violations, Wednesday overwhelmingly rebuffed a proposal to oust the company's three top executives.

The ouster move, initiated by shareholder C. A. Olsen of Cleveland, came in the last half-hour of the 75th annual meeting. More than 3,000 stockholders attended the 3½-hour session.

Olsen proposed in a resolution the immediate removal of President Mark W. Cresap Jr., Gwilym A. Price, board chairman, and Executive Vice President John K. Hodnette.

The resolution was rejected by a vote of 27,510,498 shares to 65,976.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Eleven students have been arrested for five burglaries police claim were inspired by American gangster films and engineered by a 17-year-old girl at a hangout called Uncle Sam's.

15 Nations Ask Belgian Congo Exit Deadline

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Fifteen countries proposed Wednesday that the General Assembly threaten Belgium with necessary U.N. action if she did not withdraw all Belgian military men and political advisers from the Congo within 21 days.

Yugoslavia and 14 nations of Africa and Asia submitted a resolution to that effect even though Belgium had just agreed to carry out a Feb. 21 resolution of the Security Council that urged the immediate withdrawal of all such personnel.

(In Brussels, sources for the government said only 32 Belgian troops under the direct authority of the Defense Ministry remained in the Congo and would be withdrawn soon.)

The new proposal would have the 99-nation assembly decide that if Belgium did not meet with the deadline unspecified "necessary action should be taken in accordance with the Charter of the United Nations."

The charter authorizes the council to call for economic boycott, diplomatic quarantine and even force to "give effect to its decisions."

Avalanches Kill 26

SAPPORO, Japan (UPI) — Avalanches were reported to have killed 26 persons Wednesday on Japan's northernmost island of Hokkaido.

Actress Ann Sothern Hurt In Auto Crash

ATASCADERO, Calif. (UPI)—Actress Ann Sothern, 50, was injured Wednesday when a car driven by her 16-year-old daughter struck another vehicle at an intersection of U.S. 101.

The California highway patrol said Miss Sothern and the daughter, Patricia Ann Sterling, were northbound on the coastal highway midway between San Francisco and Los Angeles when the accident occurred.

The actress and her daughter were treated for minor cuts and bruises at Atascadero General Hospital.

Livestock Holding Effort Succeeding, Farmers Say

CORNING, Iowa (AP)—Sharp declines in livestock receipts, hogs in particular, at several domestic markets were hailed Wednesday by the National Farmers Organization as evidence that its holding action to force higher prices was succeeding.

But some market experts continued to see only normal pricing factors at play—weather favorable for spring planting over wide areas of the farm belt being their explanation.

Prices were generally steady, with hogs showing gains up to 25 cents a hundredweight in Chicago Omaha, and Indianapolis; Kansas City noted gains of 50 to 75 cents over a week ago.

The NFO holding action got under way Monday and Oren Staley, NFO president, had predicted Wednesday would bring its best showing to date.

"Receipts today at all selling points," he said, "have been substantially reduced from the estimates of a week ago, and interior markets and buying stations, such as Waterloo, Cedar Rapids and Mason City in Iowa, Austin in Minnesota, and others in Illinois, have particularly shown the effects of the holding effort."

In the holding campaign, farm producers of cattle, hogs and sheep have been urged to keep their livestock off the markets until "fair" prices are reached.

NFO has set these as its fair price goals: choice steers, $32.45 a hundredweight; choice hogs, weighing 190-210 pounds $22.75; and choice wool lambs, $29.45. Current prices have been about $5.45 less for steers, $5.45 for hogs, and $10.45 for lambs.

USAF To Eliminate 340 Jobs In Europe

LONDON (AP)—The U. S. Air Force in Europe announced Wednesday plans to eliminate 340 military and civilian jobs on July 1 by combining some functions of the 3rd and 17th air forces.

The major change will be transfer of the command of five tactical fighter, reconnaissance and refueling wings in England to command of 17th Air Force headquarters at Ramstein, Germany.

U.S. Charges Americans Held In Cuba Mistreated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department Wednesday accused the Castro regime of maltreating American prisoners held in Cuban jails.

"The tragic thing about the situation in Cuba" said press officer Joseph W. Reap, "is that the Castro government is not supplying all the needed foods and medicines, but it is also not permitting the Swiss to step in and provide this for Americans who are there."

The Swiss Embassy in Havana has been representing U. S. interests in Cuba since Washington broke diplomatic ties with Prime Minister Fidel Castro's pro-Communist government last January.

About 22 Americans are now in Cuban prisons, U. S. officials said. Most or all of them are serving various sentences imposed for political reasons by the Castro regime.

American authorities have not yet decided whether to send a formal protest to Havana. Castro has ignored many past U.S. complaints.

Washington has been unable to get an accurate account of the plight of the prisoners. The Castro government has not let the Swiss visit the jails, nor has it allowed the Red Cross to give food and medicine despite U. S. requests.

Reap indicated the American prisoners are getting an inadequate, substandard diet and insufficient medical care but are not actually starving.

Cuba Charges Cruiser Attack

HAVANA (UPI)—Cuba Wednesday opened a new campaign against U.S. operation of the big Guantanamo Naval Base by charging that American warships and planes based there are engaging in "criminal activity" against Fidel Castro's regime.

An angry note of protest was sent to the United States via the Swiss Embassy which now represents American interests here. Replying to Tuesday's U.S. protest against Cuba's attempt to seize the American cable schooner Western Union, the note violently denounced the "aggressive attitude" of U.S. forces in Cuban waters.

Swiss Ambassador Walter Bossi was awakened in the middle of night by Cuban authorities to receive the note for relay to Washington via Bern.

The new Cuban protest note specifically charged that a U.S. cruiser fired anti-aircraft guns at a Cuban plane on March 23 near the port of Imias, about 30 miles east of Guantanamo and said the alleged attack was an example of the "grave ... provocative ... criminal activity" of Guantanamo-based warships.

GOP Pleased By Showing In St. Louis Race

Republican Tops Big Field In Texas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans lost the first round of an attempted political comeback in the nation's big cities but professed some satisfaction from their showing Tuesday in the St. Louis, Mo., mayor's race.

The Democrats, on the other hand, viewed the St. Louis outcome as "a rejection of the Republican party and its negative stance."

GOP National Chairman Thruston B. Morton, who marked St. Louis as a "scene of redoubled big city effort," said he was not downhearted because Republican Ben H. Lindenbusch lost to Mayor Raymond B. Tucker, a Democrat, by a 41,428-vote margin.

"We never expected to win and I thought we did well," Morton said. "If St. Louis had given Vice President Nixon the same percentage it did the Republican candidate for mayor, Nixon would have carried Missouri last November."

The Republicans were heartened by the showing made by their candidate, John G. Tower, in a free-for-all race in Texas to fill the Senate seat vacated by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Tower led the field but will have to stand in a run off primary June 3, probably against Democratic Sen. William A. Blakley. Pitted headon against a Democrat, Tower will be an underdog in the betting.

Although he polled 135,000 votes more than his nearest Democratic rival, the combined voted of the five leading Democrats was more than twice Tower's vote.

In St. Louis complete, unofficial returns gave Tucker, seeking his third four-year term as mayor, 100,899 votes to 59,471 for Lindenbusch, a political tyro. The Republican thus got about 37 per cent of the total vote.

Ace Hitmakers Rogers, Lerner Will Team Up

NEW YORK (AP) — Two of Broadway's ace hitmakers, composer Richard Rodgers and lyricist Alan Jay Lerner, teamed up Wednesday in songwriting partnership.

Announcement of the new talent combine ends wide show world speculation, that began last August with the death of Oscar Hammerstein II, Rodgers' long-time associate, and intensified when Lerner's partner, Frederick Loewe, said he was taking an 18-month vacation.

Lerner and Loewe wrote six Broadway musicals during an on-again, off-again relationship starting in 1942, including "My Fair Lady" and "Camelot," as well as the prize winning movie "Gigi."

The Rodgers-Hammerstein association, which also began in 1942, made entertainment history with nine musicals including "Oklahoma," "Carousel," "South Pacific" and the current "The Sound of Music."

Criminally Insane Escapee 'Dangerous'

JESSUP, Md. (AP)—Maryland State Police broadcast a 13-state alarm Wednesday for a criminally insane escaped from the House of Correction who was described as "extremely dangerous."

Authorities said Mack Wilson Fierst, 51, escaped early Wednesday from a maximum-security cell at Perkins State Hospital on the grounds of the House of Correction.

Fierst was given a 20-year term in 1948 for armed robbery. A hospital spokesman said the prisoner had used a saw to get through the wire screen covering his window. The saw was believed to have been left behind by a workman.

Police said Fierst was believed heading for Baltimore or Washington. He is a native of Baltimore. Authorities said he might be driving a stolen car.

Russell Signals Battle For B70 And Nike-Zeus

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., predicted Wednesday that the Senate Armed Service Committee would overrule President Kennedy and vote extra funds for the B70 super-bomber and the Nike-Zeus anti-missile missile.

Russell said Kennedy's proposed cutbacks on the programs would touch off the biggest congressional fight over the Kennedy administration's defense plans. Despite cutting the B70 and Nike-Zeus, Kennedy has proposed a $2.3 billion hike in former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's defense spending proposals.

Russell made the statement to reporters as his committee questioned behind closed doors for the second consecutive day Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Russell praised McNamara's review of the proposed defense spending increase for the 12 months starting July 1.

He said the committee had been giving a better idea than ever before about the Defense Department's plans for the foreseeable future.

He applauded Kennedy's plans to modernize and strengthen nonnuclear forces so the nation will be better prepared to fight any brush fire wars.

While expressing a wish for even bigger spending for limited war forces, Russell said he was willing to go along with the President's blueprint.

"They have gone perhaps as far as they can go this year," he said.

Russell made clear, however, that he and other congressional defense experts would fight to restore Kennedy's cuts in the B70 and Nike-Zeus programs.

Record Budget Of $87 Billion Seen Next Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Budget Bureau experts have prepared early-bird estimates which indicate that President Kennedy's first on-his-own budget, due next January, will total about $87 billion.

This was reported Wednesday by informed sources who said that even at a record $87 billion—about $6 billion above current levels—the budget should be balanced if the economy makes a satisfactory recovery from the current recession.

Kennedy will send Congress in January a budget covering the 1963 fiscal year beginning July 1, 1962.

Last week, Kennedy revised the 1961 and 1962 budgets submitted by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. The revisions included estimates that federal spending will rise from $80.7 billion in the current fiscal year to $84.3 billion in the 12 months beginning July 1.

Budget experts at the staff level, it was learned, have prepared a preliminary estimate that spending in fiscal 1963 will show a further rise of between $2 billion and $3 billion.

Informants said that would be due entirely to "built-in" spending increases in programs already voted by Congress. The estimate also takes into account probable decreases in some of these programs.

Such a rise would boost spending to between $86.3 billion and $87.3 billion.

Informants said Macmillan did not press on the U. S. - British differences on the Red China issue, nor did he say how Britain would vote when the question comes before the United Nations. Both U. S. and British sources said it would be impossible to tell, in advance of knowing the manner in which the issue would be presented, just how any country would vote.

The Red China question arose during a general discussion of the United Nations. Other U.N. items covered included the Soviet assault on Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, U. N. finances and colonial issues.

Informants described the Kennedy-Macmillan meeting as a completely informal, free-flowing discussion session at which no decisions were expected to be reached.

Rocket For Manned Shot Placed On Launch Stand

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The Redstone rocket ticketed to carry the first American astronaut into space, possibly within five weeks, was placed on its launching stand Wednesday.

Engineers and technicians began immediately to attach cables and other devices needed to check out the rocket's numerous systems.

A week or so before the scheduled firing date, the 1½-ton Project Mercury space capsule will be hoisted atop the 60-foot Redstone. The capsule also will be checked carefully in preparation for the historic flight which is to hurl a man 115 miles into space and drop him 300 miles down the Atlantic range.

The suborbital flight will take 16½ minutes.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has announced no date for the launching. But if a forthcoming capsule test at Wallops Island, Va., is successful, the manned shot could come late this month or early in May.

The Wallops Island firing, slated for about April 20, will test the capsule rocket escape system, which is designed to pull an astronaut free in case of rocket trouble.

Cargo-Liner Will Be Christened Tuesday

Red Losses Heavy As Open War Flares In Viet Nam

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Months of Communist terrorism have mushroomed into open warfare as this Sunday's presidential election approaches, government sources said Wednesday night. They estimated the Reds have suffered 530 casualties in the past eight days.

Communist Viet Cong rebels now are operating in battalion strength and are reported to have lost 200 killed and wounded in one battle alone, informants said.

The fighting has sent refugees fleeing into neighboring Cambodia. About 2,000 have arrived in that neutral country. Some complained that the Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam persecuted them by night and the government persecuted them by day.

The Viet Cong rebels are supported by Communist North Viet Nam and operate with the help of supplies filtering down from the north via the jungles of neighboring Laos, itself involved in a civil war between pro-Western and Communist-supported troops.

Until the political campaign got under way in South Viet Nam last month, the Viet Cong staged mostly hit-and-run raids.

The ancient city of Troy was built on the top of eight other cities. The first city dated back to the late Stone Age.

Hitler's Ghost Will Cast Shadow This Year With Publication Of Second Book

By REIMAR ALLERDT

MUNICH (UPI) — For many West Germans the haunting shadow of Adolf Hitler will never quite fade away despite the reports of historians that the fuehrer died in the rubbte of his empire 15 years ago.

The ghost of the man who brought the world as much misery as any plague will cast its shadow again this year through the familiar tortured prose of a second book he wrote, but chose not to publish.

In other times the book would have had the makings of a sensation. But in Germany, where the public has been reliving the past it would rather forget—in brutal film, documentaries, educational radio programs, books and television—Hitler's "Weltanschaung" is expected to have little interest to the man on the street.

The book will be entitled "Hitler's Second Book," a title chosen by the staid Munich Institute for Contemporary History which plans to publish it in late spring or summer.

"Mein Kampf" was Hitler's first and only so-far published book. It became the National Socialist bible, required reading for ambitious party members and a book that even non-party Germans found it wise to have on their book shelves before and during the war.

Few understood the twisted prose of "Mein Kampf" and reviewers who have obtained a glimpse of the fuehrer's second book report it is no improvement.

It is the 324-page manuscript Hitler dictated to his personal secretary in 1925 when he was but a drop in the political whirlpool that later enguifed the world.

Shortly after Hitler completed "Mein Kampf" he secretly began laying down his thoughts on foreign policy in another book he planned as supplement to his first.

Over the course of a year the manuscript grew, but having completed it, Hitler apparently made no move to publish it.

Institute officials said Albert Zoller, a French liaison officer to the U.S. Army, first mentioned its existence in a book he wrote about Hitler after World War II.

In 1951, the institute took up the hunt in earnest. Documents were examined and researchers questioned persons who might know what happened to the manuscript. The first break came when Josef Berg, former section chief of the Nazi publishing house, told the institute the manuscript had been stored in secrecy and later confiscated by an American officer in 1945.

In the United States, Gerhard L. Weinberg, professor at Chicago University, had started a similar search for the book. He and Dr. Hermann Mau, then director of the institute, finally found the manuscript buried among other captured documents in the National Archives in Washington. Typing errors showed that the book had been dictated directly into the typewriter of Hitler's secretary.

Tydings Takes Oath

BALTIMORE (AP)—Joseph D. Tydings Wednesday accepted the second Maryland reward from President Kennedy for help in last year's successful campaign by being sworn in as United States attorney for the state.

Former Baltimore Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro was the first Marylander to reap a Kennedy reward. He was sworn in as a member of the federal renegotiation board last Thursday.

Tydings, a month away from his 33rd birthday, took the oath in a federal court room crowded by 300 friends and politicians.

Seated conspicuously behind Tydings was Joseph A. Curnane who had been on-the-scene liaison man for Kennedy in last year's elections in Maryland. Tydings had been a Kennedy contact between Democratic organizations in Delaware and Florida.

Tydings resigned from the Maryland House of Delegates during his second term to become U. S. attorney. He represented Harford County in the House.

After his commission of office from President Kennedy was read, Tydings referred to another Kennedy.

"It will be particularly pleasurable to serve under the administration of Robert Francis Kennedy," Tydings said. Robert is attorney general of the United States.

Tydings was welcomed "into the official circle which administers federal law in Maryland" by Chief District Judge Roszel C. Thomsen. Flanking him on the bench were Judges R. Dorsey Watkins and Calvin W. Chesnut.

Tydings was presented to the court by Bernard J. Flynn, who served under Democratic administrations as federal attorney for Maryland for 19 years.

"While young in years, he has shown great ability," said Flynn of Tydings. "He grew up in an atmosphere of public service of the highest tradition."

Flynn was referring to the recently deceased Millard S. Tydings, father of the new federal official. The elder Tydings had served 24 years in the U. S. Senate.

Accidents Kill Five Persons In Maryland

By The Associated Press

Accidents claimed five lives in Maryland Tuesday night and Wednesday, two of them on highways.

A coal miner died in an Allegany County mine Wednesday when a ton of coal and rock slid off a conveyor where he was working. The victim, Leo Wilt, 34, of Lonaconing, was crushed to death inside a mine of the W.W. Coal Co. one mile east of Barton, Md.

On the Eastern Shore, the body of a Talbot County waterman was recovered from the water of Knapps Narrows Wednesday at Tilghman, Md. The victim was Nadelle Larry Sinclair, 57.

Mrs. Carrie Cunningham Smith, 66, of Sudlersville, Queen Annes County, was fatally injured Tuesday night in a collision two miles west of Annapolis on U.S. 50.

William J. Herrschaft, 22-year-old sailor at the Patuxent Naval Air Station, was killed in another Tuesday night collision on Maryland 235 two miles north of Lexington Park, St. Marys County.

Maryland News In Brief

PRESTON, Md. (AP)—A tank of propane gas exploded Tuesday night, setting off a fire which destroyed a $12,000 chicken house and 7,200 baby chicks.

The explosion, felt as far away as seven miles, blew out windows in the farmhouse of the man who owned the chickens, J. Baird Corlett of near Harmony, Caroline County. The chicken farm is about nine miles south of Denton.

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — If you own a swimming pool and less than two acres of land in Baltimore County, you have to build a fence with a gate around the pool.

The Baltimore County Council enacted the law Tuesday over a veto. Christian H. Kahl, county executive officer, had vetoed the ordinance on the grounds it was arbitrary "and an unwarranted invasion of private property rights."

BALTIMORE (AP)—Charles R. Anderson, chief of the State Roads Commission's landscape section, has been appointed to a roadside development committee of the Highway Research Board.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Was it friend or foe who filched the picture? That was the question Wednesday in Baltimore political circles.

Someone took an almost life-sized picture of Philip H. Goodman, city council president, from a wall of the Southwestern Democratic Club headquarters.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Poole & Kent Co. of Baltimore Wednesday was awarded an $853,500 contract to air-condition federal office building No. 4 at Suitland, Md.

Other contracts announced by the General Services Administration, covering repairs and improvements to federal buildings, included:

The shovel was presented by Congressman E. Y. Berry, R-S.D., on behalf of Republican Gov. Archie M. Gubbrud.

Similar shovels went to each state governor to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the formation of the Dakota Territory.

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Maryland's new 14-minute promotional film, "This Is Maryland," has been released by the Department of Economic Development.

The color release is available for viewing by schools, churches, civic and social groups as well as industrial prospects, the department said.

Groups seeking bookings may write to the department of economic development here.

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, will open the fifth Navy Science Symposium here with an address on April 18.

Some 500 civilian scientists and military officers are expected to attend the symposium, the theme of which will be "Naval Research."

A total of 84 technical presentations will be made on subjects dealing with fields of Navy scientific interest at the session, which will continue through April 20.

Six Mags Obscene; Five Stores Fined

BALTIMORE (AP)—A criminal court judge held Wednesday that six specific girlie magazines were obscene. Operators of five Baltimore bookstores where the magazines were sold were fined a total of $1,000 and costs.

The ruling was contained in a three - paragraph decision by Judge Anselm Sodaro, who imposed the fines of $200 on each of the five stores.

Six individuals were named in grand jury indictments returned last Dec. 19, including two men associated with one bookstore. One defendant faced two charges, the second involving the sale of a set of striptease photographs.

The magazines and the set of pictures were purchased by plain-clothes police officers last Dec. 9 in a move to test laws concerning obscene literature. The case was heard March 20 and Judge Sodaro's decision announced after a review of written arguments submitted by prosecuting and defense attorneys.

Medical Care, Park Planning Occupy Board

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Board of Public Works moved Wednesday to implement the wishes of the recent legislature in two areas —medical care to the aged and state park planning.

At its regular monthly meting, the board approved immediate action in the care of aged from funds presently available to the Department of Health and appropriated $20,000 to get park planning underway.

Gov. Tawes has included $2.3 million in his budget to virtually double the state's present efforts in health services for the needy aged.

The governor's program will include some 8,000 more people over 65 by relaxing the income requirements for medical, drug, dental and eyeglass care. It will be financed on a 50-50 basis with the federal government.

Funds to finance the program will not become available from the state's fiscal 1962 budget until July 1.

The board's action insures no delay in the program by making use of money already appropriated to the Department of Health.

The $20,000 parks item arose from a resolution introduced by four members of the House calling for the Department of Forest and Parks to prepare a comprehensive master plan for state parks in cooperation with the state planning department.

While the board approved the expenditure, it said no action will be taken on engaging a consultant until the committee is appointed. Gov. Tawes said he would proceed with the group's appointment as soon as possible.

In another action, the board appropriated $9,500 for the State Civil War Centennial Commission to cover expenses by the Antietam-South Mountain Centennial Association Inc.

Negro Appointed To Treasury Post

Westerfield, 41, a Negro, is dean of the school of business administration at Atlanta University.

Bankers' Cruise Liner Docks

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Hanseatic, largest liner in the West German merchant marine, arrived in Baltimore Wednesday to take bankers and their families on an eight-day Caribbean cruise.

The ship is the largest ever to sail from Baltimore. The $20 million liner is longer than two football fields. As she approached the port, her mast cleared the Chesapeake Bay Bridge — which is 186 feet above the main channel—by only 11 feet.

The ship was chartered for the 65th annual convention of the Maryland Bankers Association. She was known as the Empress of Scotland until 1958.

The bankers plan to hold their business sessions aboard the ship. There will be stops at Nassau and Jamaica before the return to Baltimore April 13.

NEW YORK (AP)—A leading investment counseling firm glanced two years ahead Tuesday and sketched a rosy picture of stock investment prospects.

It saw a rise of almost 50 per cent in stock market values for industrial issues by some time in 1963.

Arthur Weisenberger & Co. subtitled its ambitious, 12-page study "Kennedy As a Market Influence," and proceeded to apply the New Frontiers philosophy to the market's future.

The analysis mixed charts, graphs and other elaborate statistical measures of past performance with scholarly observations on investor emotions and the reaction of the "mass mind."

What then did the crystal ball disclose? For one thing, prospects for a great and continuing wave of investor enthusiasm.

For another, it suggested the paradox that the new administration's liberal policies—with their strong emphasis on growth—will do more for a lot of American corporations than the presumably conservative Eisenhower regime.

The Weisenberger report found it encouraging rather than the reverse that stocks used in compiling the Dow-Jones industrial average sold last year at over 3(times earnings.

It concluded that apparently stock prices rose to this level because they are discounting an upward trend of earnings and dividends over coming years.

The report ended with a section captioned "Rockets Away" which sounded this final note:

"In recent years, rampant technology, expanding social concepts and exploding political boundaries have wrought rapid, great and far-reaching changes for ill, as well as good, in many groups and individual issues.

"Some old industries and corporations have been backed to the wall to fight for their lives, while new industries and corporations, like Athena from the head of Zeus, spring forth full-grown.

"The essence of life is change and the essence of investment success lies in capitalizing on change."

NEW YORK (UPI) —American women now are making their social life pay off—in cash.

They're joining investment clubs. In some communities the financial wheeling and dealing is taking the place of ye olde bridge club.

Thomas E. O'Hara, chairman of the National Association of Investment Clubs (NAIC) reports that women soon will make up 25 per cent of investor club membership nationwide.

"In 1960 the feminine club ratio spurted to 21 per cent, up from 10 per cent as recently as 1958," O'Hara said.

Investment club members throughout the United States today number more than 350,000. O'Hara predicts this summer will swell to five million in a few years—with the help of enthusiastic females.

O'Hara's association has just launched a drive to acquaint more Americans with the benefits of group investing.

He said many women join or form investment clubs at the suggestion of husbands.

O'Hara cited Mrs. L. N. Rugee, of South Bend, Ind., as one such active club organizer. Her husband spurred her initial interest in investment clubs. He told her: man's average life span is shorter than woman's.

"Since Mr. Rugee had spent most of his life accumulating money for his family, he wanted Mrs. Rugee to know how to manage it intelligently," the NAIC official said.

"In many cases, members learn from each other. Frequently members provide one another with highly qualified guidance."

Two members of Chicago's Gold Coast Clippers investment club, Helen McLane and Pat Hutar, started a profitable sideline. They now conduct classes on investing for paying pupils.

"Since most investment groups seek the modest investor, recruiting is no problem," O'Hara said. Some of the women invest just $1.25 a week.

Margaret Schau, a broker and mother of five boys, spearheaded a number of clubs in southwestern Michigan. She now conducts quarterly educational meetings, usually attended by more than 200 persons.

Russ May Help Egypt Build Nuclear Reactor

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)—Egypt is considering acceptance of Soviet aid to build a nuclear reactor, according to a Lebanese technological leader.

Shukri Hanna Shammas, who is attending the Massachusetts Institute of Technology centennial celebration, said Soviet and Egyptian leaders have drafted plans for the reactor.

He said the action was prompted by construction of an Israeli reactor. Israel has said it plans to use the reactor only for peaceful purposes.

Da Vinci's 'Lost' Work Exhibited

NEW YORK (UPI)—The public got its first view Tuesday of a privately owned painting identified by an expert on Leonardo Da Vinci as the master's "lost" painting of Amerigo Vespucci, the Italian navigator for whom America was named.

The painting is owned by a veteran New York art restorer, who prefers to remain anonymous. He displayed the work at the Overseas Press Club but announced through a spokesman that it was not for sale.

The only accepted Da Vinci in a private collection is the "Head of a Woman" owned by Prince Franz Josef II of Liechtenstein and according to reports it is on the market for $5 million. A controversial "Mona Lisa," which may have been painted earlier than the famous one in the Louvre Museum in Paris, is offered for sale by a New York family for $1 million.

Pilgrimage Inspired By Martyred Priest

CHICAGO (UPI)—An Irish martyred priest who lived more than 300 years ago has inspired the first jet-age pilgrimage from Chicago to Drogheda in Ireland.

Forty-five members of the League of Prayer for the Canonization of Blessed Oliver Plunkett will make the pilgrimage, to seek the elevation of Plunkett to sainthood.

Irish-born Donal Collins, who organized the world-wide league over six years ago, Tuesday announced completion of plans for the jet-borne pilgrimage, scheduled to depart Chicago July 7 and arrive in Ireland July 8. It represents the high-point of Collins' 17-year campaign to canonize the onetime primate of Ireland.

Gets Lifetime Post

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dr. Earl H. Wood, 49, of Rochester, Minn., Wednesday was named to the lifetime post of Career Investigator by the American Heart Association.

The award will enable Wood, a physiology expert working with the Mayo Clinic and Mayo Foundation of the University of Minnesota, to work on research problems of his own choice "with a maximum of freedom from routine duties," the association said.

Cites Spending

HONG KONG (UPI)—A West German official said Tuesday his nation already is spending more than the one per cent of national income suggested by the United States to help underdeveloped lands.

Wilger Von Scherpenberg, deputy foreign minister, said the West German figure for this purpose is 1.2 per cent of the national income.

Pusan, Korea's No. 2 City, Has Acute Problems

By SAMUEL KIM

PUSAN, Korea (UPI) —Pusan is one of a few cities in Korea that was not directly hit by the Korean War. But the war brought many problems to this sprawling port city.

The war-time capital of Korea, Pusan is over-populated, filthy and full of refugees and people without jobs.

With a population of 1.2 million, it is, after Seoul, the second largest city of South Korea. But Pusan is designed for only 400,000.

The over-population is a direct result of the Korean War, which began in 1950 and ended in an armistice in 1953.

After the war broke out, thousands upon thousands of refugees poured into this southern port city. It was the last major city held by the United Nations and Republic of Korea forces against the advancing North Korean troops in the summer of 1950.

At the height of the fighting, the population swelled to the peak of 1.5 million.

After the war ended, many of the refugees returned to their homes. But nearly a half-million stayed. Most were from North Korea and had no place to go.

The result: The city now suffers from an acute shortage of water, housing and jobs.

Out of 190,000 families living in Pusan, 70,000 have no homes of their own, according to city authorities. Many of them live in canvas-covered crate-wood shacks built in clusters on hill slopes.

Many families have to buy water by the bucket (4 cents for a five-gallon bucket) from water peddlers.

The city government estimates that one-sixth of the city population is unemployed or underemployed.

Pusan is also a city of tragedies.

A year hardly passes in Pusan without a large-scale fire, typhoon or traffic accident that brings heavy casualties or leaves thousands of people homeless.

In 1960 alone, 63 girl workers were burned to death in a factory fire. Nearly a dozen other Pusan residents were killed, more than a score injured and nearly 20,000 left homeless by Typhoon Carmen last August.

Mental Patients Drop

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Department of Mental Hygiene has saved $30 million since 1955 as a result of a decline in the number of patients at mental hospitals, a spokesman said Wednesday.

Kurt Gorwitz, chief statistician of the department, attributed the reduced number of patients at the five state hospitals to improved treatment and facilities and new drugs.

Bethlehem Fires More Furnaces

BALTIMORE (AP)—Bethlehem Steel Co.'s Sparrows Point plant, the largest steel plant in the world, announced Tuesday it was firing up two more of its idle open hearth furnaces.

The two furnaces will bring to 28 the number of open hearths in operation at the plant. Seven others are idle.

The return of furnaces to operation reflects a recent increase in steel orders, a plant spokesman said. Bethlehem did not say how many workers would be recalled for the increased work load, but several hundred were believed necessary to maintain the furnaces.

At peak production, Sparrows Point employs 30,000. Nearly 6,000 were furloughed during the recent recession.

Bethlehem plants at Bethlehem, Pa., and Buffalo, N. Y., also have reported increased production.

Change Of Heart

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Pretty Posture Means A Prettier You

The mother or aunt who tells a child to "stand up straight" had the best of intentions. But it's the wrong thing to do. That command accounts for the major portion of awkward postures since, in a child's mind, "straight" usually means "stiff." And stiffness is something to avoid, not encourage. It has no part in either correct or graceful stance.

In the first place, standing stiffly erect is uncomfortable. Since the muscles have to work overtime to maintain such a position, they soon let you know about it with cramps, twinges and fatigue. Secondly, tautness is so unnatural for the body that serious strains on the joints and ligaments ensue—strains that are difficult to overcome in later life.

I realize that you can't caution a child to "stand relaxed." "Relaxed" and "limp" mean the same to youngsters. Yet, relaxation is the keynote to perfect and beautiful carriage in its naturally correct position.

Even a child can recognize the difference between good posture and stiff posture, if you put him or her through these paces:

Line up the body with the weight on the balls of the feet, knees flexed, abdominal muscles pulled in and buttock muscles pulled down, waist retracted, chest held high, shoulders released to normal level and head posed skyward.

Try it yourself and you'll see that the front and back of your body are in balance, relieved of all strain. The body is neither stiff nor limp, but erect and relaxed.

If you have a sub-deb in your family, show her how it's done. Set an example for her to follow.

When she slips, say, "Stand naturally." She will develop into a posture beauty—and what is more important to her health, assurance, and charm?

Fan Mail Pours In To Caroline

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Caroline Kennedy has been getting so much fan mail she may have to hire a secretary.

The President's 3-year-old daughter receives about 100 letters a week, according to her mother's press secretary, Pamela Turnure. Most of them are from children who have read or heard about her.

The letters, unlike some occasionally received by her parents from dissident elements, all are flattering.

Caroline's correspondence has been handled so far by Mrs. Kennedy's social secretary, Letitia Baldrige. The letter writers often receive an answer on White House stationery which goes something like this: "Mrs. Kennedy has asked me to thank you for your nice letter."

Presents also pour in to the presidential mansion for the President's daughter, despite White House attempts to discourage gift givers. The policy is to send the presents to an orphanage for needy children.

County Doctor Continues Duties

Dr. James E. McLean, who has been county physician for some years, has been hired under contract to continue his duties.

He has reached the mandatory retirement age of 70 years and the board decided to contract for his services at an annual salary of $5,280.

Commissioner John T. Mason voted against the proposal stating there were a number of younger doctors in the county who should be considered for the position. Commissioners John J. Rowan and William A. Wilson voted for the contract.

Boston Preparing For Strangest U.S. Race

By DICK DEW

BOSTON (UPI) — A disgusted American track coach returned from the 1896 Olympics in Athens to launch what has become perhaps the strangest annual U.S. athletic competition — the Boston Marathon.

It is unlikely that John Graham of Boston, the man credited with founding the Hopkinton to Boston road race, envisioned today's version which, on April 19, will attract up to 200 distance runners in a road race appropriately entitled the "United Nations on Blisters."

And certainly Graham never anticipated that foreign emissaries would almost completely dominate the 26-mile, 385-yard run. Such, however, has been the case. Only one U. S. national, schoolteacher John J. Kelley of Groton, Conn., has broken through the bunion barrier established over the past 16 years by invading pedestrians.

Hasn't Explained Reasons

No entry in the race, traditionally run on Patriot's Day, has ever successfully explained his reasons for taking part in the punishing pavement assault.

First prize consists of a locally-produced laurel wreath, a diamond-studded medal about the size of a healthy shirt button, and a bowl of what if fondly, though inaccurately, described as Boston's favorite food, beef stew.

The 65th annual road race later this month will begin at noon in the hilly suburban village of Hopkinton. The temperature will vary somewhere between 20 and 80 degrees. The wind will be either head or tail — and sometimes both — and will either help or hinder the runners. The point is that weather notwithstanding, the race will be run April 19, even if they have to plow back a late New England snowstorm to do it.

Very little can happen to the winner that hasn't happened to at least one of his predecessors. A near certainty, however, will be that he won't be able to speak English and the reportorial force massed at the finish line will rely on the victor's new-found friends for a second, third or even fourth-hand account of his experience, the condition of his feet and his plans for the future.

Kelley's Was 1957

Finnish runners have finished first the past two years. In 1958 it was a Czech. Kelley's year was 1957. Prior to that, in order, the victors were from Finland, Japan, Finland, Japan, Guatemala, Japan, Korea, Sweden, Canada and Korea.

The Marathon, which annually is sponsored by Boston Garden owners and sports promoter Walter Brown at a considerable loss, almost became a victim of progress. When originally established, it began on a picturesque hillside which was part of Luck Rock Farm in Hopkinton.

The race route followed a series of suburban streets and ended in Boston's Back Bay section. Street construction over the years, however, had straightened a lot of highway. In 1957, someone remembered to measure the course, and found it lacking 1,187 yards.

Race officials overcame that obstacle by pushing back the starting line and announcing that the winner's (Kelley's) time was the new and proper record for the corrected course. Last year's winner, Paavo Kotila of Finland, did the distance in 2:20:54.

Has Had Pecularities

Over the years, the Marathon has had more than its share of peculiarities. One winner trained all year on snowshoes and considered his victory without them as "pleasant exercise."

Another, Indian runner Tom Longboat, won the 1907 race by beating a freight train to a grade crossing. The rest of the runners had to wait until the train had passed.

In 1948, a Chinese entry wore a suit covered with money. Attached were bills worth millions in China. The U.S. value was estimated in the vicinity of $7.98.

The 1917 winner rode the rods (beneath a freight car) from Chicago a few weeks before the race, borrowed $10 and worked as a bricklayer. A man named Chuck Mellor won in 1925 and struck the prohibitionists a bitter blow. He trained by drinking beer and rye and swallowing chewing tobacco to "warm my innards."

Business Tax Credit Plan By JFK Hinted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Budget Director David E. Bell said Tuesday that "one type or another" of tax incentive plan to stimulate business expansion will be proposed by the Kennedy administration in a few days.

Bell addressed the Commerce Department's Business Advisory Council, composed of top industry executives.

He hinted that President Kennedy's special tax message to Congress, expected later this week, may include a proposal for tax credits designed to encourage expansion and modernization of business plants.

Many Germans Having Nightmares Over Eichmann Trial

By WELLINGTON LONG

BONN, Germany (UPI) — The trial of Adolf Eichmann in Israel is giving nightmares to many a German these days.

Trials of Nazi smaller fry in West Germany in recent years regularly have turned up evidence against persons who had re-established themselves in the community.

His trial is expected as well to have considerable influence on two large atrocity-murder trials, involving a number of Eichmann's Nazi underlings, now being prepared.

Many also will be watching Eichmann's trial for revelations about Hans Globke, secretary of state to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, who wrote some of the legal commentary on the Nazi racial laws. But this official's past is known. He worked for the British after the war, and Adenauer, who hated the Nazis as they hated him, has kept him on despite allegations against him, largely arising in Communist East Germany and without substantial evidence.

Involved Denial

The fellows doing the most worrying are persons of less prominence. From time to time in recent years, reporters and diplomats have become aware that a federal official has been quietly bumped down the promotions list or demoted a grade or two because he lied about his past. As a rule this has involved the official's denial, years ago, that he had ever been a member of any Nazi auxiliary organization and his unmasking through the evidence in Nazi files.

At Nuernberg, almost 15 years after the convictions of the 22 top surviving Nazis by an international court, the same Palace of Justice court room still is the scene of regular reviews of Germany's evil past.

"My gods sat there," cried former S. S. Gen. Erich von dem Bach-Zielewski during his 1961 trial, gesturing toward the empty dock where Hermann Goering and company heard the judgment of their conquerors on Sept. 30, 1946.

His is one of 396 cases turned over to courts throughout West Germany since 1959 by the Central Bureau of State Justice Ministries for the Investigation of National Socialist Crimes. An equal number still are in the investigation stage.

Bach-Zielewski is charged with a murder he allegedly ordered in the name of the Nazi Party 27 years ago, on the morning of July 2, 1934. His role in the crushing of the 1944 Warsaw rebellion will be subject for a future trial, if the 61-year-old former general lives that long.

The statute of limitations on Nazi murders runs out in 1965 and the West German government is pushing for prosecution well before that date of two huge groups described as the "Einsatz complex" and the "Auschwitz complex." The first involves the slaughter of thousands in Nazi-occupied countries by Einsatz or Shock troopers, the second, involves more than 60 persons, and the deaths of 50,000 Jews in the Auschwitz death camp.

Bormann Heads List

And there still is a sizable wanted list of known Nazi ring leaders, who may or may not be living. At the head of the list is Hitler's last deputy, Martin Bormann, who has been rumored to have escaped the bunker in which Hitler died and perhaps still be alive somewhere in the world. None of the conflicting rumors about him has been confirmed, and Bormann's son, a Roman Catholic monk, says he believes his father is dead.

Similar rumors that Heinrich Mueller, former Gestapo head, was living under an alias in Europe, have largely been discounted by West German officials. The search still continues, however, for Dr. Josef Mengele, who allegedly "scientifically" murdered inmates at the Buchenwald concentration camp. He was last reported to have fled from Argentina to Brazil after Eichmann's capture in Argentina last year.

Paying particular attention to the testimony in Israel will be Eichmann's former aide, former S. S. Col. Herman Krumey, 55, who has twice been freed for lack of evidence on charges he participated in Auschwitz atrocities. He now lives and operates a drug store in Korbach.

Others Named

Others facing trials related to the Eichmann case include:

Former S.S. Maj. Richard Baer, last commandant at Auschwitz, who was captured last December after living for 15 years on the estate of a German prince in North Germany. His two predecessors as commandant of the death camp were tried and executed in Poland.

Another Eichmann aide, Franz Novak, was arrested in Vienna, Jan. 28, 1961, a few days after a $2,400 reward was offered for his apprehension.

Friedrich Wilhelm Boger, another former Auschwitz official, is awaiting trial on charges he murdered Jews with a torture he invented which bears his name.

Dr. Hugo Berger, another Eichmann aide to be tried with the Auschwitz group, is charged with having killed 155 Jews for his "skeleton collection."

Karl Chmielewski, 57, former head of the Mauthausen concentration camp, went on trial Feb. 7 on charges he participated in killing hundreds of persons who were herded into concrete chambers and sprayed with ice cold water until they were frozen or drowned.

Kennedy Won't Take Rocker To France

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said Wednesday he knows of no plans for President Kennedy to pack along his rocking chair when he visits France late next month.

"I'm sure there will be plenty of rockers available in France," Salinger said with a laugh.

He commented in response to a newsman who said a number of reports had been published in France to the effect that Kennedy would be bringing the rocker which had been prescribed for him by his personal physician, Dr. Janet Travell, for office-type exercise.

Kennedy Satisfies Mac's Curiosity

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A curious Prime Minister Harold Macmillan asked President Kennedy Wednesday a question about White House aerial communications.

"Where does your helicopter land?" the prime minister said.

"Right over there," Kennedy replied, pointing toward an area of the White House lawn just beyond the putting green.

Then the two men, who had been posing for pictures, entered the White House to discuss Laos.

City Files Suit

COLLINSVILLE, Ill. (UPI)—Residents feel it's about time they stopped paying a 3.15 cent tax to retire a bond issue which has been fully retired since 1958.

The only catch is, the tax will continue to be levied until the enbaling ordinance is killed. The city filed suit Tuesday to eliminate the ordinance.

Many Germans Having Nightmares Over Eichmann Trial

By WELLINGTON LONG

Trials of Nazi smaller fry in West Germany in recent years regularly have turned up evidence against persons who had re-established themselves in the community.

His trial is expected as well to have considerable influence on two large atrocity-murder trials, involving a number of Eichmann's Nazi underlings, now being prepared.

Many also will be watching Eichmann's trial for revelations about Hans Globke, secretary of state to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, who wrote some of the legal commentary on the Nazi racial laws. But this official's past is known. He worked for the British after the war, and Adenauer, who hated the Nazis as they hated him, has kept him on despite allegations against him, largely arising in Communist East Germany and without substantial evidence.

Involved Denial

The fellows doing the most worrying are persons of less prominence. From time to time in recent years, reporters and diplomats have become aware that a federal official has been quietly bumped down the promotions list or demoted a grade or two because he lied about his past. As a rule this has involved the official's denial, years ago, that he had ever been a member of any Nazi auxiliary organization and his unmasking through the evidence in Nazi files.

At Nuernberg, almost 15 years after the convictions of the 22 top surviving Nazis by an international court, the same Palace of Justice court room still is the scene of regular reviews of Germany's evil past.

"My gods sat there," cried former S. S. Gen. Erich von dem Bach-Zielewski during his 1961 trial, gesturing toward the empty dock where Hermann Goering and company heard the judgment of their conquerors on Sept. 30, 1946.

His is one of 396 cases turned over to courts throughout West Germany since 1959 by the Central Bureau of State Justice Ministries for the Investigation of National Socialist Crimes. An equal number still are in the investigation stage.

Bach-Zielewski is charged with a murder he allegedly ordered in the name of the Nazi Party 27 years ago, on the morning of July 2, 1934. His role in the crushing of the 1944 Warsaw rebellion will be subject for a future trial, if the 61-year-old former general lives that long.

The statute of limitations on Nazi murders runs out in 1965 and the West German government is pushing for prosecution well before that date of two huge groups described as the "Einsatz complex" and the "Auschwitz complex." The first involves the slaughter of thousands in Nazi-occupied countries by Einsatz or Shock troopers, the second, involves more than 60 persons, and the deaths of 50,000 Jews in the Auschwitz death camp.

Bormann Heads List

And there still is a sizable wanted list of known Nazi ring leaders, who may or may not be living. At the head of the list is Hitler's last deputy, Martin Bormann, who has been rumored to have escaped the bunker in which Hitler died and perhaps still be alive somewhere in the world. None of the conflicting rumors about him has been confirmed, and Bormann's son, a Roman Catholic monk, says he believes his father is dead.

Similar rumors that Heinrich Mueller, former Gestapo head, was living under an alias in Europe, have largely been discounted by West German officials. The search still continues, however, for Dr. Josef Mengele, who allegedly "scientifically" murdered inmates at the Buchenwald concentration camp. He was last reported to have fled from Argentina to Brazil after Eichmann's capture in Argentina last year.

Paying particular attention to the testimony in Israel will be Eichmann's former aide, former S. S. Col. Herman Krumey, 55, who has twice been freed for lack of evidence on charges he participated in Auschwitz atrocities. He now lives and operates a drug store in Korbach.

Program Sunday To Dedicate Hospital Equipment In Honor Of Legionnaire

Dedication of improvements in the pediatrics department at Memorial Hospital donated by the American Legion and Voiture 164, Forty and Eight, in memory of Samuel A. Graham Sr., will be held Sunday at 1:30 p. m. in the hospital.

Graham, who died in March 1959, is being recognized in the gift to the hospital for his many years in Legion child welfare work on a local district, state and national level.

He was originally appointed on the Maryland Department Child Welfare Commission in 1948 and was elected chairman in 1951. He resigned in 1956 due to ill health.

During the time he served on the department level, he also was on the National Legion Child Welfare Commission and on the National Education and Scholarship Commission as member from Maryland.

The dedication of the new beds and equipment for the children's section of the local hospital will begin with invocation by Rev. Jacob H. Snyder, pastor of Kingsley Methodist Church.

Introduced will be John W. Sloan, native member of Fort Cumberland Post 13 and past state commander of the Legion, along with the following:

Vernon H. Randall, state welfare commission chairman; Albert M. Kerns Jr., Post 13 commander; Dr. William R. Allen, child welfare chairman for Post 13; Russell C. Paupe, veteran Post 13 adjutant.

Paul C. Weisenmiller, child welfare chairman for Cumberland Voiture 164; Jonas E. McKenzie, Grantsville, commander of Mountain District; Harold W. Davis, chef de gare of Voiture 164, and Thomas B. Finan, attorney general of Maryland and past commander of Post 13.

Randall Shake, director of the Legion's National Child Welfare Commission, who worked with Graham on the national unit, will speak.

Also, remarks will be made by Paul C. H. Griffith, native of Uniontown and past national commander, who was in Cumberland in 1946 when Graham was commander of Post 13. That year the state convention was held here and the Samuel A. Graham Class of over 500 Legionnaires, largest in Post 13 history, was initiated.

The presentation will be made by Edward L. Walmsley, state commander, and the acceptance will be by John A. Moberly, superintendent of the hospital, and Dr. Carleton Brinsfield, president of the hospital staff.

Rev. Mr. Snyder will give the benediction.

'TWAS FINE FOR FLUID DRIVE—Police are not sure whether she was launching a drive or driving a launch, but anyhow Marlene Pendleton is waving from her Amphicar as it makes its way across Central Park Lake, New York. Strolling crowds rubbed their eyes and rowboats pulled over until they learned that Miss Pendleton was making a test of the amphibious vehicle from West Germany before it is displayed at the International Auto Show at New York's Coliseum. However, traffic police came cruising up and informed her that she would face fines for two violations—one for driving in the park footpath and another for using the vehicle in the lake.

New Quarters Requested For Westernport Court

New quarters for trial magistrates court in Westernport are sorely needed, James S. Getty, state's attorney, informed the Board of Allegany County Commissioners.

He said there has been located a larger and more suitable court room space at a very nominal increase in rent.

He said he had tried a number of cases in Westernport and had found the present facilities inadequate.

There is no room for separation of witnesses or for private consultation and the building is in poor repair.

A complaint filed by a resident of the Old Hancock Road, informed the commissioners that one property owner was building a fence so close to the road that it would make it one-way.

Samuel D. Maxey, who said he lived there since 1923, said most of the road which leads off Mt. Pleasant Road, is one-way at best, except for some passing zones.

He said a year ago the commissioners approved widening the road, but to date nothing has been heard from the Roads Department.

The matter was referred to the supervisor of the Roads Department, Harry Skelly.

The commissioners also were informed by Skelly that he had supplied First Federal Savings and Loan Company with the list of specifications required so that a road can be taken into the county system.

Official Cites Boat Number Regulations

Since boating will be coming into its own during the next few months, those who purchase a boat that has already been registered in Maryland are reminded that the numbers originally assigned to that vessel will remain with it when the ownership is changed.

William B. Matthews Jr. director of the Boating and Recreation Division, Department of Tidewater Fisheries, said many people are buying boats already registered in Maryland and applying for a certificate of number for a new boat.

"We again ask the people of Maryland to cooperate when they purchase a boat that has already been registered, by letting us know the boat's number when applying for a certificate in their name," he said.

Mr. Matthews pointed out the department has circulated over 10,000 forms, known as "Form BR 2" which should be used when a registered boat is sold. The bottom part of Form BR 2 is a temporary certificate for the new owner so that he may use the boat immediately and the Department sends the new owner an application for a permanent certificate when it receives the notice from the seller.

Mr. Matthews said, "It is the obligation of the seller to notify the department of this transfer of ownership, and as a matter of fact, those who do not are violating one of the regulations of the Boat Act.

"We do not desire to invoke this provision of the regulation, as we realize the Boat Act is new and it will take several years to have things run smoothly. Therefore, we are asking the cooperation of the people of Maryland."

Convention Set During Cruise

Marcus A. Naughton, president of the Cumberland Savings Bank, and two other area bankers, sailed yesterday from Baltimore for an eight-day cruise to the British West Indies.

The cruise aboard the Hanseatic was arranged by the Maryland Bankers Association for its annual convention, with business sessions scheduled to take place aboard the liner.

Also making the trip are Charles J. Laughlin, cashier of Citizens National Bank of Westernport, and Frank L. McDaniel, cashier of First National Bank of Oakland.

Mrs. Naughton, Mrs. Laughlin and Mrs. McDaniel will accompany their husbands.

One pair of horseflies and their progeny, if all survived, could produce 191 quintillion flies in a season.

Catholic Scouts Plan Annual Retreat

The Catholic Activities Committee of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, will again sponsor a religious retreat for Scouts.

Paul Diehl, retreat director, said the three-day program will be held April 21, 22 and 23 at Camp Potomac, near Oldtown.

Final arrangements for the affair were discussed at a meeting of the Catholic Activities Committee last night at SS. Peter and Paul Hall.

Diehl said approximately 150 Scouts and 40 adults are expected to attend this year's retreat. Last year there were 112 in attendance.

Rev. Regis Larkin, assistant pastor of St. Michael's Church of Frostburg, will serve as retreat chaplain for the program.

The Scouts and Explorers will provide their own camping equipment and transportation to the retreat which is scheduled to open Friday, April 21, with services at 5 p. m. The affair will close at 2 p. m. on Sunday.

Diehl also announced that in addition to the religious services, recreational activities are also scheduled for the retreat.

Plans New Motel

Lee Marple has filed application with the city engineer's office for construction of a motel on North Centre Street.

Marple, who presently operates a motel in the 200-block of that street, has informed city officials the proposed construction would adjoin the existing business.

The construction will be on the old Gramlich property, which he has purchased, Marple reports. Cost is estimated at $18,000.

Leadership Course Begins At Y

The second annual course for camp and playground leaders will be given at the Central YMCA with sessions scheduled to begin today at 7 p. m.

Wallace Dow, who directs a camp in New Hampshire each summer for the Boston YMCA, will be the instructor.

The course will include six classes on Thursday nights, and successful students will be assisted in locating summer employment, Dow said.

Subjects to be studied include: Employment prospects for 1961 and the next decade; first steps in leadership; specific skills — What can you do best; resource materials; and demonstration of leadership skill.

A written examination will follow for all students.

Dow said the instruction is open to all residents of Cumberland over 16 years of age. Applicants, he stated, should be able to swim at least 50 yards. The YMCA can arrange instruction for those wishing to learn or improve swimming skills, Dow added.

The bitter pill of hard luck had to be swallowed by the players who held the North hand in a tournament not long ago. The grand slam bid was surely above reproach yet, with 15 tricks apparently in sight, the contract went on the rocks due to the unfortunate trump break.

The bidding given in the diagram above was that employed by some of the players. One player by-passed the obstacle of hard luck by a very well thought out bid. When the opener responded to the forcing take-out with three no trump, North realized South could not possibly have less than ace-King of hearts and ace - queen of clubs plus a value in spades which was probably the queen. There was, therefore, nothing to be gained by making an asking four no trump bid. He decided to bid a grand slam but elected to bid it in no trump. This would afford him two chances. If diamonds proved solid there would be no problem. But, if diamonds failed to break, he would have the added chance that partner might produce enough in the other three suits to bring home 13 tricks.

Against the no trump contract West opened a heart. It looked like clear sailing, but declarer did not make the mistake of trying to run the diamonds first. He led one high diamond just to find out if there were five in one hand. When both followed he cashed the ace and king of spades. If the queen dropped, 13 tricks could be taken without relying on the diamond suit. When the queen refused to fall the hearts were cashed and then the clubs run. North discarded two small diamonds.

As East was called upon to discard on the last club, he held the jack and two diamonds and the queen of spades. If he let go the spade, declarer's jack would become high. If he let go a diamond, dummy could run the remaining three tricks in that suit. In the hope that his partner held the jack of spades he let go the queen, but it was a lost cause.

Hospital Elevators Being Replaced

A $60,000 improvement project was started Tuesday at Memorial Hospital, according to John A. Moberly, superintendent.

Moberly said both of the hospital's elevators are being replaced by the most modern-designed elevators manufactured.

The installation of the elevators, which will be automatic or manually operated, will take six months, Moberly said.

The present elevators have been in continuous operation at the hospital 32 years. The work is being handled by the Otis Company.

Funds for the project are being taken from the hospital's reserve fund, Moberly said.

The bitter pill of hard luck had to be swallowed by the players who held the North hand in a tournament not long ago. The grand slam bid was surely above reproach yet, with 15 tricks apparently in sight, the contract went on the rocks due to the unfortunate trump break.

The bidding given in the diagram above was that employed by some of the players. One player by-passed the obstacle of hard luck by a very well thought out bid. When the opener responded to the forcing take-out with three no trump, North realized South could not possibly have less than ace-King of hearts and ace - queen of clubs plus a value in spades which was probably the queen. There was, therefore, nothing to be gained by making an asking four no trump bid. He decided to bid a grand slam but elected to bid it in no trump. This would afford him two chances. If diamonds proved solid there would be no problem. But, if diamonds failed to break, he would have the added chance that partner might produce enough in the other three suits to bring home 13 tricks.

Against the no trump contract West opened a heart. It looked like clear sailing, but declarer did not make the mistake of trying to run the diamonds first. He led one high diamond just to find out if there were five in one hand. When both followed he cashed the ace and king of spades. If the queen dropped, 13 tricks could be taken without relying on the diamond suit. When the queen refused to fall the hearts were cashed and then the clubs run. North discarded two small diamonds.

As East was called upon to discard on the last club, he held the jack and two diamonds and the queen of spades. If he let go the spade, declarer's jack would become high. If he let go a diamond, dummy could run the remaining three tricks in that suit. In the hope that his partner held the jack of spades he let go the queen, but it was a lost cause.

Background For Trial: Who And What Is Adolf Eichmann?

(EDITOR'S NOTE: What is the background of Adolf Eichmann, the former Nazi official accused of murdering 6-million Jews and now facing trial in Israel? Eichmann's life and career are traced in the following personality spotlight.)

By United Press International

"I was in effect a traveling salesman for the Gestapo, just as I had once been a traveling salesman for an oil company in Austria," Adolf Eichmann was quoted as saying of a trip to Minsk to watch the execution of 5,000 Jews.

"It was impressive to see them all jumping into the pit without offering any resistance whatsoever," he recalled. "Later I found bits of brains splattered on my long leather coat."

Eichmann, now 55, is charged by Israel with being primarily responsible for the horror story that was Nazi Germany's attempt to wipe out European Jewry by mass murder. He also is charged with similarly inhuman treatment of non-Jewish civilians in the wake of the Nazi war march through Europe.

Devoted Hitler Follower

Who is he?

—A cringing, effeminate-appearing man, according to some biographers, fearful of injury to his person and ridden by a feeling of inferiority.

—Sensitive and idealistic, by his own testimony. The father of four sons.

—A carousing conqueror, by other testimony, who once played "firing squad" in a Paris brothel, popping champagne corks at pretty Jewish girls reprieved from a death train to Auschwitz for the pleasure of their persecutors.

"In 1936 he made the impression of a young careerist who was using the 'Jewish problem' as a stepping stone to success," said Dr. Benno Kohn, who first met Eichmann then in Berlin and will testify at his trial. "By 1939 he was an important man, drunk with power. Now, in prison, he is a polite, docile, broken man."

One old Nazi "employment form" shows Eichmann was born in Palestine. Better evidence indicates he was born at Solingen, Germany, March 19, 1906. It has been suggested he gave the false birthplace in an attempt to prove his special fitness for work in the Jewish Bureau of the Nazi police organization.

When he was five, his mother died giving birth to her fourth son, and his father moved the family to Linz, Austria, to the home of a married sister. The father later re-married and fathered two more children. Members of the family still live in Linz, where Eichmann proudly noted that he had the same high school history teacher as his fuehrer, Hitler, who was 19 years his senior.

Not Entirely Clear

The source of the anti-Semitism which propelled Eichmann's career is not entirely clear. It apparently was at no time shared by his family; his father is said to have disowned him before he died after World War II.

Some biographers have suggested that Eichmann had been mistaken for a Jew as a boy and teased and bullied on that basis. It seems likely that he learned his anti-Semitism after he hitched his star in his early 20's to the rising rabble-rouser from his home town.

The Nazi Party from the beginning made the Jews the enemy scapegoat for all German problems. A recent study by the World Jewish Congress notes that the "philosophy" of German superiority and Jewish enmity "had not only to be worked out 'scientifically' but firmly planted in the minds of future 'executioners' by constant and cunning indoctrination and propaganda."

Eichmann himself said in memoirs published in Life magazine this year: "I am no anti-Semite. I was just politically opposed to Jews because they were stealing the breath of life from us."

Was Oil Salesman

In 1925, Eichmann quit school and went to work for an electrical manufacturing company. Two years later he became a salesman for the Vacuum Oil Co., a job he lost in 1933, by some accounts, because of his growing Nazi activity.

He had joined the illegal Austrian Nazi Party in 1931. On losing his job he went to Germany and the following year joined the Nazi S.S., being promoted to its secret police division, the S.D., three months later. His membership in those two organizations and the Gestapo, or secret state police, is listed as a crime in the 15-count Israeli indictment against Eichmann, the only three counts which do not carry the death penalty.

One of his bosses was S.S. chief Reinhard (The Hangman) Heydrich, later assassinated in Czechoslovakia. In retaliation, the Nazis slaughtered and burned off the map the Czech village of Lidice, a crime charged to Eichmann in the Israeli indictment.

Eichmann was put to work studying the Jewish communities of Austria, preparatory to the Nazi takeover of that nation. Late in 1937 he was sent to Palestine, carrying $50,000 in gold to stir up the Arabs against the Jews in what apparently was an attempt to divert world opinion from the scheduled anschluss. British authorities bundled him out of the country less than 24 hours after he arrived.

He went to Vienna behind the Storm Troops with Gestapo chief Heinrich Himmler, who told him: "You did good preparatory work on the Jews . . . You're their boss. Get rid of them as fast as you can."

Stripped Of Property

Through Austria and Czechoslovakia and Germany itself, Eichmann and the Nazis' efforts were devoted to stripping Jews of their property, adding the plunder to the Nazi treasury, and driving them into impoverished exile. Some Jewish leaders were shot and others sent to concentration camps. It apparently was not until the march into Poland, which touched off World War II in 1939, that annihilation became "the final solution for the Jewish question" and which Eichmann was charged with carrying out.

Eichmann has claimed he acted always under orders, never personally ordered murder and was, in fact, responsible only for transporting Jews to the death camps, not for what was done there.

But Nazi records still being uncovered and testimony of others at the Nuernberg War Crimes trials and since have painted a different picture. Eichmann never rose above the rank of lieutenant colonel in the S.S., but at least some analysts believe this was a deliberate attempt to camouflage his importance as head of the Jewish Bureau.

Married In 1935

Evidence already given and expected to be introduced at his trial indicates that Eichmann planned much of the Nazi campaign against the Jews, in some cases initiated atrocity measures which he later covered with orders from hi superiors, and in some instances, notably toward the end when Germany's defeat was sure, disregarded orders to ease up on the horror persecution.

Eichmann was married in 1935 to Veronica Leibl, whose pure Aryan lineage was checked out by his superiors before the couple marched from the altar under an arch of S.S. swords. Three sons were born to them — Klaus in 1935, Dieter in 1938 and Horst in 1944 — despite Eichmann's busy travel schedule, herding Jews into box cars for trips to death camps, railing at the French for resistance to the anti-Jewish measures, inspecting the death camps, seeking better and cheaper gases for mass killings, and trying, in at least one instance, to barter Jewish lives for war materials.

By the war's end, although less well known to the outside world than many of the Nazi war lords, he was high on the list of wanted war criminals.

Refugees Tell Of Horror, Mass Starvation In China

By PETER CRAIGMOE

TOKYO (UPI) — Emaciated Chinese refugees who brave death to flee the "living hell" inside the Bamboo Curtain speak with horror of widespread famine and mass starvation in Communist China.

The underfed figures of refugees pouring into Hong Kong and into the Portugusee colony of Macao attest to months of malnutrition.

They tell of masses of people staggering around with night blindness because of a lack of oils in their diet.

They state under oath that the rice ration — the staff of life in China — has ben reduced in the commune dining halls to five ounces a day.

They say that the favorite Chinese delicacy, pork, is simply unavailable. Even vegetables are considered a treat in an otherwise unappetizing diet that barely sustains life.

These reports have touched the hearts of many. Appeals have started to try to send 100,000 tons of grain to relieve suffering on the mainland.

But will this do any good?

Assuming the Communists pledge to distribute the food equally, statistics show this would not give everyone a full meal.

Much Grain Needed

For a mercy food convoy to do any good, it would have to provide the 600 million Chinese with something like a pound of grain a day.

Radio Peiping admitted that "severe natural calamities and the worst drought in a century" spelled failure for the Communist regime's 1960 target of harvesting 300 million tons of grain.

Let us assume that the United States decided to make up China's 100 million ton deficit. With the hundreds of millions of tons of U.S. surplus foodstuffs, it would present no drain on the American economy.

But it would require 1,000 cargo ships steaming across the Pacific day and night for a year to deliver the grain. It would mean 33 ships a day calling at San Diego, Long Beach, San Francisco, Portland and Seattle.

But where are there 1,000 cargo ships available for charter? Would a lesser amount suffice?

If you could get Red China's Agricultural Minister Liao-Yu-Yen to admit the harvest total, the answer would be more evident. The 200 million ton figure works out to an average daily grain production of 548,000 tons. Sending 100,000 tons of grain to China wouldn't even feed the people one meal.

Food Minister Sha Chien-Li, if he was acknowledging statistics, might tell you that 200 million tons of grain equally distributed would give one-and-five sixth pounds of grain daily to every Chinese man, woman and child.

Where Is It Going?

The questions then are: Where is all the rice going? Why the famine and starvation? Is it because grain is being exported?

Nationalist Chinese sources estimated that Red China exported six million tons of grain last year. That is 3 per cent of the total harvest.

The answer perhaps lies elsewhere — probably in mainland China's transport system.

It has been the weak link in the Chinese economic system for centuries. Railways are few and far between. Rivers overflow their banks in spring and run dry in autumn. Roads are as scarce as trucks.

Assuming equal distribution, the harvests probably were large enough to keep everyone alive. But transport from good harvest areas to drought areas probably was lacking.

Atomic Ships And The Future

Only two nuclear-powered surface ships have been built in this age of nuclear energy, but even before these have proved their worth advocates of nuclear propulsion are pushing for greater speed in development of this type of transport.

The leading center of nuclear research and development, the International Atomic Energy Agency headquartered in Vienna, is supporting free exchange of information about the two nuclear ships now afloat — the U.S. passenger and cargo ship Savannah and the Russian ice-breaker Lenin — so that other countries might share in the knowledge produced by these prototypes.

Speed, long-range capabilities and maneuverability are some of the more obvious advantages of nuclear ships as proved on the U.S. nuclear-powered sub fleet. But there is another potential advantage not often thought of in relation to surface vessels which could make reactors far more attractive in the public mind. That is safety.

A French official of the IAEA has said, "If all nuclear merchant ships of the future are built with the same abundance of precautions as those of the current prototype projects, there is no doubt that this manner of transport will be one of the safest one can imagine."

With the prototypes now afloat and with others which will join them, nuclear propulsion will prove both capable and safe in time. Questions such as the disposal of radioactive wastes and the effect of ocean storms on reactors remain to be answered, but the complete taming of the atom is not far away.

No More Koreas

The great cost to the United States in the Korean debacle was not that we lost a war but that every nation had to reassess its relationship to the United States and an increasing number became neutral. Everybody likes a winner.

If we lose in Laos or, for that matter, if we suffer any further loss anywhere, our international situation will degenerate with finality. A nation cannot assert leadership and not lead; it cannot assume superiority without military superiority. And if there is military superiority, it must be proved by military might which is war.

These are axioms and a nation that tries other methods only too soon discovers that some other country has taken its place.

Let us note the position of President de Gaulle of France. Laos was a part of French Indo-China. French Indo-China was a most important political and economic sector of France, the city of Saigon being for France what Hongkong was for Great Britain. The Annamites and other peoples of French Indo-China rebelled, supported by the Chinese Communists and won a great victory over France which resulted in France being eliminated from Southeast Asia.

Had France been supported by its allies, the United States and Great Britain, it might not have lost French Indo-China. The United States was tied down to a doctrine of anti-colonialism which has fragmented Asia and is now fragmenting Africa. French Indo-China was broken into North Vietnam, South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia and because of this, Thailand (which used to be called Siam) is in peril of falling to the might of Red China.

The population of Red China is variously estimated up to 600,000,000 persons. No census has ever been taken. When I lived there, we used to speak of the population of 450,000,000. Whether it has increased so much in 30 years, nobody can truthfully say because no one has counted the people.

However, whatever the figure may be it is too large for the food supply which is traditionally inadequate.

During the past two years, at least, Red China has suffered several famines, which is not too unusual, particularly for the southern part of that country where the density of population is perhaps the greatest and worst in the world. Density of population is best solved by the population moving where food is more plentiful. This is a rice eating people and China has, for centuries, imported rice from French Indo-China and from Siam (Thailand). What is happening in Laos is that a Chinese population is pouring into that country. The report that Chinese are about to move into Laos is piffle; they have already moved.

These Chinese are part of Communist China which can well afford to lose 200,000,000 people and benefit thereby. It is cheaper to send people to war or as volunteers in revolutions, to live off some other country, than to attempt to feed them.

Red China sought to solve many of its economic problems by orthodox Marxism, by establishing communes, and failed. The communes did not produce an increase of food. As a matter of fact, famine pursued the communes. Red China is pouring population into all the countries of East Asia.

Indonesia has set up resistances to the increase of Red Chinese in that country, but Laos is not geographically or militarily situated suitably for resistance to Red China. In the South of China lie four heavily populated provinces, Kuantung, Kuangsi, Kweichow and Yunnan. Kuantung, which is often referred to as Canton because of the name of the city, has produced most of the Chinese who live outside of China. In Kuangsi live many races of aborigines who have never engaged in any other business than war since the authority of Peking weakened over them during the Taiping Rebellion (1850-1865). Yunnan lies in mountainous country close to Burma and French Indo-China and has been under the influence of the former French city of Saigon for more than a century.

It is out of these four provinces that a Communist Chinese population heavily armed is pouring into Laos. Every day that is lost in stopping them from marching southward gives them more territory. Perhaps when the time comes for a 14 Nation Conference, Laos will be populated by Chinese Reds and the world will encounter another Soviet fait accompli.

This has always been Soviet tactics—talk soft and fight continuously. While all this is going on, the Warsaw Conference has sought to divert attention to Germany. This too is a Soviet tactic; hit two spots at one time and let the West take its choice as to when it will accept defeat.

Handling Of Foreign Aid In Laos Spurred Progress Of Communism

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Now that the Kennedy Administration has taken the courageous though perhaps injudicious task of picking up the intricate, broken pieces of the problem of Laos, it has an obligation to the American people to do three things:

1. Focus full light on the past corruption, inefficiency, and errors which led to the present tragedy of Laos.

2. Punish, not reward, those responsible for the tragedy.

3. Concentrate on finding good men to undertake the administration of foreign aid, not only in Laos but in other parts of the world, so the tragedy of Laos will not be repeated.

Instead, the Kennedy Administration recently rewarded the former U. S. Ambassador in Laos, J. Graham Parsons, who had also served as Assistant Secretary of State under Eisenhower. He was made Ambassador to Sweden. True, Ambassador Parsons is a career diplomat. True also, the career boys like to protect each other jus as West Pointers and Annapolis Grads belong to the Career Protective Association. But that does not mean that President Kennedy needs to accept their recommendations for self-promotion.

In the initial stages of foreign aid it was administered with care by dedicated public servants. Of late it has tended to become a giant boondoggle administered in some cases by footloose Americans who either can't get or don't wants jobs at home.

Unquestionably, the administration of foreign aid in Laos helped negate its own main objective—the prevention of Communism. Instead, the $300,000,000 poured into this tiny country by the United States under Eisenhower spurred the progress of Communism. It did so by increasing inflation, which affected wage-earners and small businessmen, by increasing graft which put corruption in the same bracket with American democracy, and by making Laotians more interested in night clubs, automobiles, and Western luxuries than in working for good government.

Tabulation Of Errors

Here is how American aid was administered in the tiny kingdom of Laos, which, belatedly, we are trying to save from both Communism and our own errors:

Listless Laotian Army—Though the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff recommended vigorously against it, the State Department, under the guidance of J. Graham Parsons, decided to organize an army of 25,000 men to fight Communism. U. S. military advisers said it would be impossible to organize an army of more than 12,000 to 15,000 men and make it effective.

This proved to be correct. The present Laotian army just doesn't fight. It's the highest paid army in the world, and its pay raises in 1955 and 1959 added $3,800,000 every year to the tab of the American taxpayers. If the pay check doesn't come from Uncle Sam, the Laotian officer corps and members would go home the next day. Furthermore, a lot of the arms sent by the United States even turn up on the pro-Communist side.

U. S. Corruption—Edward T. McNamara, Public Works and Industry officer of the U. S. Operations Mission, has been charged by the House Government Operations Committee with "accepting bribes totaling at least $13,000 from Willis H. Bird and Gerald A. Peabody of the Universal Construction Co., in return for helping them secure lucrative contracts and overlooking deficiencies in their performance."

William E. Kirby, U. S. transportation adviser, was instrumental in securing a contract for the supply of ferry barges to the Hongkong Transportation Co., and, according to the Government Operations Committee, "was the recipient of $500 from the Hongkong Transportation Co. while the contract was being negotiated." Later he went to work for one of Hongkong's affiliates.

Brig. Gen. Lacey Murrow, U. S. Army retired, head of Transportation Consultants, was under retainer to Vinnell Co., at the same time he was employed by ICA in Laos for the purpose of advising on construction projects. During this period Vinnell Co. was seeking to obtain contracts with ICA in Laos.

Carter de Paul, former U. S. Operations Mission Director, sold his 1947 Cadillac upon leaving Laos, to the head of the Universal Construction Co. at an inflated price, despite the fact that it couldn't run, according to the official report of Congressman Porter Hardy (D-Va.). It stood rusting in front of Universal's main office, the 'aughing stock of local Laotians, then was cut up into pieces and dropped into a well.

Punishing the Alert — When Haynes Miller, an Auditor for the General Accounting Office in Washington, came to Laos to check on expenditures, he reported the above improprieties and problems both to Washington and to local U. S. officials in Laos.

Instead of being heeded, Miller was railroaded back to Washington on the ground that he was "unable to adjust." Ambassador Parsons, according to official findings, "abetted this removal and lent it color with his name and office."

Miller incurred the wrath of U. S. officials in Laos when as auditor he attempted to examine the records of the Universal Construction Co., which, according to Congressional investigators, "through the bribery of McNamara and the failure of other USOM and Laos officials to perform was able to secure payments totaling over $1,600,000 for performance that was inadequate."

When Miller appealed to Ambassador Parsons regarding his differences with Universal, Parsons gave him 20 mintues and then, according to Miller's sworn testimony, "spent about 15 minutes to explain to me how embarrassed he would be if Universal was not an honest, straightforward firm, because Washington had asked him earlier in the year if that company was a proper one to receive the contract."

This is the Ambassador who has now been promoted to be Envoy to Sweden. And this is just a small part of our tragedy of errors in the little kingdom in defense of which the USA has now put its national prestige on the line.

Western Alliance Unity Necessary In Laos

By Joseph Alsop

VIETIANE, Laos

It is becoming clearer and clearer that the Key West meeting between President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan was probably the most significant episode in the Laos crisis to date. Its curious character gives added interest to the new Kennedy-Macmillan meeting.

It may seem odd to be reporting on Key West from Vietiane. But the details of what passed there are only just seeping out here, after having been officially given to British correspondents at the close of the SEATO meeting in Bangkok. Presumably the purpose of this special briefing was to explain the abrupt realignment of British policy with American policy, after months of Foreign Office stimulation of angry British criticisms of American actions in Laos.

The British realignment was explained on the group that "the facts of international life were forcibly brought home to us at Key West." The President was described as intimating to the Prime Minister that the Laos crisis was a double "test" — a test of the U. S. by the Kremlin and a test of the value of the Anglo-American alliance by the U. S. As a result, it was stated, the British government was "reluctantly, with deepest despondency" but unavoidably, going along with President Kennedy's decision to send troops to Laos if the Soviets refused to negotiate a truly neutral settlement.

This fairly astonishing official gloss on the new phase of British policy rather clearly implies how far the unity of the Western alliance had decayed during the Eisenhower years. The decay was nowhere more apparent than here in Laos.

This open disunity of the Western allies was one of the causes for the failure of the Eisenhower policy of gluing together a reliable anti-Communist Laos government, which has now been abandoned by President Kennedy in favor of pressure for a truly neutral Laos government.

Laos is a small place, riven by personal and family rivalries. Foreigners are conspicious. Any American policy was bound to be difficult to execute, if it was handicapped by the open, freely expressed disapproval of the British here, along with the open disapproval and the active, hostile underground opposition of the French.

This was the situation in Laos throughout the last Eisenhower years. But it must be added that an even more important cause of the failure of the Eisenhower policy was the fairly complacent American reliance on the mere ghost of "massive retaliation" to constrain an active, implacably enemy.

Despite British disapproval and French sabotage, the American policy here twice almost succeeded. In the summer of 1959 and again last summer, a fairly stable strictly non-Communist regime seemed to be getting the situation under control. On both occasions, however, the rather narrow balance was upset by massive incursions across the border from Communist North Vietnam.

In 1959, the incursions were brought to an end by Nikita S. Khrushchev, in order to prevent cancellation of his Camp David meeting with President Eisenhower. Last summer, the incursions were preceded by the coup d'etat of Captain Kon Le. But even this unfortunate event was not decisive. The decisive factor was—and still is— the subsequent, very massive imput of war materials and men from North Vietnam. Even today, the Lao government could cope with the purely Lao Communist forces if these stood alone.

In other words, the ghost of "massive retaliation" was relied upon to isolate Laos, and it failed to do so. Here, once again, the British and French positions counted for a good deal. Their opposition not only handicapped the execution of the American policy here before the incursions; their clamor and coat-tail pulling also enfeebled and confused the American reaction to the Communist incursions when these took place.

Such is the melancholy record which President Kennedy and Prime Minster Macmillan must now review together. Preparations for this review were obviously made in Vietiane over the weekend. High officials of the British, French, and Australian Foreign Offices came here, after the SEATO meeting, to work nonstop with their respective Embassies and with one another. Whether an Anglo-French position was worked out, cannot be said. But a British position was certainly worked out for the Prime Minister's use in Washington. And it is also pretty certain that this was a fairly soft position.

Meanwhile the failure of the Eisenhower policy has driven President Kennedy to adopt a substitute policy that will be every bit as difficult to execute. Achievement of a truly neutral Laos is an inconceivably delicate task and perhaps an absolutely impossible task. This kind of result can never be achieved if there is the smallest show of Western softness. Hence further shoring of the weakened Western alliance would seem to be in order.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

CHERRY BLOSSOMS—For the first time in many years, a lingering winter and an unusually early Easter date combined to time the blossoming of Washington's famed Japanese cherry trees with the joyous spring religious observance.

The week following Easter Sunday always brings an unusual number of vacationers and sightseers to the capital. The festival will be climaxed by the crowning of the Cherry Blossom Queen on Sunday.

Most years the trees blossom shortly after mid-March, but the rigors of winter and the unseasonably cold early spring have delayed budding.

The cherry blossoms always cause a crush of visitors to Washington. This year the coincidence of the Easter holidays has capital police, hotel men and restaurateurs confidently expecting all records to be broken.

There are now 627 of the Japanese cherry trees (which blossom beautifully, but bear no fruit) around the Tidal Basin in downtown Washington, more than double the original 300 sent by Nippon as a gesture of friendship in 1912.

Fewer than half of the original trees remain, as they have an average life of only 40 years. In 10 years or so, none of the original trees will be standing. However, an average of 40 new trees are planted each year, assuring perpetuation of one of Washington's most famous attractions.

The Women's Page

By John Crosby

I've been reading the women's pages of newspapers in Montreal. Heady stuff. A headline in "The Montreal Gazette" reads: "Grooming of Eyebrows Improves Appearance." That ranks high among the more unnecessary sentences ever to be given tongue in a newspaper. Girl babies are born fully aware that grooming of eyebrows improves appearance.

But I wasn't deterred by that headline. I plunged right into the body of the story. "Eyebrows are very important to the eyes." I'd never thought about it before. All my life I've been saying it the other way around. "Eyes are very important to the eyebrows," I've been telling the children, on the rare occasions when I catch their attention. The rest of the piece got deeply into "orb appeal," which is pretty raw stuff for you men out there so I'll not go into it here. ("Where the brows are too light or when their shape is unflattering, the eyes are underplayed. Of course, if they are too heavily made up, too harsh, the eyes are overpowered." Wow!)

I hesitate to suggest this, but don't you think the Women's Page editors are a little out of touch with those tough cookies, the modern woman? It is dear of the Women's Page editor to imagine a lot of sweet old Grandma-Moses-type ladies copying out its recipes for the day which today, so help me, is for Sugar and Cream Pie. Two cups maple sugar. one-fourth cup sifted all-purpose flour. One-fourth cup fresh cream. One tablespoon butter. One-quarter cup walnuts—I can't go on. You could put on three pounds just reading that recipe.

You and I know full well that no woman is ever going to make such a thing. Why should she? Well, let's suppose her mortal enemy was coming to lunch and she wanted to poison her. But even then she wouldn't make the damn thing. She'd buy it at the bakery. Stirring up your poisons went out with the Borgias. This is the twentieth century, woman!

Let's see what else is of interest to women today. "The big debate over separate dining rooms goes on with one side declaring they occupy too much space for a once-a-day, if then, use. And the other camp hotly defends dining in a room that is completely separate from the living room."

Well, that's more like it as they say. The dining room issue is one of the great issues of our time. You mark my word—the Congo a hundred years from now will be as dead as Khartoum, but the great dining room debate will have assumed its place in history along with Fifty-Four Forty or Fight. Mankind reached a fork in history—and took the wrong turn. One hundred years from now, five generations will have reached maturity unaware that dining rooms ever existed. And they'll be the poorer for it, too. You can't teach table manners i. the living room, my mother always said.

I eagerly read on, feeling for the first time that here was a woman ready to stand up and be counted on the great dining room debate. No such luck! "Here's an idea that should make both groups happy." Now, for God's sake, woman! You can't straddle an issue this big. Either you are for dining rooms or you are against them. What she proposed, in short, was a dining room that also would serve time as a playroom for the children and a place for the teenagers to do their homework. (That's not a compromise, woman——that's total surrender.)

But let's get away from the controversial into the spot news section. Here's a fast-breaking story from the Woman's Page of "The Montreal Star" — "If greeting cards are indicative, Easter is definitely a family occasion." That's the first paragraph. Calm your wildly beating heart and we'll dip directly into the second paragraph.

"The most popular Easter greeting cards are those for mother, dad, sister, brother, husband, wife — and, of course, the children." So much for paragraph two. Here's paragraph three: "There's nothing really new about this year's Easter cards. As usual, bunnies are the big theme along with eggs, little chicks, and spring flowers."

Well, there you have it. Not exactly a circulation builder, but it won't lose any either. Just one more thriller is probably all your nerves can take. Here's one — now hang onto your chairs: "Now that spring is here, homeowners' thoughts are turning to putting the yard in shape for the season."

Mother's 'Heartbeat' Piped Into Nursery

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Americans live by sound. Many of us are lulled to sleep at night and awaken in the morning to the tunes emitted by a clock-radio. Some employers are sold on the advantages of piped in music to increase production; shoppers are greeted with background music on entering stores and elevators.

The latest gimmick is a device for the nursery. It gives a simple, reassuring, rhythmic sound that is said to mimic mother's heartbeat. The manufacturers claim newborns will think mother is close by, which in turn offers the child a sense of security and motherly love. Frustrations develop, they say, when the infant cannot hear Mom's heartbeat and this will foster mental illness in years to come.

All this is somewhat farfetched, according to an editorial in Medical Science. The baby is given more credit for knowing his emotional needs than he has brains to realize. The human brain lacks myelin in the early months of life, which means the organ is not fully developed.

If the unborn child needs sounds to make him feel secure, he should be satisfied with the noises stemming from the organs next to the uterus. These consist of the rumblings and gurglings of the gastrointestinal tract.

Does the care of infants influence their personality in later years? Many psychiatrists believe it does. In my opinion, proof is lacking. Certain studies tend to show that children deprived of mothering do not flourish. Other surveys suggest these children end up mentally retarded or emotionally unstable.

An equal number of studies offer opposite results. Some youngsters brought up in institutions mature more quickly and outstrip their playmates who have been showered with mother love. The infant's early environment is of debatable significance because other factors must be considered in addition to mother's love and attention.

TOMORROW: Congestion of the prostate.

SYMPATHECTOMY

R. B. writes: I am contemplating having an operation for hypertension. I'm 38 years old, weigh 242 pounds, and the last time my blood pressure was taken it was 170/110. Will you please write something about this operation?

REPLY

The surgical treatment of hypertension has lost some of its popularity since the advent of so many medical remedies. Some of the operations are used, however, when the specific cause can be found and eliminated in this way.

DON'T BORROW TROUBLE

F. W. writes: When a woman goes through the change, does it leave her with something wrong like heart disease or poor eyesight?

REPLY

No. Her ovaries become smaller and less active. The subsequent loss of certain hormones alters the lining membranes of the reproductive passageways and menstruation ceases.

ACHING EYES

M. O. writes: What causes pain in the eyeballs after a double feature or watching TV for a few hours?

REPLY

Eyestrain is the most likely cause. If you are addicted to these mechanical robbers of time, have your eyes tested. Individuals with glaucoma may develop pain after watching TV or a movie.

MILD DIABETES

C. P. writes: Are there any cases of diabetes that can be kept under control by diet alone?

REPLY

Yes. Mild diabetics usually get along well on a diet.

YOU DON'T FEEL IT

C. M. writes: If a person is loaded with cholesterol, how would he feel?

REPLY

No different than with a normal cholesterol level. This is one of the problems that occurs when the physician prescribes a diet and medication to lower the level. The individual feels the same when the cholesterol level reaches normal and begins to wonder whether treatment is doing any good.

RUPTURED GALL BLADDER

C. S. writes: Can a diseased gall bladder burst like an inflamed appendix?

REPLY

Yes—stones and all.

To the limit of space questions pertinent to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

"Good," said the wife, "but don't think you're going to play golf. There are a lot of things that need doing around the house."

"Golf was the furthest thing from my mind," protested the husband, fingering a piece of toast. "Now would you mind passing me the putter?"

A summer stock company graduate got his first job on Broadway: a small part of a melodrama. His first line followed the firing of a shot. He was required to express surprise and say, "Was that a cannon I heard?"

He rehearsed perfectly, but was undone by opening night jitters. The gun was fired. The actor jumped two feet and exclaimed, "What the hell was that?"

These Chinese are part of Communist China which can well afford to lose 200,000,000 people and benefit thereby. It is cheaper to send people to war or as volunteers in revolutions, to live off some other country, than to attempt to feed them.

Red China sought to solve many of its economic problems by orthodox Marxism, by establishing communes, and failed. The communes did not produce an increase of food. As a matter of fact, famine pursued the communes. Red China is pouring population into all the countries of East Asia.

Indonesia has set up resistances to the increase of Red Chinese in that country, but Laos is not geographically or militarily situated suitably for resistance to Red China. In the South of China lie four heavily populated provinces, Kuantung, Kuangsi, Kweichow and Yunnan. Kuantung, which is often referred to as Canton because of the name of the city, has produced most of the Chinese who live outside of China. In Kuangsi live many races of aborigines who have never engaged in any other business than war since the authority of Peking weakened over them during the Taiping Rebellion (1850-1865). Yunnan lies in mountainous country close to Burma and French Indo-China and has been under the influence of the former French city of Saigon for more than a century.

It is out of these four provinces that a Communist Chinese population heavily armed is pouring into Laos. Every day that is lost in stopping them from marching southward gives them more territory. Perhaps when the time comes for a 14 Nation Conference, Laos will be populated by Chinese Reds and the world will encounter another Soviet fait accompli.

This has always been Soviet tactics—talk soft and fight continuously. While all this is going on, the Warsaw Conference has sought to divert attention to Germany. This too is a Soviet tactic; hit two spots at one time and let the West take its choice as to when it will accept defeat.

'Yes, Mr. President — We Must Spend More'

Western Alliance Unity Necessary In Laos

By Joseph Alsop

VIETIANE, Laos

It is becoming clearer and clearer that the Key West meeting between President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan was probably the most significant episode in the Laos crisis to date. Its curious character gives added interest to the new Kennedy-Macmillan meeting.

It may seem odd to be reporting on Key West from Vietiane. But the details of what passed there are only just seeping out here, after having been officially given to British correspondents at the close of the SEATO meeting in Bangkok. Presumably the purpose of this special briefing was to explain the abrupt realignment of British policy with American policy, after months of Foreign Office stimulation of angry British criticisms of American actions in Laos.

The British realignment was explained on the group that "the facts of international life were forcibly brought home to us at Key West." The President was described as intimating to the Prime Minister that the Laos crisis was a double "test" — a test of the U. S. by the Kremlin and a test of the value of the Anglo-American alliance by the U. S. As a result, it was stated, the British government was "reluctantly, with deepest despondency" but unavoidably, going along with President Kennedy's decision to send troops to Laos if the Soviets refused to negotiate a truly neutral settlement.

This fairly astonishing official gloss on the new phase of British policy rather clearly implies how far the unity of the Western alliance had decayed during the Eisenhower years. The decay was nowhere more apparent than here in Laos.

This open disunity of the Western allies was one of the causes for the failure of the Eisenhower policy of gluing together a reliable anti-Communist Laos government, which has now been abandoned by President Kennedy in favor of pressure for a truly neutral Laos government.

Laos is a small place, riven by personal and family rivalries. Foreigners are conspicious. Any American policy was bound to be difficult to execute, if it was handicapped by the open, freely expressed disapproval of the British here, along with the open disapproval and the active, hostile underground opposition of the French.

This was the situation in Laos throughout the last Eisenhower years. But it must be added that an even more important cause of the failure of the Eisenhower policy was the fairly complacent American reliance on the mere ghost of "massive retaliation" to constrain an active, implacably enemy.

Despite British disapproval and French sabotage, the American policy here twice almost succeeded. In the summer of 1959 and again last summer, a fairly stable strictly non-Communist regime seemed to be getting the situation under control. On both occasions, however, the rather narrow balance was upset by massive incursions across the border from Communist North Vietnam.

In 1959, the incursions were brought to an end by Nikita S. Khrushchev, in order to prevent cancellation of his Camp David meeting with President Eisenhower. Last summer, the incursions were preceded by the coup d'etat of Captain Kon Le. But even this unfortunate event was not decisive. The decisive factor was—and still is— the subsequent, very massive imput of war materials and men from North Vietnam. Even today, the Lao government could cope with the purely Lao Communist forces if these stood alone.

In other words, the ghost of "massive retaliation" was relied upon to isolate Laos, and it failed to do so. Here, once again, the British and French positions counted for a good deal. Their opposition not only handicapped the execution of the American policy here before the incursions; their clamor and coat-tail pulling also enfeebled and confused the American reaction to the Communist incursions when these took place.

Such is the melancholy record which President Kennedy and Prime Minster Macmillan must now review together. Preparations for this review were obviously made in Vietiane over the weekend. High officials of the British, French, and Australian Foreign Offices came here, after the SEATO meeting, to work nonstop with their respective Embassies and with one another. Whether an Anglo-French position was worked out, cannot be said. But a British position was certainly worked out for the Prime Minister's use in Washington. And it is also pretty certain that this was a fairly soft position.

Meanwhile the failure of the Eisenhower policy has driven President Kennedy to adopt a substitute policy that will be every bit as difficult to execute. Achievement of a truly neutral Laos is an inconceivably delicate task and perhaps an absolutely impossible task. This kind of result can never be achieved if there is the smallest show of Western softness. Hence further shoring of the weakened Western alliance would seem to be in order.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

CHERRY BLOSSOMS—For the first time in many years, a lingering winter and an unusually early Easter date combined to time the blossoming of Washington's famed Japanese cherry trees with the joyous spring religious observance.

The week following Easter Sunday always brings an unusual number of vacationers and sightseers to the capital. The festival will be climaxed by the crowning of the Cherry Blossom Queen on Sunday.

Most years the trees blossom shortly after mid-March, but the rigors of winter and the unseasonably cold early spring have delayed budding.

The cherry blossoms always cause a crush of visitors to Washington. This year the coincidence of the Easter holidays has capital police, hotel men and restaurateurs confidently expecting all records to be broken.

There are now 627 of the Japanese cherry trees (which blossom beautifully, but bear no fruit) around the Tidal Basin in downtown Washington, more than double the original 300 sent by Nippon as a gesture of friendship in 1912.

Fewer than half of the original trees remain, as they have an average life of only 40 years. In 10 years or so, none of the original trees will be standing. However, an average of 40 new trees are planted each year, assuring perpetuation of one of Washington's most famous attractions.

Handling Of Foreign Aid In Laos Spurred Progress Of Communism

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Now that the Kennedy Administration has taken the courageous though perhaps injudicious task of picking up the intricate, broken pieces of the problem of Laos, it has an obligation to the American people to do three things:

1. Focus full light on the past corruption, inefficiency, and errors which led to the present tragedy of Laos.

2. Punish, not reward, those responsible for the tragedy.

3. Concentrate on finding good men to undertake the administration of foreign aid, not only in Laos but in other parts of the world, so the tragedy of Laos will not be repeated.

Instead, the Kennedy Administration recently rewarded the former U. S. Ambassador in Laos, J. Graham Parsons, who had also served as Assistant Secretary of State under Eisenhower. He was made Ambassador to Sweden. True, Ambassador Parsons is a career diplomat. True also, the career boys like to protect each other jus as West Pointers and Annapolis Grads belong to the Career Protective Association. But that does not mean that President Kennedy needs to accept their recommendations for self-promotion.

In the initial stages of foreign aid it was administered with care by dedicated public servants. Of late it has tended to become a giant boondoggle administered in some cases by footloose Americans who either can't get or don't wants jobs at home.

Unquestionably, the administration of foreign aid in Laos helped negate its own main objective—the prevention of Communism. Instead, the $300,000,000 poured into this tiny country by the United States under Eisenhower spurred the progress of Communism. It did so by increasing inflation, which affected wage-earners and small businessmen, by increasing graft which put corruption in the same bracket with American democracy, and by making Laotians more interested in night clubs, automobiles, and Western luxuries than in working for good government.

Tabulation Of Errors

Here is how American aid was administered in the tiny kingdom of Laos, which, belatedly, we are trying to save from both Communism and our own errors:

Listless Laotian Army—Though the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff recommended vigorously against it, the State Department, under the guidance of J. Graham Parsons, decided to organize an army of 25,000 men to fight Communism. U. S. military advisers said it would be impossible to organize an army of more than 12,000 to 15,000 men and make it effective.

This proved to be correct. The present Laotian army just doesn't fight. It's the highest paid army in the world, and its pay raises in 1955 and 1959 added $3,800,000 every year to the tab of the American taxpayers. If the pay check doesn't come from Uncle Sam, the Laotian officer corps and members would go home the next day. Furthermore, a lot of the arms sent by the United States even turn up on the pro-Communist side.

U. S. Corruption—Edward T. McNamara, Public Works and Industry officer of the U. S. Operations Mission, has been charged by the House Government Operations Committee with "accepting bribes totaling at least $13,000 from Willis H. Bird and Gerald A. Peabody of the Universal Construction Co., in return for helping them secure lucrative contracts and overlooking deficiencies in their performance."

William E. Kirby, U. S. transportation adviser, was instrumental in securing a contract for the supply of ferry barges to the Hongkong Transportation Co., and, according to the Government Operations Committee, "was the recipient of $500 from the Hongkong Transportation Co. while the contract was being negotiated." Later he went to work for one of Hongkong's affiliates.

Brig. Gen. Lacey Murrow, U. S. Army retired, head of Transportation Consultants, was under retainer to Vinnell Co., at the same time he was employed by ICA in Laos for the purpose of advising on construction projects. During this period Vinnell Co. was seeking to obtain contracts with ICA in Laos.

Carter de Paul, former U. S. Operations Mission Director, sold his 1947 Cadillac upon leaving Laos, to the head of the Universal Construction Co. at an inflated price, despite the fact that it couldn't run, according to the official report of Congressman Porter Hardy (D-Va.). It stood rusting in front of Universal's main office, the laughing stock of local Laotians, then was cut up into pieces and dropped into a well.

Punishing the Alert — When Haynes Miller, an Auditor for the General Accounting Office in Washington, came to Laos to check on expenditures, he reported the above improprieties and problems both to Washington and to local U. S. officials in Laos.

Instead of being heeded, Miller was railroaded back to Washington on the ground that he was "unable to adjust." Ambassador Parsons, according to official findings, "abetted this removal and lent it color with his name and office."

Miller incurred the wrath of U. S. officials in Laos when as auditor he attempted to examine the records of the Universal Construction Co., which, according to Congressional investigators, "through the bribery of McNamara and the failure of other USOM and Laos officials to perform was able to secure payments totaling over $1,600,000 for performance that was inadequate."

When Miller appealed to Ambassador Parsons regarding his differences with Universal, Parsons gave him 20 mintues and then, according to Miller's sworn testimony, "spent about 15 minutes to explain to me how embarrassed he would be if Universal was not an honest, straightforward firm, because Washington had asked him earlier in the year if that company was a proper one to receive the contract."

This is the Ambassador who has now been promoted to be Envoy to Sweden. And this is just a small part of our tragedy of errors in the little kingdom in defense of which the USA has now put its national prestige on the line.

Mother's 'Heartbeat' Piped Into Nursery

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Americans live by sound. Many of us are lulled to sleep at night and awaken in the morning to the tunes emitted by a clock-radio. Some employers are sold on the advantages of piped in music to increase production; shoppers are greeted with background music on entering stores and elevators.

The latest gimmick is a device for the nursery. It gives a simple, reassuring, rhythmic sound that is said to mimic mother's heartbeat. The manufacturers claim newborns will think mother is close by, which in turn offers the child a sense of security and motherly love. Frustrations develop, they say, when the infant cannot hear Mom's heartbeat and this will foster mental illness in years to come.

All this is somewhat farfetched, according to an editorial in Medical Science. The baby is given more credit for knowing his emotional needs than he has brains to realize. The human brain lacks myelin in the early months of life, which means the organ is not fully developed.

If the unborn child needs sounds to make him feel secure, he should be satisfied with the noises stemming from the organs next to the uterus. These consist of the rumblings and gurglings of the gastrointestinal tract.

Does the care of infants influence their personality in later years? Many psychiatrists believe it does. In my opinion, proof is lacking. Certain studies tend to show that children deprived of mothering do not flourish. Other surveys suggest these children end up mentally retarded or emotionally unstable.

An equal number of studies offer opposite results. Some youngsters brought up in institutions mature more quickly and outstrip their playmates who have been showered with mother love. The infant's early environment is of debatable significance because other factors must be considered in addition to mother's love and attention.

SYMPATHECTOMY

R. B. writes: I am contemplating having an operation for hypertension. I'm 38 years old, weigh 242 pounds, and the last time my blood pressure was taken it was 170/110. Will you please write something about this operation?

REPLY

The surgical treatment of hypertension has lost some of its popularity since the advent of so many medical remedies. Some of the operations are used, however, when the specific cause can be found and eliminated in this way.

DON'T BORROW TROUBLE

F. W. writes: When a woman goes through the change, does it leave her with something wrong like heart disease or poor eyesight?

REPLY

No. Her ovaries become smaller and less active. The subsequent loss of certain hormones alters the lining membranes of the reproductive passageways and menstruation ceases.

ACHING EYES

M. O. writes: What causes pain in the eyeballs after a double feature or watching TV for a few hours?

REPLY

Eyestrain is the most likely cause. If you are addicted to these mechanical robbers of time, have your eyes tested. Individuals with glaucoma may develop pain after watching TV or a movie.

MILD DIABETES

C. P. writes: Are there any cases of diabetes that can be kept under control by diet alone?

REPLY

Yes. Mild diabetics usually get along well on a diet.

YOU DON'T FEEL IT

C. M. writes: If a person is loaded with cholesterol, how would he feel?

REPLY

No different than with a normal cholesterol level. This is one of the problems that occurs when the physician prescribes a diet and medication to lower the level. The individual feels the same when the cholesterol level reaches normal and begins to wonder whether treatment is doing any good.

RUPTURED GALL BLADDER

C. S. writes: Can a diseased gall bladder burst like an inflamed appendix?

REPLY

Yes—stones and all.

To the limit of space questions pertinent to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

"Good," said the wife, "but don't think you're going to play golf. There are a lot of things that need doing around the house."

"Golf was the furthest thing from my mind," protested the husband, fingering a piece of toast. "Now would you mind passing me the putter?"

A summer stock company graduate got his first job on Broadway: a small part of a melodrama. His first line followed the firing of a shot. He was required to express surprise and say, "Was that a cannon I heard?"

He rehearsed perfectly, but was undone by opening night jitters. The gun was fired. The actor jumped two feet and exclaimed, "What the hell was that?"

It's easy, insists Morel Amsterdam, to single out the kid in a crowd who hails from Texas. He's the one toting the pearl-handled slingshot.

By John Crosby

I've been reading the women's pages of newspapers in Montreal. Heady stuff. A headline in "The Montreal Gazette" reads: "Grooming of Eyebrows Improves Appearance." That ranks high among the more unnecessary sentences ever to be given tongue in a newspaper. Girl babies are born fully aware that grooming of eyebrows improves appearance.

But I wasn't deterred by that headline. I plunged right into the body of the story. "Eyebrows are very important to the eyes." I'd never thought about it before. All my life I've been saying it the other way around. "Eyes are very important to the eyebrows," I've been telling the children, on the rare occasions when I catch their attention. The rest of the piece got deeply into "orb appeal," which is pretty raw stuff for you men out there so I'll not go into it here. ("Where the brows are too light or when their shape is unflattering, the eyes are underplayed. Of course, if they are too heavily made up, too harsh, the eyes are overpowered." Wow!)

I hesitate to suggest this, but don't you think the Women's Page editors are a little out of touch with those tough cookies, the modern woman? It is dear of the Women's Page editor to imagine a lot of sweet old Grandma-Moses-type ladies copying out its recipes for the day which today, so help me, is for Sugar and Cream Pie. Two cups maple sugar. one-fourth cup sifted all-purpose flour. One-fourth cup fresh cream. One tablespoon butter. One-quarter cup walnuts—I can't go on. You could put on three pounds just reading that recipe.

You and I know full well that no woman is ever going to make such a thing. Why should she? Well, let's suppose her mortal enemy was coming to lunch and she wanted to poison her. But even then she wouldn't make the damn thing. She'd buy it at the bakery. Stirring up your poisons went out with the Borgias. This is the twentieth century, woman!

Let's see what else is of interest to women today. "The big debate over separate dining rooms goes on with one side declaring they occupy too much space for a once-a-day, if then, use. And the other camp hotly defends dining in a room that is completely separate from the living room."

Well, that's more like it as they say. The dining room issue is one of the great issues of our time. You mark my word—the Congo a hundred years from now will be as dead as Khartoum, but the great dining room debate will have assumed its place in history along with Fifty-Four Forty or Fight. Mankind reached a fork in history—and took the wrong turn. One hundred years from now, five generations will have reached maturity unaware that dining rooms ever existed. And they'll be the poorer for it, too. You can't teach table manners in the living room, my mother always said.

I eagerly read on, feeling for the first time that here was a woman ready to stand up and be counted on the great dining room debate. No such luck! "Here's an idea that should make both groups happy." Now, for God's sake, woman! You can't straddle an issue this big. Either you are for dining rooms or you are against them. What she proposed, in short, was a dining room that also would serve time as a playroom for the children and a place for the teenagers to do their homework. (That's not a compromise, woman——that's total surrender.)

But let's get away from the controversial into the spot news section. Here's a fast-breaking story from the Woman's Page of "The Montreal Star" — "If greeting cards are indicative, Easter is definitely a family occasion." That's the first paragraph. Calm your wildly beating heart and we'll dip directly into the second paragraph.

"The most popular Easter greeting cards are those for mother, dad, sister, brother, husband, wife — and, of course, the children." So much for paragraph two. Here's paragraph three: "There's nothing really new about this year's Easter cards. As usual, bunnies are the big theme along with eggs, little chicks, and spring flowers."

Well, there you have it. Not exactly a circulation builder, but it won't lose any either. Just one more thriller is probably all your nerves can take. Here's one — now hang onto your chairs: "Now that spring is here, homeowners' thoughts are turning to putting the yard in shape for the season."

Canal Club Constitution Is Adopted

The constitution and by-laws of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Club of Allegany County were adopted at a meeting last night in City Hall.

Former Chief Judge George Henderson, committee chairman, presented the constitution, modeled on the one adopted by the Allegany County Youth Commission.

During adoption, the constitution was amended to provide that adult members be 19 and over and junior members be between 12 and 19, and that the board of directors include four senior and two junior members, elected to one and two-year terms.

It was also decided to hold the annual meeting on the second Tuesday of March.

The meeting adjourned after plans were made to meet next Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. to elect officers and directors.

Nearly two dozen area citizens interested in the historic waterway attended the meeting, the first general membership session to be held.

Will Build Home

The City of Cumberland yesterday issued a permit to Marie K. Holzshu, 640 Fayette Street, to build a brick veneer dwelling and basement garage on Fayette Street. It will be one-story, 48 by 28 feet, and will cost about $14,000.

Miss Walsh said the bookmobile will be in Lonaconing on Friday. It will be parked at the corner of East Main Stret and Castle Hill from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Charge Against Club Dropped

James S. Getty, state's attorney for Allegany County, said yesterday criminal action against the Disabled Veterans Club of Frostburg for allegedly selling beer to minors has been dropped because the club has surrendered its liquor license.

The club recently was charged with the liquor violation after Frostburg police officers learned that three youths, about 19, had purchased beer at the Frostburg club.

Mr. Getty said his office was investigating the complaint, and recently the club notified him that it was going to give up its liquor license and go out of business.

The DAV has since closed up the club and disposed of all the fixtures.

Mr. Getty stated that since the liquor license has been surrendered, it would not serve any useful purpose to prosecute the officers of the club who were not even present at the time of the alleged violation.

Mt. Savage Boy's Hay Wins Honor

James Robinson, Mt. Savage, placed fifth with his entry of bird's-foot trefoil mixed hay in the Northeastern Hay Drying Association Hay Show held recently at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N.J.

A ribbon was sent to the Allegany County resident by J. R. Schabinger, extension dairyman of the University of Maryland.

Competition was keen, drawing a large number of entries from the northeastern states according to Mr. Schabinger who said that Garrett Brothers farm near Rockville took first place in the show with their alfalfa-grass hay entry.

The association is an educational group for the promotion of improved forage quality.

False Alarm Checked

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am one of the millions of victims of that racket called "alimony." Is there a way out?

I divorced my husband because he was no good. I didn't take a dime from the rat when I left — and he had plenty. I believe it is immoral for a woman to collect money just because she used to be married to a man.

Then I met Frankie. I knew I wanted him more than anything in the world. He was married to a social-climbing snob. If it weren't for their child he'd have left her long ago. He had moved into the guest room a year before we met so I was not the cause of their rift.

Frankie and I slid around back stairs and out-of-the-way places for 15 months before he asked for a divorce. His wife said, "All right, but it'll cost you plenty."

I must keep working because almost half of what Frankie makes goes to his wife and son. They live just as they always have — lovely home, maid, trips, new car — the works. We're cramped in a small apartment.

Something is wrong with the laws when a grasping, greedy female who was a lousy wife can get away with this. An able-bodied woman should have to go to work if she fails as a wife. America is the only country in the world where the alimony racket flourishes. Why? — FIGHTER AGAINST INJUSTICE

DEAR FIGHTER: Alimony is the high cost of leaving. When a woman marries a divorced man with a family she marries his headaches and his responsibilities. You said you wanted him more than anything in the world. Well now you've got him—total—so don't complain.

If the sanctity of marriage is to be upheld the law must be on the side of the legally wed — not the illicit lovers. This is only one reason I urge those who are considering marriage to make certain their selection is a durable one.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I had a little girl out of wedlock six years ago. I was no youngster (33) and decided to keep her and do my best against terrific odds.

I've been masquerading as a divorced woman and no one knows the truth except my mother. My problem is I've told Louise her father is dead. She keeps wanting to see his picture. Would it be all right if I showed her a picture of a cousin who was killed during the war? It would satisfy her and solve my problem.—SORRY MESS

DEAR MESS: Don't add a third lie to the two now afloat. Tell Louise you have no picture.

DEAR ANN: I could kiss you for that letter knocking "Dropping in unexpectedly." With summer nearly here I hope some of our so-called friends will see it and take the hint.

We bought a summer home because we wanted to rest and be alone — away from the tensions of the city. Every week end we are plagued by friends and relatives who just assume we are thrilled to see them. They bring nothing but big appetites and tired bones. I have a housekeeper in the city but I do my own work at the cottage, and believe me, most week ends it's easier to stay home. I've had to cook for as many as eleven unexpected guests on a Sunday.

Is there a solution for us? — TRAPPED

DEAR TRAPPED: Yes. Tell all unexpected visitors you have plans for the day. Fix them a cup of coffee, visit for half an hour, walk them to their car, then get in yours and take a little ride.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love Or Sex?" enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 1 The Stars and Stripes, W. Porcher Miles told the Confederate Provincial Congress at Montgomery, were the "emblem of oppression and tyranny." With Miles and other South Carolinians talking as rambunctiously as that, the voices raised in the South against secession and plunging the Union into war were dinned out.

There were thousands located all over the South who opposed taking up arms over the right of States to regulate their internal institutions, such as slavery, without interference by other states or the Federal government. In Georgia, home State of Alex Stephens, Vice President of the Confederacy, the vote in the secession convention was 208 for, 89 against. In Mississippi, whence came Jefferson Davis to the Presidency, the people of Jones county refused secession, declared a free state.

Porcher Miles was chairman of the committee appointed in the Confederate Congress to choose a new flag. He favored, naturally, the first secession banner to be raised, the Palmetto flag of South Carolina. Numerous other designs were submitted, one of which embodied a profile of George Washington, another a cotton bale.

The committee could not agree on anything except a design similar to the one Porcher Miles despised. The Confederate Congress accepted it, then changed it several times before end of the war (see right).

Salty Sons Of Missouri Blend Talents On Mural

EDITOR'S NOTE — Thomas Hart Benton's name is no longer enough to start a fight, even among art students, but there was a time when his caustic estimation of museum directors attracted as much attention as Harry S. Truman's remark about a music critic. Both salty sons of Missouri, the two recently got together to blend their talents.

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—The artist looked down from his 16-foot scaffold and said: "If you want to help paint, come up here."

"By golly, I will," replied the historian. And with agility that belied his 76 years, former President Harry S. Truman swung up beside artist Thomas Hart Benton to add a bit of blue to the Western sky.

To the delight of visitors, there were two of Missouri's most famous citizens working side by side on what both regard as an important recording of history—the newest Benton mural: "Independence and the Opening of the West."

Aside from this little byplay, the former president—no painter—did little actual work on the 19 by 32-foot mural that graces the entrance of the Harry S. Truman Library, repository of Truman memorabilia.

"But we talked about it ahead of time so that I knew what he wanted me to say in it," Benton mused. "At first he knew more about the subject than I did. Now I know more about it than he does."

The mural has become Truman's favorite showpiece. He points to it often in his impromptu lectures to visiting statesmen and tourists.

Captured in startling detail are the chief elements of what Benton calls "our continental destiny." They are the plains Indians, the hunter and trapper, the French voyageur and the permanent settler who finally dispossessed the Indians.

When Benton paints a Pawnee Indian, what results is not just any Indian. It is a Pawnee. Right down from the feather headband, to the war paint, to the bow and arrow, the lasso around the waist and the beadwork in the moccasin.

For sketches of Pawnee faces, Benton went to Oklahoma and Colorado. But he found the older Indian males today are not as lean and muscular as their counterparts a century ago and went to Miami to have two young Indian athletes pose for the bodies.

Over nearly a two-year period Benton made individual drawings — hundreds of them — for every natural and man-made object in the mural.

"A yucca plant is not simply any yucca plant," he said. "In some parts of the country it has fat leaves. In Colorado it is spiny. If I painted a fat yucca, I'd have to answer to a lot of Westerners for it."

At 71 the white-maned Benton, usually dressed in flannel shirt and corduroy trousers, still has the same drive and energy that characterized his fight for his kind of art in the 1930s. He chews on a dead cigar, because his wife says he smokes too much, and works only in good light to spare his eyes. But his voice and ideas are flinty as ever.

Benton comes from a line of fighters. His great-uncle was one of Missouri's first two senators when it became a state in 1820. That Thomas Hart Benton served 30 years in the Senate and held the Washington spotlight in competition with such men as Jackson, Webster, Van Buren and Clay. The painter's father, Maecenas Benton, served five terms in the U.S. House of Representatives after discharge as a colonel in the Confederate army and political prominence as U.S. attorney.

Benton's career bloomed in the late 20s and 30s when — with Grant Wood of Iowa and John Steuart Curry of Kansas — he spearheaded the regionalist movement in art.

"You have no idea what a disturbance the regionalist created in the 1930s," he says. "We believed in painting reality, and we believed reality is what one experiences at the moment.

"There was another movement toward reality on the part of the Marxists, but they sought to idealize and propagandize. At the other extreme were the purists who supported abstract art. Life was barely tenable for the regionalists."

Benton has made his home in Kansas City since returning from Paris and New York in the mid-1930s. He is the only one of the famed Wood-Curry-Benton triumvirate still alive.

Benton is as outspoken as Truman in his beliefs, and he can get just as salty.

Truman's remarks about a music critic and farmers who vote Republican are remembered. So — in the art world — is Benton's remark of the 30s that a typical art museum is "a graveyard run by a pretty boy with delicate wrists and a swing to his gait."

Another time Benton said he "would rather have my pictures hang in saloons than museums because more people would see them."

In one of his biggest battles—over a mural in the Missouri House of Representatives—he was castigated partly because he depicted Missourians as hick types.

His reply to a critic: "You suggest there is something wrong with the hick. I found him more interesting and more intelligent than you."

Benton was asked if historian Truman gave him much trouble.

"No, he was the perfect patron, and this was the perfect commission," replied the artist.

Truman was asked if the mural came up to his expectations.

"Well, I picked him because he was the best," the former president said beaming. "And this is the finest work by the best."

Finns Drink Least, Have Most Alcoholics

By A. E. PEDERSEN Jr.

HELSINKI (UPI)—A sociologist with a bent for the unusual might study the phenomenon that makes Finland both the most teetotaling and the most hard drinking country in Europe.

With a per-capita consumption of 2.5 liters, or just under three quarts, of alcohol per year, Finland consumes less than any other country in Western Europe.

But in proportion to the actual amount consumed, Finland turns out more alcoholics than any other country on the continent.

Henrik Wallgren, a young Finnish zoologist and physiologist, is no expert on sociology, so all he does is pose the question:

"Why has Finland more alcoholics than, for example, France?"

Using some data gathered by other researchers and some he dug up himself, Wallgren comes up with a theory of his own:

Using some figures compiled for his study, "Some Social and Cultural Aspects of Alcoholism," published by the Canadian Psychiatrical Association, Wallgren noted that drinking habits vary greatly from country to country.

France, with a per capita consumption of some 17 liters (almost 18 quarts) of alcohol annually, does about two-thirds of its drinking from the wine bottle. The average Italian drinks little more htan half of the amount the Frenchman consumes, and drinks an even greater percentage of wine. The Belgian drinks about 7.5 liters of alcohol a year, according to the figures, and beer makes up about 90 per cent of the liquid diet.

Perhaps, Wallgren theorizes, geography and climate play some role, since Finland, Sweden and Norway, in that order are Europe's biggest consumers of hard liquor.

Cracow Most Picturesque European City

By FREDERICK M. WINSHIP
United Press International

One of the most picturesque cities in Europe, though little visited by tourists, is Cracow, the intellectual capital of Poland. For the American who is taking advantage of improved travel conditions in Eastern Europe, Cracow is a must for one reason—it is one of the few historic cities that survived World War II without major destruction.

Walk the streets of Cracow and absorb the best of the Northern Gothic and Renaissance styles of architecture. Here ruled a brave succession of Polish kings, patrons of some of the finest artists of the periods. From a trading center of buttressed houses on the River Vistual sprang superb churches, a great university, and the galleried castle and imposing cathedral that adorn Wawel Mound.

One treasure alone makes Cracow worthy of pilgrimage — the wood carved altar triptych in St. Mary's Church which took Cracow's master sculptor, Viet Stoss, 12 years to complete. Its myriad figures glow in the dim depths of the sanctuary with a breathtaking glory unrivaled in all Gothic art.

Almost as famous is the city's Cloth Hall, a 13th Century gargoyle-adorned market building whose bisy stalls are bright with Polish folk art and costumes. It is in the center of the Ring-Platz Square, the heart of the old city whose limits are traced by a belt of green park where once the city's ramparts stood.

Walk the royal mile down Grodzka St., its ancient shop fronts occupied by modern stores and even a jazz cafe, to the Wawel Mound, where the very spirit of a free Poland was enshrined through successive occupations by Russia, Austria and Germany.

Visit Wawel's St. Stanislaw Cathedral, renowned for Queen Jadwiga's alabaster sarcophagus, the golden Sigismund Chamel, the Polish royal regalia, and the subterranean pantheon crypt of polish heroes — Sobieski, Kosciuszko, Poniatowsky, Mickiewicz, Pilsudski.

The adjoining royal castle has been under restoration for 40 years and boasts a dramatic throne room with Turkish embroidered hangings and a courtyard of noble proportions. Another courtyard of great beauty is in the newly restored Gothic building of the Jagellonian University, where Copernicus' astronomical instruments are displayed.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—An amalgamation that may very well make history in the theatrical and musical world is that of Alan Jay Lerner and Richard Rodgers. They will unite in producing a Broadway musical, the one they have in mind being "Coco Chanel." If they do this first, naturally Freddie Brisson will make it in association with them since he has the rights to Chanel's life tied up.

The union of Lerner and Rodgers is a natural. Since Frederick Loewe, Lerner's partner in "My Fair Lady" and "Camelot," has said he will not work for a year, and the death of Oscar Hammerstein II left Dick Rodgers without a partner. To me, this is one of the big Broadway stories of the year.

For the most original idea I've heard in a long time I give the prize to producer Hall Bartlett and writer Eugene Vale who have come up with "A Global Affair." What's it about? Just the United Nations, that's all!

You may think this is a big chunk to chew off screen-wise, but as the yarn is outlined, there's both humor and human interest in Vale's story. It's about a newly born baby abandoned on the premises of the UN headquarters in New York. The infant comes to symbolize the children all over the world when its care is undertaken not only by the ambassadors from all the countries but by the lovely ladies of the UN staffs.

New Warner Bros. production boss, Willian. Orr, saw "Critic's Choice" in New York last Saturday night and was so high on it he bought it for Warners on Tuesday morning.

It was printed elsewhere that "Critic's Choice" had been bought by another studio to star Bob Hope—and the Bob Hope part is correct: I mean, Robin will star in the comedy for Warner Bros. Isn't this his first time on this lot? Another "first," the movie version of the Ira Levin play marks Frank Rosenberg's return to Warners as a producer.

Her close brush with death has given Elizabeth Taylor a new warmth and sweetness that her friends are now discovering. She telephoned me after she heard I hadn't been feeling well, and I was very touched because I know it must have been an effort for her to talk.

Eddie Fisher got on the phone and said they haven't yet bought a house, but they have two in mind in the Trousdale Estates that they like very much. He wants Liz to put on some weight, she lost so much during her illness.

I called Gary Cooper to let him know how many people had complimented him on his TV show "The Real West." Rocky (Mrs. C.) said he had literally hundreds of letters and telegrams telling him how refreshing it is to see a Western TV show in which men were not brutal and vicious. Instead, they were the real pioneers whose bravery and adventures made this great Western country possible for those who followed them—the West that Gary Cooper first created in the movies.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am one of the millions of victims of that racket called "alimony." Is there a way out?

I divorced my husband because he was no good. I didn't take a dime from the rat when I left — and he had plenty. I believe it is immoral for a woman to collect money just because she used to be married to a man.

Then I met Frankie. I knew I wanted him more than anything in the world. He was married to a social-climbing snob. If it weren't for their child he'd have left her long ago. He had moved into the guest room a year before we met so I was not the cause of their rift.

Frankie and I slid around back stairs and out-of-the-way places for 15 months before he asked for a divorce. His wife said, "All right, but it'll cost you plenty."

I must keep working because almost half of what Frankie makes goes to his wife and son. They live just as they always have — lovely home, maid, trips, new car — the works. We're cramped in a small apartment.

Something is wrong with the laws when a grasping, greedy female who was a lousy wife can get away with this. An able-bodied woman should have to go to work if she fails as a wife. America is the only country in the world where the alimony racket flourishes. Why? — FIGHTER AGAINST INJUSTICE

DEAR FIGHTER: Alimony is the high cost of leaving. When a woman marries a divorced man with a family she marries his headaches and his responsibilities. You said you wanted him more than anything in the world. Well now you've got him—total—so don't complain.

If the sanctity of marriage is to be upheld the law must be on the side of the legally wed — not the illicit lovers. This is only one reason I urge those who are considering marriage to make certain their selection is a durable one.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I had a little girl out of wedlock six years ago. I was no youngster (33) and decided to keep her and do my best against terrific odds.

I've been masquerading as a divorced woman and no one knows the truth except my mother. My problem is I've told Louise her father is dead. She keeps wanting to see his picture. Would it be all right if I showed her a picture of a cousin who was killed during the war? It would satisfy her and solve my problem.—SORRY MESS

DEAR MESS: Don't add a third lie to the two now afloat. Tell Louise you have no picture.

DEAR ANN: I could kiss you for that letter knocking "Dropping in unexpectedly." With summer nearly here I hope some of our so-called friends will see it and take the hint.

We bought a summer home because we wanted to rest and be alone — away from the tensions of the city. Every week end we are plagued by friends and relatives who just assume we are thrilled to see them. They bring nothing but big appetites and tired bones. I have a housekeeper in the city but I do my own work at the cottage, and believe me, most week ends it's easier to stay home. I've had to cook for as many as eleven unexpected guests on a Sunday.

Is there a solution for us? — TRAPPED

DEAR TRAPPED: Yes. Tell all unexpected visitors you have plans for the day. Fix them a cup of coffee, visit for half an hour, walk them to their car, then get in yours and take a little ride.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love Or Sex?" enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Using some figures compiled for his study, "Some Social and Cultural Aspects of Alcoholism," published by the Canadian Psychiatrical Association, Wallgren noted that drinking habits vary greatly from country to country.

France, with a per capita consumption of some 17 liters (almost 18 quarts) of alcohol annually, does about two-thirds of its drinking from the wine bottle. The average Italian drinks little more htan half of the amount the Frenchman consumes, and drinks an even greater percentage of wine. The Belgian drinks about 7.5 liters of alcohol a year, according to the figures, and beer makes up about 90 per cent of the liquid diet.

Perhaps, Wallgren theorizes, geography and climate play some role, since Finland, Sweden and Norway, in that order are Europe's biggest consumers of hard liquor.

Cracow Most Picturesque European City

By FREDERICK M. WINSHIP
United Press International

One of the most picturesque cities in Europe, though little visited by tourists, is Cracow, the intellectual capital of Poland. For the American who is taking advantage of improved travel conditions in Eastern Europe, Cracow is a must for one reason—it is one of the few historic cities that survived World War II without major destruction.

Walk the streets of Cracow and absorb the best of the Northern Gothic and Renaissance styles of architecture. Here ruled a brave succession of Polish kings, patrons of some of the finest artists of the periods. From a trading center of buttressed houses on the River Vistual sprang superb churches, a great university, and the galleried castle and imposing cathedral that adorn Wawel Mound.

One treasure alone makes Cracow worthy of pilgrimage — the wood carved altar triptych in St. Mary's Church which took Cracow's master sculptor, Viet Stoss, 12 years to complete. Its myriad figures glow in the dim depths of the sanctuary with a breathtaking glory unrivaled in all Gothic art.

Almost as famous is the city's Cloth Hall, a 13th Century gargoyle-adorned market building whose bisy stalls are bright with Polish folk art and costumes. It is in the center of the Ring-Platz Square, the heart of the old city whose limits are traced by a belt of green park where once the city's ramparts stood.

Walk the royal mile down Grodzka St., its ancient shop fronts occupied by modern stores and even a jazz cafe, to the Wawel Mound, where the very spirit of a free Poland was enshrined through successive occupations by Russia, Austria and Germany.

Visit Wawel's St. Stanislaw Cathedral, renowned for Queen Jadwiga's alabaster sarcophagus, the golden Sigismund Chamel, the Polish royal regalia, and the subterranean pantheon crypt of polish heroes — Sobieski, Kosciuszko, Poniatowsky, Mickiewicz, Pilsudski.

The adjoining royal castle has been under restoration for 40 years and boasts a dramatic throne room with Turkish embroidered hangings and a courtyard of noble proportions. Another courtyard of great beauty is in the newly restored Gothic building of the Jagellonian University, where Copernicus' astronomical instruments are displayed.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—An amalgamation that may very well make history in the theatrical and musical world is that of Alan Jay Lerner and Richard Rodgers. They will unite in producing a Broadway musical, the one they have in mind being "Coco Chanel." If they do this first, naturally Freddie Brisson will make it in association with them since he has the rights to Chanel's life tied up.

The union of Lerner and Rodgers is a natural. Since Frederick Loewe, Lerner's partner in "My Fair Lady" and "Camelot," has said he will not work for a year, and the death of Oscar Hammerstein II left Dick Rodgers without a partner. To me, this is one of the big Broadway stories of the year.

For the most original idea I've heard in a long time I give the prize to producer Hall Bartlett and writer Eugene Vale who have come up with "A Global Affair." What's it about? Just the United Nations, that's all!

You may think this is a big chunk to chew off screen-wise, but as the yarn is outlined, there's both humor and human interest in Vale's story. It's about a newly born baby abandoned on the premises of the UN headquarters in New York. The infant comes to symbolize the children all over the world when its care is undertaken not only by the ambassadors from all the countries but by the lovely ladies of the UN staffs.

New Warner Bros. production boss, William Orr, saw "Critic's Choice" in New York last Saturday night and was so high on it he bought it for Warners on Tuesday morning.

It was printed elsewhere that "Critic's Choice" had been bought by another studio to star Bob Hope—and the Bob Hope part is correct: I mean, Robin will star in the comedy for Warner Bros. Isn't this his first time on this lot? Another "first," the movie version of the Ira Levin play marks Frank Rosenberg's return to Warners as a producer.

Her close brush with death has given Elizabeth Taylor a new warmth and sweetness that her friends are now discovering. She telephoned me after she heard I hadn't been feeling well, and I was very touched because I know it must have been an effort for her to talk.

Eddie Fisher got on the phone and said they haven't yet bought a house, but they have two in mind in the Trousdale Estates that they like very much. He wants Liz to put on some weight, she lost so much during her illness.

I called Gary Cooper to let him know how many people had complimented him on his TV show "The Real West." Rocky (Mrs. C.) said he had literally hundreds of letters and telegrams telling him how refreshing it is to see a Western TV show in which men were not brutal and vicious. Instead, they were the real pioneers whose bravery and adventures made this great Western country possible for those who followed them—the West that Gary Cooper first created in the movies.

Don't Take Oath

LONDON (UPI) — The British Medical Association said Tuesday that no major British medical school requires its graduates to take the 2,300-year old Hippocratic oath of ethical conduct.

It said some universities, however, require a form of the oath.

Some Phases Government Are Outdated

W. Va. Treasurer Seeks Revisions

By CARLO J. SALZANO

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Some phases of the state government were termed outdated and inadequate Tuesday by State Treasurer John H. Kelly.

Particularly criticized by Kelly are the state's auditing and accounting systems. He said they need extensive modernization.

Kelly said the state has no real auditing system and that there is "too much overlapping of auditing and accounting procedures in various departments."

He said that although the State Tax Department is charged with auditing state spending units, the auditor's office, for one, has never ben audited.

Also being sought by Kelly, and State Tax Commissioner C. Howard Hardesty, is more office space to cope with the administration of the new state income tax. They also want more up-to-date equipment.

One way to get more space, says Kelly, would be to throw away most of the old canceled checks and bonds that are stored in two basement rooms. However, State Atty. Gen. C. Donald Robertson must approve the "junking" of the documents.

In anticipation of the income tax refund checks he must start sending out next year, Kelly has another time and money saving idea in mind.

He would eliminate his department's chore of sending out thousands of small payments to college and university students as refunds for laboratory fees. He said he thinks the colleges themselves should be allowed to make the refunds, with reimbursement by the tax department.

"If we could cut these small checks out," said Kelly, "we would be able to absorb the income tax refund load without additional personnel."

Some Phases Government Are Outdated

W. Va. Treasurer Seeks Revisions

By CARLO J. SALZANO

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Some phases of the state government were termed outdated and inadequate Tuesday by State Treasurer John H. Kelly.

Particularly criticized by Kelly are the state's auditing and accounting systems. He said they need extensive modernization.

Kelly said the state has no real auditing system and that there is "too much overlapping of auditing and accounting procedures in various departments."

He said that although the State Tax Department is charged with auditing state spending units, the auditor's office, for one, has never ben audited.

Also being sought by Kelly, and State Tax Commissioner C. Howard Hardesty, is more office space to cope with the administration of the new state income tax. They also want more up-to-date equipment.

One way to get more space, says Kelly, would be to throw away most of the old canceled checks and bonds that are stored in two basement rooms. However, State Atty. Gen. C. Donald Robertson must approve the "junking" of the documents.

In anticipation of the income tax refund checks he must start sending out next year, Kelly has another time and money saving idea in mind.

He would eliminate his department's chore of sending out thousands of small payments to college and university students as refunds for laboratory fees. He said he thinks the colleges themselves should be allowed to make the refunds, with reimbursement by the tax department.

"If we could cut these small checks out," said Kelly, "we would be able to absorb the income tax refund load without additional personnel."

Old Germans Defeated; Noland's, PBC Win 'Y' Games

Clise's Trip Senior Class Champs 41-40

Steiner's Advance; Three Semi-Final Games Set Tonight

Clise's Service Station upset the Old Germans last night in the quarter-finals of the YMCA-Jaycees Basketball tournament, edging the Senior Division defending champions, 41-40, on Hank Winner's foul goal with eight seconds to play.

Today's Schedule

8:00—Moorefield Mountain Men vs. Clise's Service Station (Sr. Unlimited).

(Semi-finals)

The Old Germans had ruled the roost in the Senior Unlimited Division for the past two years and members of the team had participated with division champions for four successive years.

Clise's jumped in front in the opening quarter, 13-7, and held on for the victory, leading 26-24 at halftime and 35-33 at the close of the third period.

Dave Marple knotted the score at 40-all for the Old Germans in the last quarter, but Winner's foul shot put the defending champions out of the running this year.

Three Finalists Decided

Three finalists in this year's tournament also were decided last night. Two Police Boys Club teams and Steiner's Raiders advanced into the final round of the 16th annual affair which nears its climax on Friday.

Steiner's Raiders bounced Bert's Bullets out of the running with a 36-32 triumph in the Junior Unlimited Division on the "Y" court in last night's semi-finals.

Carroll Wilt pumped in a field goal and added a pair of fouls in the final minute of play to break a 32-32 deadlock and gave the Raider's their third victory in tournament play this year. Steiner's won by forefeit over Dunlop's Dunkers in the opening round, then defeated Dom's Market, 58-43, in the quarter-finals.

Wilt and Phil Barbe, a pair of LaSalle High stalwarts this past season, paced the Raiders with 14 points apiece. Grayson Solomon tallied 12 for Bert's Bullets.

Steiner's will meet the Police Boys Club in the Junior Unlimited Division finale on Friday at 8 o'clock.

The PBC quint backed into the finals last night when St. Patrick's defending Junior Unlimited champions were forced to withdraw as most of their players, students at LaSalle High, dropped out of the tournament.

St. Patrick's Withdraws

The decision to forefeit by St. Patrick's moved the Police Boys Club, winners over Cumberland Opticians, 87-65, and Stahlman's Esso, 49-35, into the final round. The PBC five — which would have met St. Patrick's today in the Junior Unlimited semi-finals — thus gets a shot at Steiner's for the division title.

The second Police Boys Club team to gain the finals is the 135-Pound Division entry which downed Jo-Jo's Basketeers last night, 39-32.

Manager Johnny Daum's PBC quint chalked up its third triumph in the tournament and will meet the winner of tonight's Keyser Moose-Lover's Leap Esso clash in Friday's finals at 7 p. m.

Victors over Harry's Five by forefeit and Mike's Five, 74-43, the Police Boys Club broke a 24-24 deadlock in the last quarter to eliminate Jo-Jo's.

Paul Green was the big gun for the PBC with 14 points on six goals and 2-8 fouls. High man for Jo-Jo's was Tom Cangianelli who tallied 12 points.

In the nightcap of yesterday's four contests, Noland's Garage gained the semi-finals with a 71-62 triumph over the Papermakers in the Senior Unlimited Division.

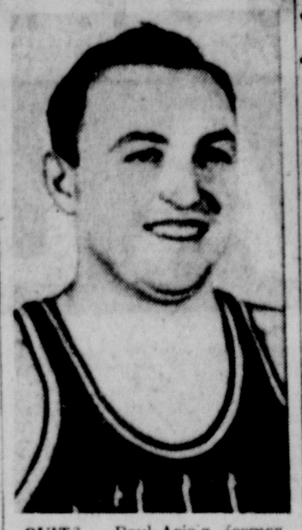
Noland's composed of players from Washington County, will clash with Kifer's Beverage Center at 9 o'clock tonight in the game which could be the feature of the tournament. Kifer's roster contains a number of University of Maryland players.

Scallion Scores 29

Nick Scallion, former cage star of Washington College, was the scoring standout for Noland's last night, connecting for 29 points on eight goals and 13-14 at the free throw line. Jim Clevenger dumped in 13 points to lead the Papermakers' attack.

The contest was a thriller all the way with the score deadlocked at 12-12 and 29-29 at the end of the first two quarters before Noland's grabbed a 51-46 lead in the third stanza.

Tonight's trio of games will be semi-final matches in the 135-pound division and the Senior Unlimited Class.



QUITS — Paul Arizin, former All-America who has played for the Philadelphia Warriors for the past nine years, announced yesterday he is quitting basketball to take a full-time business position. (AP Photofax)

Bob Cousy Gets 26 Points; 13,909 See Contest In Boston

BOSTON (UPI) — The flashy Boston Celtics, overcoming an early 12-point deficit, thumped the St. Louis Hawks, 116-108, Wednesday night and took a 2-0 lead in their National Basketball Association title series.

The defending champion Celts, meeting the Hawks for the fourth time in the last five championship playoffs, turned the trick mainly by registering 10 consecutive points before St. Louis could net a single point in the second half. Boston had rallied to grab a one-point edge at the intermission, 53-52, after being as far behind as a dozen points midway through the opening period.

The Hawks got a tremendous one-two punch from Cliff Hagan and Bob Pettit to break fast in the first half. The two wound up the game with a total of 70 points, Hagan with 40 and the 6-9 Pettit with 30.

Cousy Stands Out

Bob Cousy turned in one of his finest playoff games in years and topped Boston's scorers with 26 points and 14 assists. Close behind him were Frank Ramsey with 24, Tommy Heinsohn with 23, and Sam Jones with 22.

Heinsohn and Jones were the sparkplugs at the outset of the third period. They dropped in two baskets apiece in Boston's 10 consecutive points that gave the Celtics a 63-52 lead.

The Celts held an 8- to 10-point lead most of the way after that.

13,909 Attend Game

The game was played before a capacity Garden crowd of 13,909. The next two games will be played at St. Louis Saturday and Sunday afternoons before a national television audience.

Though the Celtics have won the NBA crown two years running and have defeated the Hawks three of the last four years, Boston was never able to grab a 2-0 lead in a final series.

Giants To Forfeit Bail After Arrest At Phoenix, Ariz.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Three members of the San Francisco Giants baseball team were jailed briefly Wednesday on charges of drunk and disorderly conduct, but they don't intend to stand trial.

The charges stemmed from a dispute with two youths — or three, depending on which version you accept — outside the Giants' headquarters at the downtown Hotel Adams.

They were held three hours, then released on $30 bond each. A preliminary hearing was set for April 18 — 11 days after the Giants are due to leave their Phoenix spring training camp.

"We're going into a pennant race now," club secretary Edward T. Brannick told police, "and we won't be back. The bail will be forfeited."

Clise's Trip Senior Class Champs 41-40

Steiner's Advance; Three Semi-Final Games Set Tonight

Clise's Service Station upset the Old Germans last night in the quarter-finals of the YMCA-Jaycees Basketball tournament, edging the Senior Division defending champions, 41-40, on Hank Winner's foul goal with eight seconds to play.

Today's Schedule

8:00—Moorefield Mountain Men vs. Clise's Service Station (Sr. Unlimited).

(Semi-finals)

The Old Germans had ruled the roost in the Senior Unlimited Division for the past two years and members of the team had participated with division champions for four successive years.

Clise's jumped in front in the opening quarter, 13-7, and held on for the victory, leading 26-24 at halftime and 35-33 at the close of the third period.

Dave Marple knotted the score at 40-all for the Old Germans in the last quarter, but Winner's foul shot put the defending champions out of the running this year.

Three Finalists Decided

Three finalists in this year's tournament also were decided last night. Two Police Boys Club teams and Steiner's Raiders advanced into the final round of the 16th annual affair which nears its climax on Friday.

Steiner's Raiders bounced Bert's Bullets out of the running with a 36-32 triumph in the Junior Unlimited Division on the "Y" court in last night's semi-finals.

Carroll Wilt pumped in a field goal and added a pair of fouls in the final minute of play to break a 32-32 deadlock and gave the Raider's their third victory in tournament play this year. Steiner's won by forefeit over Dunlop's Dunkers in the opening round, then defeated Dom's Market, 58-43, in the quarter-finals.

Wilt and Phil Barbe, a pair of LaSalle High stalwarts this past season, paced the Raiders with 14 points apiece. Grayson Solomon tallied 12 for Bert's Bullets.

Steiner's will meet the Police Boys Club in the Junior Unlimited Division finale on Friday at 8 o'clock.

The PBC quint backed into the finals last night when St. Patrick's defending Junior Unlimited champions were forced to withdraw as most of their players, students at LaSalle High, dropped out of the tournament.

St. Patrick's Withdraws

The decision to forefeit by St. Patrick's moved the Police Boys Club, winners over Cumberland Opticians, 87-65, and Stahlman's Esso, 49-35, into the final round. The PBC five — which would have met St. Patrick's today in the Junior Unlimited semi-finals — thus gets a shot at Steiner's for the division title.

The second Police Boys Club team to gain the finals is the 135-Pound Division entry which downed Jo-Jo's Basketeers last night, 39-32.

Manager Johnny Daum's PBC quint chalked up its third triumph in the tournament and will meet the winner of tonight's Keyser Moose-Lover's Leap Esso clash in Friday's finals at 7 p. m.

Victors over Harry's Five by forefeit and Mike's Five, 74-43, the Police Boys Club broke a 24-24 deadlock in the last quarter to eliminate Jo-Jo's.

Paul Green was the big gun for the PBC with 14 points on six goals and 2-8 fouls. High man for Jo-Jo's was Tom Cangianelli who tallied 12 points.

In the nightcap of yesterday's four contests, Noland's Garage gained the semi-finals with a 71-62 triumph over the Papermakers in the Senior Unlimited Division.

Noland's composed of players from Washington County, will clash with Kifer's Beverage Center at 9 o'clock tonight in the game which could be the feature of the tournament. Kifer's roster contains a number of University of Maryland players.

Scallion Scores 29

Nick Scallion, former cage star of Washington College, was the scoring standout for Noland's last night, connecting for 29 points on eight goals and 13-14 at the free throw line. Jim Clevenger dumped in 13 points to lead the Papermakers' attack.

The contest was a thriller all the way with the score deadlocked at 12-12 and 29-29 at the end of the first two quarters before Noland's grabbed a 51-46 lead in the third stanza.

Tonight's trio of games will be semi-final matches in the 135-pound division and the Senior Unlimited Class.

QUITS — Paul Arizin, former All-America who has played for the Philadelphia Warriors for the past nine years, announced yesterday he is quitting basketball to take a full-time business position.

Giants To Forfeit Bail After Arrest At Phoenix, Ariz.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Three members of the San Francisco Giants baseball team were jailed briefly Wednesday on charges of drunk and disorderly conduct, but they don't intend to stand trial.

The charges stemmed from a dispute with two youths — or three, depending on which version you accept — outside the Giants' headquarters at the downtown Hotel Adams.

Arrested shortly before their midnight curfew were infielder-outfielder Harvey Kuenn, 31, third baseman Jim Davenport, 27, and catcher Bob Schmidt, 27.

They were held three hours, then released on $30 bond each. A preliminary hearing was set for April 18 — 11 days after the Giants are due to leave their Phoenix spring training camp.

"We're going into a pennant race now," club secretary Edward T. Brannick told police, "and we won't be back. The bail will be forfeited."

Potomac State Hosts Hagerstown Junior College Today

Cats To Seek 5th Straight Win In Series

Salem At Keyser Friday, Ashland Is Saturday Foe

Potomac State College is slated to play its third Tri-State Junior College Conference baseball game of the season today when it meets Hagerstown Junior College in Keyser at 3 p.m.

Coach John Fox's team will be angling for its fifth consecutive win over the Hub City School which has never beaten the Catamounts in baseball. Potomac State won the first two games of the series in 1958 by scores of 8-1 and 9-2 and made another sweep last season, 7-4 and 2-1.

Hagerstown, coached by Irv Easterday, will be opening a 12-game schedule today. Potomac State plays in the Hub City on May 4.

Today's game is the first of three games on successive days for the Catamounts. Salem (W. Va.) College is at Keyser Friday while Coach George Donges' Ashland College's Eagles of Ashland, Ohio, invade Keyser for a Saturday contest.

Action in the Potomac Valley Conference today will be provided by Grant county teams with Bayard High School slated to play host to the Petersburg High Vikings. Coach Wayne Barr's Vikings will be opening a 10-game schedule in the 14-school circuit.

Orioles, Twins Break Even

MIAMI (UPI) — The Baltimore Orioles salvaged the nightcap of an exhibition doubleheader Wednesday, 5-4, after the Minnesota Twins had taken the opener, 7-4. The second contest was restricted to seven innings.

The Twins pummeled Milt Pappas, who went all the way for Baltimore, for 11 safeties to win the opener. Lee Stange, who worked the final three and one third frames, was the winner.

Skinny Brown also went the distance for the Brids in the nightcap to earn the decision over Ralph Lumenti and Bill Pleis, who worked the final four innings and was the loser. Brown gave eight safeties, one more than the Orioles could get off the Twins duo.

Yankees Win, 5-4

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — Roger Maris, in a spring-long slump and hitting only .200, slammed a long single to right field in the 11th inning Wednesday to drive in the winning run as the New York Yankees' concluded their Florida exhibition schedule with a 5-4 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Moose Skowron, with a home run and double, drove in four of the Yankee runs. He homered in the first off Ray Sadecki with two mates aboard and his two bagger drove in Mickey Mantle, who had singled, with another run in the fourth.

DEER DEATHS IN MARYLAND—Field biologist Charles M. Marshall, left, and Dr. Frank A. Hayes, director of the Southeastern Co-operative Wildlife Disease Study, take a look at some of the deer that died in Maryland woods during the past winter. The Georgia men said the deer died of starvation, biting lice, and brain and stomach worms. They said the heavy death toll is nature's way of weeding out undesirable or weak members of an overabundant animal population. (AP Photofax)

West Virginia Principals To Vote On Cage Proposal

Coaches Opposed To Curtailment Of Week-Day Contests

BUCKHANNON, W. Va. (UPI) — The West Virginia Secondary School Activities Commission opens its annual meeting here Thursday — with a vote scheduled on a proposal to sharply curtail week-day night scholastic basketball in the state.

If approved by the principals, the plan would permit a school to play only six games during a season on nights preceding a school day — starting with the 1962-63 season.

Coaches Oppose Idea

This would have the effect of pushing much of the high school basketball action back to Friday and Saturday nights. Both coaches and many principals are strongly against the idea.

The proposal, among several changes suggested in scholastic sports regulations, was based on a recommendation of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, of which most West Virginia schools are members.

The North Central Association recommends that members "make a genuine effort to avoid scheduling interscholastic contests at times when they are likely to interfere with the classroom program. Athletic and other types of interscholastic competition should be scheduled on week ends whenever possible."

Other major proposals to be considered would:

— Allow a school to participate in two pre-season football scrimmages with other schools, without them counting as regular games, provided they are not played under game conditions.

— Prohibit a school from playing its first basketball game until 30 days after the end of its football season.

Holiday Tournaments

— Rescind a rule to allow a school to participate in a Christmas holiday basketball tournament, with such competition counting as only one game in its maximum 20-game regular season allowance.

— Allow junior high schools to participate in a regional tournament, in addition to conference or county tournaments.

There was believed to be a good deal of opposition to all of the proposals, except possibly the one to rule out the holiday basketball tournaments, which resulted in confusion and fines when they were tried last December.

Moore Defends Title Saturday

Davey To Fight Valdez On Coast

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A matter of too much weight may be Davey Moore's main problem as he prepares to defend his world featherweight title Saturday night.

At the moment, Moore weighs "around 132 pounds," and has only four days to pare down to the 126 limit.

Moore is a solid favorite to retain his title. It will be his third defense since he won the crown from Hogan (Kid) Bassey in this same Olympic ring March 18, 1959. He stopped Bassey in 13 rounds, knocked him out in 11 in a rematch and then outpointed Takayama in Japan.

Severe Winter Takes Heavy Toll Of Deer

Deaths Concentrated Among The Young

BALTIMORE (AP) — A heavy toll of Maryland deer was taken by the severe winter of 1960-61, state biologists reported Wednesday.

Officials for the Maryland Department of Research and Education said the toll was particularly heavy in areas where the deer population was too heavy for the natural capacity of the land. They said the food supply was particularly low last winter due to heavy snows and weeks of subfreezing temperatures.

Deaths were concentrated among young deer which could not compete for scarce food, deer crippled by automobiles and those weak by nature, the biologists said.

The officials said this was nature's way of weeding out undesirable or weak members of an overabundant animal population. Artificial feeding is not recommended, they said, since this only prolongs the starvation.

Chisox Edge K.C.

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI) —Early Wynn and Gerry Staley, a couple of ageless veterans, collaborated to hurl the Chicago White Sox to a 3-1 victory over Kansas City Wednesday.

While Staley blanked the A's through the final two innings, Ed Rakow was solved for two runs in the eighth. Minnie Minoso doubled and Sievers walked. After a sacrifice and intentional pass filled the bases, another pass to Jim Landis forced one run across and Camilo Carreon's sacrifice fly counted the other.

Budge Patty Weds

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — Budge Patty, American tennis player living in Paris and Maria Marcina Sfezzo were married Wednesday.

Miss Sfezzo, a Brazilian living in Lausanne, gave her age as 29, and Patty, born in Los Angeles, as 37.

Detroit Whips Pirates, 12-8

Gernert, Colavito, Morton Hit Homers

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) —The Detroit Tigers bombed the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates for the second straight day Wednesday, rolling up a 12-8 victory as Bubba Morton, Dick Gernert and Rocky Colavito clouted home runs.

The Tigers whipped the Pirates, 10-2, in Fort Myers Tuesday.

Jim Bunning went the distance for the Tigers for the second time this spring. He was touched for 13 hits but was able to finish after his mates provided him with a big cushion by scoring seven runs in the sixth inning.

Jake Wood featured the outburst against Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell with a bases-loaded triple. Mizell was hit hard, giving up 14 hits and 11 runs in six innings. Bobby Shantz finished up.

Dodgers Blanked, 2-0

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) —Don Blasingame homered over the right field wall off Stan Williams in the fifth inning Wednesday and rookie catcher Tom Haller scored off Larry Sherry aftwr doubling in the seventh and the San Francisco Giants defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers, 2-0.

Washington Likes The Looks Of Rookie Twirler McClain

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. — "He does the job, but you don't know he's around because he just goes about his business of becoming a major league pitcher."

That was the slant manager Mickey Vernon of the Washington Senators gave to the prospects of Joe McClain, a 27-year-old rookie pitcher in the Washington camp here, a camp where pitching is needed.

McClain has been with eight minor league clubs after originally being signed by the Cards and he's never yet had a chance to the make the big time. But the Senators are a new team and everyone here has that chance and McClain may wind up as a starter on the varsity.

Joe comes up this year from Charleston, where he won 11 and lost 14 with a bad ball club. He demonstrated excellent control last season, walking only 33 in 223 innings pitched as compared to 112 strikeouts.

McClain had good years with Peoria in 1956 after he came back from the service and with Columbus, Ga., the following season. He was used sparingly after that, however, until last year.

McClain, is from Johnson City, Tenn., where he was a fullback and outfielder and pitcher at Science Hill High in his school days. He went to the University of Tennessee on a baseball scholarship. There he played the outfield and hit .417 to win the Southeastern Conference batting title.

Joe quit Tennessee, returned home and enrolled at East Tennessee State and it was while playing ball there that the Cards signed him for a $4,000 bonus. McClain then went into the service.

McClain and 10 other Cardinal farm hands were sold to Charleston in 1959 and the Washington team drafted him from Charleston.

Donovan Hurls Route For Nats

Washington Beats Philadelphia, 10-2

CLEARWATER, Fla (AP)—Veteran Dick Donovan went the full nine innings Wednesday as the Washington Senators defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 10-2 in the Phillies' final Florida exhibition baseball game of the training season.

Donovan limited the Phillies to seven hits.

Chris Short and Johnny Buzhardt split the pitching for the losers. Southpaw Short gave up five runs and eight hits in the first five innings. The Senators got only one hit in scoring five runs in the sixth but Buzhardt walked four and was the victim of errors by Jimmy Woods and Joe Koppe.

MacPhail To Bow Out Of Racing

BEL AIR, Md. (AP) — Larry MacPhail, former baseball executive and since 1947 a Maryland horse breeder, will sell the last of his thoroughbred holdings at public auction May 22.

Neil Johnston Signs To Coach At Pittsburgh

Gets 2-Year Pact In New Cage Loop

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI)—Neil Johnston, former coach for the Philadelphia Warriors, signed Wednesday with the new Pittsburgh entry in the American Basketball League for a two-year term.

Johnston, one of the outstanding players in the National Basketball Association for ten years before taking the Philadelphia coaching job, which he held for two years, was reported to have quit the Warriors because of differences with Warrior's tall-man, Wilt Chamberlin.

Lenny Litman, president of the Pittsburgh team, said Johnston will be in Pittsburgh in June for the first tryout sessions, where both drafted and contracted players will try for the team.

Abe Saperstein, president of the new ABL, is here and was instrumental in the negotiations for league action in obtaining Johnston. The new league will begin operations in the first week of November.

Potomac State Hosts Hagerstown Junior College Today

Cats To Seek 5th Straight Win In Series

Salem At Keyser Friday, Ashland Is Saturday Foe

Potomac State College is slated to play its third Tri-State Junior College Conference baseball game of the season today when it meets Hagerstown Junior College in Keyser at 3 p.m.

Coach John Fox's team will be angling for its fifth consecutive win over the Hub City School which has never beaten the Catamounts in baseball. Potomac State won the first two games of the series in 1958 by scores of 8-1 and 9-2 and made another sweep last season, 7-4 and 2-1.

Hagerstown, coached by Irv Easterday, will be opening a 12-game schedule today. Potomac State plays in the Hub City on May 4.

Today's game is the first of three games on successive days for the Catamounts. Salem (W. Va.) College is at Keyser Friday while Coach George Donges' Ashland College's Eagles of Ashland, Ohio, invade Keyser for a Saturday contest.

Action in the Potomac Valley Conference today will be provided by Grant county teams with Bayard High School slated to play host to the Petersburg High Vikings. Coach Wayne Barr's Vikings will be opening a 10-game schedule in the 14-school circuit.

Orioles, Twins Break Even

MIAMI (UPI) — The Baltimore Orioles salvaged the nightcap of an exhibition doubleheader Wednesday, 5-4, after the Minnesota Twins had taken the opener, 7-4. The second contest was restricted to seven innings.

The Twins pummeled Milt Pappas, who went all the way for Baltimore, for 11 safeties to win the opener. Lee Stange, who worked the final three and one third frames, was the winner.

Skinny Brown also went the distance for the Brids in the nightcap to earn the decision over Ralph Lumenti and Bill Pleis, who worked the final four innings and was the loser. Brown gave eight safeties, one more than the Orioles could get off the Twins duo.

Yankees Win, 5-4

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — Roger Maris, in a spring-long slump and hitting only .200, slammed a long single to right field in the 11th inning Wednesday to drive in the winning run as the New York Yankees' concluded their Florida exhibition schedule with a 5-4 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Moose Skowron, with a home run and double, drove in four of the Yankee runs. He homered in the first off Ray Sadecki with two mates aboard and his two bagger drove in Mickey Mantle, who had singled, with another run in the fourth.

DEER DEATHS IN MARYLAND—Field biologist Charles M. Marshall, left, and Dr. Frank A. Hayes, director of the Southeastern Co-operative Wildlife Disease Study, take a look at some of the deer that died in Maryland woods during the past winter. They said the heavy death toll is nature's way of weeding out undesirable or weak members of an overabundant animal population. (AP Photofax)

West Virginia Principals To Vote On Cage Proposal

Coaches Opposed To Curtailment Of Week-Day Contests

BUCKHANNON, W. Va. (UPI) — The West Virginia Secondary School Activities Commission opens its annual meeting here Thursday — with a vote scheduled on a proposal to sharply curtail week-day night scholastic basketball in the state.

If approved by the principals, the plan would permit a school to play only six games during a season on nights preceding a school day — starting with the 1962-63 season.

Coaches Oppose Idea

This would have the effect of pushing much of the high school basketball action back to Friday and Saturday nights. Both coaches and many principals are strongly against the idea.

The proposal, among several changes suggested in scholastic sports regulations, was based on a recommendation of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, of which most West Virginia schools are members.

The North Central Association recommends that members "make a genuine effort to avoid scheduling interscholastic contests at times when they are likely to interfere with the classroom program. Athletic and other types of interscholastic competition should be scheduled on week ends whenever possible."

Other major proposals to be considered would:

— Allow a school to participate in two pre-season football scrimmages with other schools, without them counting as regular games, provided they are not played under game conditions.

— Prohibit a school from playing its first basketball game until 30 days after the end of its football season.

Holiday Tournaments

— Rescind a rule to allow a school to participate in a Christmas holiday basketball tournament, with such competition counting as only one game in its maximum 20-game regular season allowance.

— Allow junior high schools to participate in a regional tournament, in addition to conference or county tournaments.

There was believed to be a good deal of opposition to all of the proposals, except possibly the one to rule out the holiday basketball tournaments, which resulted in confusion and fines when they were tried last December.

Moore Defends Title Saturday

Davey To Fight Valdez On Coast

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A matter of too much weight may be Davey Moore's main problem as he prepares to defend his world featherweight title Saturday night.

Beaten but once in five years, rated one of the best pound-for-pound fighters in action, the Springfield, Ohio, scrapper meets young Danny Valdez in 15 round at the Olympic Auditorium.

At the moment, Moore weighs "around 132 pounds," and has only four days to pare down to the 126 limit.

"Man," said Davey, "don't you worry none. I'll make the weight.

The fight will not be televised nor broadcast by radio.

Moore is a solid favorite to retain his title. It will be his third defense since he won the crown from Hogan (Kid) Bassey in this same Olympic ring March 18, 1959. He stopped Bassey in 13 rounds, knocked him out in 11 in a rematch and then outpointed Takayama in Japan.

Severe Winter Takes Heavy Toll Of Deer

Deaths Concentrated Among The Young

BALTIMORE (AP) — A heavy toll of Maryland deer was taken by the severe winter of 1960-61, state biologists reported Wednesday.

Officials for the Maryland Department of Research and Education said the toll was particularly heavy in areas where the deer population was too heavy for the natural capacity of the land. They said the food supply was particularly low last winter due to heavy snows and weeks of subfreezing temperatures.

Deaths were concentrated among young deer which could not compete for scarce food, deer crippled by automobiles and those weak by nature, the biologists said.

The officials said this was nature's way of weeding out undesirable or weak members of an overabundant animal population. Artificial feeding is not recommended, they said, since this only prolongs the starvation.

Chisox Edge K.C.

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI) —Early Wynn and Gerry Staley, a couple of ageless veterans, collaborated to hurl the Chicago White Sox to a 3-1 victory over Kansas City Wednesday.

While Staley blanked the A's through the final two innings, Ed Rakow was solved for two runs in the eighth. Minnie Minoso doubled and Sievers walked. After a sacrifice and intentional pass filled the bases, another pass to Jim Landis forced one run across and Camilo Carreon's sacrifice fly counted the other.

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) —The Detroit Tigers bombed the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates for the second straight day Wednesday, rolling up a 12-8 victory as Bubba Morton, Dick Gernert and Rocky Colavito clouted home runs.

The Tigers whipped the Pirates, 10-2, in Fort Myers Tuesday.

Palmer Is 4-1 Favorite To Win Third Masters Title

Chicago Host For Stanley Cup Opener

Black Hawks Play Red Wings Tonight

DETROIT (UPI)—The Detroit Red Wings, gunning for their first Stanley Cup title in six years, must prove their mettle against the team coach Sid Abel calls "the roughest in the National Hockey League."

Professional hockey's greatest show, the Stanley Cup finals, opens Thursday night at Chicago with the first "All-American" cast since 1950 and both the Wings and Black Hawks are riding high after pulling stunning upsets in their semi-final rounds.

The Red Wings, who finished a distant fourth in the regular season race, eliminated the heavily-favored Toronto Maple Leafs in five games. Detroit, after losing the opener at Toronto, reeled off four straight victories in a blazing surge that was concluded last Saturday night.

The Black Hawks also finished strong in knocking off the league champion Montreal Canadiens in six games. The Canadiens, winners of the last five Stanley Cup crowns, were held scoreless by Chicago goalie Glenn Hall in the last two games of the series, both of which the Hawks won by 3-0 scores.

"By rough," Abel clarified, "I mean physically rugged. They're one of the biggest teams in the league and they hit hard. If you don't meet them on their own hard-checking terms, they'll skate right through you."

Knicks Sign Co-Captains Of Bonnies

Stith And Martin Will Play In NBA

NEW YORK (UPI) — All-America Tom Stith and Whitey Martin, co-captains of St. Bonaventure University's basketball team this past season, Wednesday signed with the New York Knickerbockers of the National Basketball Association.

They were the Knicks No. 1 and 2 draft choices after leading the Bonnies into the NCAA tournament.

The 6-5, 210-pound Stith, a native of New York City and two-time All-America, holds all the St. Bonaventure scoring and rebounding records. Stith ranked third nationally in scoring with a 29.6 average this season. The year before he was runnerup to Oscar Robertson with a 31.5 average.

Stith totaled 2,052 points in his three-year varsity career at the Olean, N.Y. school and has scored 147 points in five Madison Square Garden appearances this season for a 29.4 average.

Martin, a 6-2, 185-pound Buffalo, N.Y. resident, was a top playmaker and defensive star for the Bonnies. He averaged 12.5 points the past two years but his true worth to the Bonnies was in setting up the high-scoring pair of Stith and Freddie Crawford.

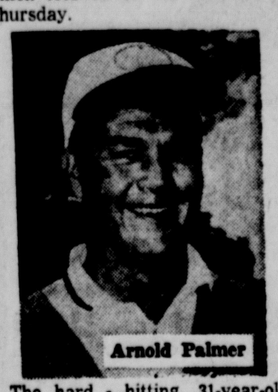
Gary Player And Venturi Rated At 6-1

Sam Snead Pegged At 8-1; 14 Former Champions To Vie

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press International

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—Defending champion Arnold Palmer has the long game, the consistency and the confidence, and that was enough to make him a 4 to 1 favorite for his third Masters golf title among an elite 88-man field which tees off in the first round Thursday.



Arnold Palmer

The hard - hitting, 31-year-old Palmer, who won this event in 1958 as well as last year, barely missing three in a row by finishing third in 1959, nas been having a spot of trouble lately with his putter and some hooked drives off the tee, but still feels he is the man to beat.

So do the oddsmakers, who have installed Ken Venturi of San Francisco and South Africa's Gary Player, the leading money winner of the tour so far this year, as second choices at 6 to 1 apiece.

Snead Pegged At 8-1

Slammin' Sammy Snead, a three-time winner, is pegged at 8 to 1 in the wagering while Ben Hogan and Dow Finsterwald are each 10 to 1, and Mike Souchak, Doug Sanders and Julius (Moose) Boros are bracketed at 12 to 1.

A crowd of 20,000 is expected for the opening round of the four-day 72-hole test, scheduled to start at approximately 9:36 a.m. EST. The weatherman predicted scattered showers for Wednesday night but fair and cooler Thursday, with the temperature in the high 50s and winds of about 14 miles an hour — not enough to make a big difference.

To Tee Off With Nicklaus

Palmer, who had to come from behind with five birdies on the last six holes to beat Venturi by one stroke in the 1960 classic, was due to tee off with Ohio State's Jack Nicklaus, one of the 20 amateurs in the field, at 12:30 p.m.

Fourteen former Masters' champions are entered. The only two missing are Art Wall, who won in 1959, and Ralph Guldahl, the 1939 winner. Wall pulled out because of a side injury that has kept him off the circuit from time to time.

Winner of the San Diego, Phoenix and Baton Rouge opens so far this year, Palmer has privately confided that he has set a goal for himself of winning the Masters, the U.S. Open, the PGA and the British Open in 1961.

Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants hit .299 in Candlestick Park last season but had a .338 batting average on the road.

Buddin opened the game with a leadoff homer against starter Jack Curtis. The Red Sox got to Curtis for two more in the second as Pumpsie Green singled, Billy Harrell doubled him home and Buddin singled in Harrell. Palmer Is 4-1 Favorite To Win Third Masters Title

Chicago Host For Stanley Cup Opener

Black Hawks Play Red Wings Tonight

DETROIT (UPI)—The Detroit Red Wings, gunning for their first Stanley Cup title in six years, must prove their mettle against the team coach Sid Abel calls "the roughest in the National Hockey League."

Professional hockey's greatest show, the Stanley Cup finals, opens Thursday night at Chicago with the first "All-American" cast since 1950 and both the Wings and Black Hawks are riding high after pulling stunning upsets in their semi-final rounds.

The Red Wings, who finished a distant fourth in the regular season race, eliminated the heavily-favored Toronto Maple Leafs in five games. Detroit, after losing the opener at Toronto, reeled off four straight victories in a blazing surge that was concluded last Saturday night.

The Black Hawks also finished strong in knocking off the league champion Montreal Canadiens in six games. The Canadiens, winners of the last five Stanley Cup crowns, were held scoreless by Chicago goalie Glenn Hall in the last two games of the series, both of which the Hawks won by 3-0 scores.

"By rough," Abel clarified, "I mean physically rugged. They're one of the biggest teams in the league and they hit hard. If you don't meet them on their own hard-checking terms, they'll skate right through you."

Knicks Sign Co-Captains Of Bonnies

Stith And Martin Will Play In NBA

NEW YORK (UPI) — All-America Tom Stith and Whitey Martin, co-captains of St. Bonaventure University's basketball team this past season, Wednesday signed with the New York Knickerbockers of the National Basketball Association.

They were the Knicks No. 1 and 2 draft choices after leading the Bonnies into the NCAA tournament.

The 6-5, 210-pound Stith, a native of New York City and two-time All-America, holds all the St. Bonaventure scoring and rebounding records. Stith ranked third nationally in scoring with a 29.6 average this season. The year before he was runnerup to Oscar Robertson with a 31.5 average.

Stith totaled 2,052 points in his three-year varsity career at the Olean, N.Y. school and has scored 147 points in five Madison Square Garden appearances this season for a 29.4 average.

Martin, a 6-2, 185-pound Buffalo, N.Y. resident, was a top playmaker and defensive star for the Bonnies. He averaged 12.5 points the past two years but his true worth to the Bonnies was in setting up the high-scoring pair of Stith and Freddie Crawford.

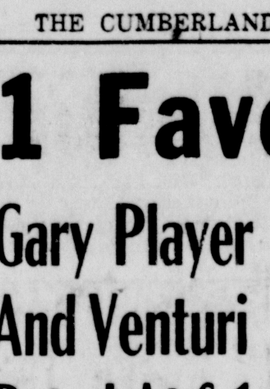
Gary Player And Venturi Rated At 6-1

Sam Snead Pegged At 8-1; 14 Former Champions To Vie

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press International

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—Defending champion Arnold Palmer has the long game, the consistency and the confidence, and that was enough to make him a 4 to 1 favorite for his third Masters golf title among an elite 88-man field which tees off in the first round Thursday.



Arnold Palmer

The hard - hitting, 31-year-old Palmer, who won this event in 1958 as well as last year, barely missing three in a row by finishing third in 1959, has been having a spot of trouble lately with his putter and some hooked drives off the tee, but still feels he is the man to beat.

So do the oddsmakers, who have installed Ken Venturi of San Francisco and South Africa's Gary Player, the leading money winner of the tour so far this year, as second choices at 6 to 1 apiece.

Snead Pegged At 8-1

Slammin' Sammy Snead, a three-time winner, is pegged at 8 to 1 in the wagering while Ben Hogan and Dow Finsterwald are each 10 to 1, and Mike Souchak, Doug Sanders and Julius (Moose) Boros are bracketed at 12 to 1.

A crowd of 20,000 is expected for the opening round of the four-day 72-hole test, scheduled to start at approximately 9:36 a.m. EST. The weatherman predicted scattered showers for Wednesday night but fair and cooler Thursday, with the temperature in the high 50s and winds of about 14 miles an hour — not enough to make a big difference.

To Tee Off With Nicklaus

Palmer, who had to come from behind with five birdies on the last six holes to beat Venturi by one stroke in the 1960 classic, was due to tee off with Ohio State's Jack Nicklaus, one of the 20 amateurs in the field, at 12:30 p.m.

Fourteen former Masters' champions are entered. The only two missing are Art Wall, who won in 1959, and Ralph Guldahl, the 1939 winner. Wall pulled out because of a side injury that has kept him off the circuit from time to time.

Winner of the San Diego, Phoenix and Baton Rouge opens so far this year, Palmer has privately confided that he has set a goal for himself of winning the Masters, the U.S. Open, the PGA and the British Open in 1961.

Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants hit .299 in Candlestick Park last season but had a .338 batting average on the road.

DONE ONCE

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) —Joe Kelley of the 1894 Baltimore Orioles was the only player to get nine hits in only nine at-bats in a doubleheader. His five hits in the second game were off baseball's all-time top winning pitcher, Cy Young.

33 Drivers Entered In 500 Mile Race

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Veteran Jack Turner and rookie Jack Rounds were nominated Wednesday for the 500-mile Speedway auto race, boosting entries to 33.

Rounds, Bell, Calif., will drive for Bruce Homeyer, Cedar Grove, N.J., in the same car in which Don Branson finished fourth in 1960.

Market's Afternoon Rally Reduces Earlier Losses

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks took a nosedive early in the session Wednesday following night words of caution by the New York Stock Exchange, but afternoon buyers stepped in and the list closed with only a modest loss.

Activity plunged 1,650,000 shares from Tuesday's 7,080,000 figure which set a new 5½ year record and prompted the exchange to advise speculators to slow down.

Slow down they did in the form of hefty profit-taking in the morning when all the losses occurred. Brokers, noting a dearth of large block offerings, said the selling came from "scared" small investors.

Hardest hit when the sell - off was at its height were the recently favored special situations but several blue chips also came in for their lumps, notably Alcoa down 2½, DuPont 1¾ and Proctor & Gamble 1½. American Telephone came back from a loss of more than a point to minus ¾.

As a result, the Dow-Jones industrial average dropped 1.41 to 677.32, rails fell 0.75 to 113.69 and utilities eased 0.13 to 112.13. Standard & Poor's index of 500 stocks dipped 20 cents.

The market also narrowed to 1,301 issues traded against 1,316 Tuesday but losers outnumbered gainers by a wide majority — 654 to 411. New highs were set by 84 against 10 new lows.

Market's Afternoon Rally Reduces Earlier Losses

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks took a nosedive early in the session Wednesday following night words of caution by the New York Stock Exchange, but afternoon buyers stepped in and the list closed with only a modest loss.

Activity plunged 1,650,000 shares from Tuesday's 7,080,000 figure which set a new 5½ year record and prompted the exchange to advise speculators to slow down.

Slow down they did in the form of hefty profit-taking in the morning when all the losses occurred. Brokers, noting a dearth of large block offerings, said the selling came from "scared" small investors.

Hardest hit when the sell - off was at its height were the recently favored special situations but several blue chips also came in for their lumps, notably Alcoa down 2½, DuPont 1¾ and Proctor & Gamble 1½. American Telephone came back from a loss of more than a point to minus ¾.

As a result, the Dow-Jones industrial average dropped 1.41 to 677.32, rails fell 0.75 to 113.69 and utilities eased 0.13 to 112.13. Standard & Poor's index of 500 stocks dipped 20 cents.

The market also narrowed to 1,301 issues traded against 1,316 Tuesday but losers outnumbered gainers by a wide majority — 654 to 411. New highs were set by 84 against 10 new lows.

In Memoriam

In memory of Henry A. Schad who passed away 8 years ago, April 6th 1953.
God took him home, it was His will
But in our hearts we love him still.
His memory is as dear today
As in the hour he passed away.
We often sit and think of him
When we are all alone.
For memory is the only friend
That grief can call its own.
Sadly missed by Wife, Daughter, and Grandchildren

In Memoriam

In memory of Henry A. Schad who passed away 8 years ago, April 6th 1953.
God took him home, it was His will
But in our hearts we love him still.
His memory is as dear today
As in the hour he passed away.
We often sit and think of him
When we are all alone.
For memory is the only friend
That grief can call its own.
Sadly missed by Wife, Daughter, and Grandchildren

Grand Jury Says County Needs New Jail

now engaged in this work could be utilized for law enforcement. The Grand Jury further recommends in accordance with the recommendations of the October 1960 Grand Jury that an additional deputy sheriff be employed in order that the sheriff's office be manned from 1 a.m. until 9 a.m. At the present time the full responsibility for taking calls between these hours rest with the sheriff. The Grand Jury further recommends that consideration be given to purchasing at least one heavier type vehicle for the purpose of transporting prisoners to state institutions and said vehicle could also be utilized in extradition proceedings. The Grand Jury recommends that comparative prices be obtained for equipping the jail with electronic alarm system or change the windows in the present structure and replacing the same with concrete blocks with louvre ventilation to provide maximum security within the jail. Whichever project would be least expensive should be adopted and the necessary changes made until such time as a new jail can be constructed.

3. The Grand Jury further recommends that consideration be given to removing the trees at the rear of the Court House, which said trees are interfering with water and sewage lines and breaking up the sidewalk. The Jury suggests that the flag at the front of the Court House should be replaced.

4. The Grand Jury found the records of the county treasurer to be in good condition and properly maintained. Modern office equipment has been purchased and is in operation in the treasurer's office. The cash balance according to records of the county books as of February 28, 1961, amounted to $504,916.50.

5. The Grand Jury found the Infirmary to be in good condition and no specific recommendations are deemed necessary.

6. The Grand Jury found the County Home to be in good condition and recommends that the paint purchased be used on the second floor of the home.

7. The Grand Jury found Sylvan Retreat to be in good condition and recommends that an elevator be installed in this three-story structure in order that food and supplies may be transported without using the inside stairway. The Grand Jury further recommends that several outbuildings in the site be either repaired or razed.

FIFTH

The Grand Jury considered six cases of overpayment involving recipients of public welfare. Considering the case load to be in excess of 1,400 active beneficiaries of welfare, the jury felt that the case workers and employes of the Welfare Board are keeping overpayments to a minimum, and the employes of the Welfare Board appearing before the Grand Jury are to be commended for the clear and concise presentation of cases and detection of the over-payments. While no indictments have been returned, the Grand Jury suggests that all such cases be referred to the state's attorney's office for prosecution, and that the instructions given each recipient be amended to include the penalty for failure to report employment or supplemental income. The Grand Jury recommends that consideration be given by the State Department of Public Welfare to change the existing regulation concerning income to permit welfare recipients to earn substantial sum of money without being disqualified from receiving the sustenance levels granted by present state law. The Jury feels this would relieve the taxpayer of the burden of welfare costs and further provide an incentive for those who are able to do part-time employment.

The Grand Jury considered the rate of increase in illegitimacy and the increasing costs of this program to the state and county. The Grand Jury recommends that the study currently being made by the Allegany County Welfare Board be made available to the next Grand Jury in order that adequate recommendations be made to the Maryland Legislature to resolve this problem.

SIXTH

The Grand Jury commends the county investigator, Edwin R. Lilya, for his presentation of cases prepared for the consideration of the jury and recommends to the County Commissioners that his salary be comparable to the salary scale used by thte Maryland State Police for their criminal investigators. The Grand Jury further recommends that consideration be given to the appointment by the county investigator of an assistant, realizing the years of training necessary to produce a fully trained and competent investigator.

SEVENTH

The Grand Jury requests the County Commissioners to consider utilizing Carver School as a community college. The costs would be shared one-third by the state, one-third by the county and one-third by the student attending. This would provide a night school facility for continuing education beyond the high school level at a nominal cost. This program would in no way conflict with any changes at Frostburg State Teachers College.

The Grand Jury appreciates the assistance rendered by the foreman, Kenneth R. Malcolm, and the state's attorney, James S. Getty.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Soybeans futures staged a strong finish Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Rye dropped more than a cent, while other grains held within narrow limits.

At the final bell, wheat was off ¼ to ¾; corn off ⅛ to up ¼; oats off ¼ to up ¼; rye off ¾ to 1¾; soybeans up ⅝ to 3, and drummed lard unchanged to off 5 points.

Profit-taking soon shaved the advance, however, and may contracts met liquidating sales. Reduced tension in Laos also caused some seeling.

Wheat futures were slow, with prices holding near Tuesday's close. Brazi reportedly bought 2,600,000 bushels of hard wheat. Vietnam took 281,000 cwts. of flour.

Corn lost an early advance in active and mixed commission trading. Cash houses sold May. Much of the volume came from spreading. Brokers said latest reports indicate the government will not flood the market with CCC corn.

Trading was more two-sided in soybeans. Brief rallies in prices were followed by sales from local shorts. Commission houses bought and sold.

Soybean export inspections last week totaled 2,386,000 bushels again at 1,794,000 the previous week and 2,250,000 a year ago. So far this season, inspections totaled 84,211,000 bushels, compared with 75,801,000 last year.

Outside markets were mostly steady.

now engaged in this work could be utilized for law enforcement. The Grand Jury further recommends in accordance with the recommendations of the October 1960 Grand Jury that an additional deputy sheriff be employed in order that the sheriff's office be manned from 1 a.m. until 9 a.m. At the present time the full responsibility for taking calls between these hours rest with the sheriff. The Grand Jury further recommends that consideration be given to purchasing at least one heavier type vehicle for the purpose of transporting prisoners to state institutions and said vehicle could also be utilized in extradition proceedings. The Grand Jury recommends that comparative prices be obtained for equipping the jail with electronic alarm system or change the windows in the present structure and replacing the same with concrete blocks with louvre ventilation to provide maximum security within the jail. Whichever project would be least expensive should be adopted and the necessary changes made until such time as a new jail can be constructed.

3. The Grand Jury further recommends that consideration be given to removing the trees at the rear of the Court House, which said trees are interfering with water and sewage lines and breaking up the sidewalk. The Jury suggests that the flag at the front of the Court House should be replaced.

4. The Grand Jury found the records of the county treasurer to be in good condition and properly maintained. Modern office equipment has been purchased and is in operation in the treasurer's office. The cash balance according to records of the county books as of February 28, 1961, amounted to $504,916.50.

5. The Grand Jury found the Infirmary to be in good condition and no specific recommendations are deemed necessary.

6. The Grand Jury found the County Home to be in good condition and recommends that the paint purchased be used on the second floor of the home.

7. The Grand Jury found Sylvan Retreat to be in good condition and recommends that an elevator be installed in this three-story structure in order that food and supplies may be transported without using the inside stairway. The Grand Jury further recommends that several outbuildings in the site be either repaired or razed.

FIFTH

The Grand Jury considered six cases of overpayment involving recipients of public welfare. Considering the case load to be in excess of 1,400 active beneficiaries of welfare, the jury felt that the case workers and employes of the Welfare Board are keeping overpayments to a minimum, and the employes of the Welfare Board appearing before the Grand Jury are to be commended for the clear and concise presentation of cases and detection of the over-payments. While no indictments have been returned, the Grand Jury suggests that all such cases be referred to the state's attorney's office for prosecution, and that the instructions given each recipient be amended to include the penalty for failure to report employment or supplemental income. The Grand Jury recommends that consideration be given by the State Department of Public Welfare to change the existing regulation concerning income to permit welfare recipients to earn substantial sum of money without being disqualified from receiving the sustenance levels granted by present state law. The Jury feels this would relieve the taxpayer of the burden of welfare costs and further provide an incentive for those who are able to do part-time employment.

The Grand Jury considered the rate of increase in illegitimacy and the increasing costs of this program to the state and county. The Grand Jury recommends that the study currently being made by the Allegany County Welfare Board be made available to the next Grand Jury in order that adequate recommendations be made to the Maryland Legislature to resolve this problem.

SIXTH

The Grand Jury commends the county investigator, Edwin R. Lilya, for his presentation of cases prepared for the consideration of the jury and recommends to the County Commissioners that his salary be comparable to the salary scale used by thte Maryland State Police for their criminal investigators. The Grand Jury further recommends that consideration be given to the appointment by the county investigator of an assistant, realizing the years of training necessary to produce a fully trained and competent investigator.

SEVENTH

The Grand Jury requests the County Commissioners to consider utilizing Carver School as a community college. The costs would be shared one-third by the state, one-third by the county and one-third by the student attending. This would provide a night school facility for continuing education beyond the high school level at a nominal cost. This program would in no way conflict with any changes at Frostburg State Teachers College.

The Grand Jury appreciates the assistance rendered by the foreman, Kenneth R. Malcolm, and the state's attorney, James S. Getty.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Soybeans futures staged a strong finish Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Rye dropped more than a cent, while other grains held within narrow limits.

At the final bell, wheat was off ¼ to ⅜; corn off ⅛ to up ¼; oats off ¼ to up ¼; rye off ¾ to 1¾; soybeans up ⅝ to 3, and drummed lard unchanged to off 5 points.

The market enjoyed a brief rally in the morning on an accumulation of buy orders, light receipts and export sales in wheat.

Profit-taking soon shaved the advance, however, and may contracts met liquidating sales. Reduced tension in Laos also caused some seeling.

Wheat futures were slow, with prices holding near Tuesday's close. Brazi reportedly bought 2,600,000 bushels of hard wheat. Vietnam took 281,000 cwts. of flour.

Corn lost an early advance in active and mixed commission trading. Cash houses sold May. Much of the volume came from spreading. Brokers said latest reports indicate the government will not flood the market with CCC corn.

Oats fell back from early highs in a fairly light trade. Dealings were mixed.

Liquidation and other selling dropped rye futures about a cent.

Trading was more two-sided in soybeans. Brief rallies in prices were followed by sales from local shorts. Commission houses bought and sold.

Soybean export inspections last week totaled 2,386,000 bushels again at 1,794,000 the previous week and 2,250,000 a year ago. So far this season, inspections totaled 84,211,000 bushels, compared with 75,801,000 last year.

Outside markets were mostly steady.

Grand Jury Favors New County Jail

Community College Also Recommended

The erection of a new jail for Allegany County and the utilization of Carver School building as a community college are among the recommendations of the April grand jury which yesterday returned six indictments after 35 witnesses were examined.

In their five-page report the jurors say that the erection of a new county jail is imperative. The existing facility is in good condition considering the age of the structure but a modern jail is recommended.

The grand jury also proposed that a stenographer be employed in the sheriff's office, and that an additional deputy sheriff be employed.

The Grand Jury of the State of Maryland for the body of Allegany County, for the April Term of Court in the year 1961, has completed its duties and reports as follows:

FIRST

We have been in session for three days, have examined thirty-five (35) witnesses, and returned six (6) indictments.

SECOND

THIRD

The Grand Jury received a report from Mr. J. William Hunt, chairman of the Washington Memorial Committee. Mr. Hunt reported that Senator Beall had introduced Senate Bill No. 299 providing that the Secretary of the Interior be authorized to erect a monument at Fort Cumberland, Allegany County, Maryland, in honor of George Washington, and further authorizing an appropriation for the erection, maintenance and care of the monument to be erected. Hearing Held In Death Of Coal Miner

Leo Wilt Crushed By Fall Of Rock

The death of a 34-year-old Lonaconing coal miner who was crushed to death yesterday morning in a rock fall in a mine one mile east of Barton was termed accidental last night following a hearing held in the Maryland Bureau of Mines office in Westernport.

Leo Wilt, who was working in a room with a cousin, Floyd Wilt, 38, also of Lonaconing, died shortly after being admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser.

His chest was crushed and attaches said he had sustained internal injuries in the accident which occurred about 1,600 feet from the mine entrance on Moore's Run east of Barton. The mine is owned and operated by Wayne and William Brashear of McCoole.

Hearing Conducted

The accident was investigated by Frank Powers, chief of the Maryland Bureau of Mines; James H. Close, district mine inspector; and Harry Jones, inspector for the Federal Bureau of Mines.

Last night's hearing was in charge of Mr. Close according to Mr. Powers who said the miners and foreman at work when the accident occurred were present for the hearing.

Mr. Powers said a large chunk of draw rock fell on the victim when three or four mine props were dislodged in the mine operation. The victim was reported to have had about 10 years of mining experience.

Six men were working when the accident occurred at 8:30 a. m. yesterday. The miners had reported for work at 7 a. m.

Mine officials said Okie Halbritter, foreman, had inspected the room in which the Wilts were working just minutes before the accident.

Ton Of Rock Falls

The victim and his cousin were working near a conveyor when about a ton of draw rock fell from the roof in the room off the main heading of the mine.

The large section of rock, measuring about six feet long, two feet wide and eight inches thick, fell on the victim who had been kneeling on the mine floor and loading coal on the conveyor. Floyd Wilt had moved back from the spot where the roof fell shortly before the accident occurred.

The other miners were able to free the victim within a few minutes although it took them almost a half hour before they were able to get the injured man to the mouth of the mine.

The last mine fatality in the area was the death of Thomas Ford of Lonaconing near Westernport in May of 1959.

Born at Grantsville, Mr. Wilt was a son of Truman and Cleone (Fazenbaker) Wilt, Baltimore.

Surviving, besides his parents, are three children, Cleone, Leo Jr. and Charles Wilt, all at home; two brothers, Glenn, Burgettstown, Pa., and Bernard Wilt, Barton, and a sister, Mrs. Johnson Devore, Burgettstown.

35 Study Units Instituted By Legislature

Higher Education Expansion Included

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — State expansion of public higher education is going to be studied again this year.

So are nearly two score of other subjects as the Maryland Legislature continued apace with the present day trend of asking for committee and commission scrutinizing of an ever expanding field.

Last year, there were at least 32 study groups at work and some of these didn't finish.

The new study of higher education was proposed while recommendations of an old one still were hanging.

The old recommendations already had been referred by Gov. Tawes to the Legislative Council for consideration this year. The principal change would have put teacher colleges at Salisbury, Towson and Frostburg under administration of the University of Maryland.

New Agency

One new element to be studied is whether it would be better to set up a new agency to supervise all state colleges except the university or have separate boards of trustees for each. The state colleges now are administered by the Board of Education which also regulates the public schools.

Easily the most far reaching legislation coming out of 1960 study commissions was Maryland's first regulation of savings and loan associations.

The resolution adopted by the House declares it "has reason to believe that many fraudulent practices and misrepresentations are worked upon the citizens of this state in connection with home improvement. . ."

Growing legislative concern over rates of interest on loans and charges on installment purchases was evident. Although State law fixes the maximum legal rate of interest at 6 per cent, complicated related fees and charges have led to legislative suspicion.

Usury Study

One resolution requested a governor's commission board study of interest and usury. Another urged the Legislative Council to scrutinize required disclosure by stores of their charges to customers.

Conflict of interest is expected to give the legislative Council a headache. Del. Charles W. Coss, D-Washington, unable to write a fair and satisfactory bill of his own regulating State employes or officials and their private business, asked the council to try.

At the governor's urging, methods of improving or reviving commercial air service around the state will be considered. Particular attention will be paid to Salisbury, Easton, Hagerstown, Frederick and Cumberland.

Continuing studies will include parks, alcoholism, prisons and migratory fowl.

Police Vehicle On Emergency Run

A cruiser car of the Cumberland Police Department and a car operated by a LaVale man collided on Baltimore Street last night while the police vehicle was making an emergency run to a local hospital.

The collision occurred about 9 p. m. at the intersection of Baltimore and Centre streets, causing a woman in the private car to be hospitalized.

The local police officer was taking Jack Miller, 29, of 235 Paca Street, to Sacred Heart Hospital to be treated for severe lacerations of his forearms.

Officer Henry said he was proceeding north on Baltimore Street. He said Mr. Tate apparently failed to see the flashing red light or hear the siren on the police cruiser and pulled onto Baltimore Street from the north lane of traffic on South Centre Street.

Mrs. Elizabeth W. Tate, 40, wife of the driver of the car involved in the accident, was taken to Memorial Hospital where she was admitted with injuries to her right leg.

Police said Mr. Miller apparently cut his arms on broken glass of a door. He also was admitted to Memorial Hospital.

Community College Also Recommended

The erection of a new jail for Allegany County and the utilization of Carver School building as a community college are among the recommendations of the April grand jury which yesterday returned six indictments after 35 witnesses were examined.

In their five-page report the jurors say that the erection of a new county jail is imperative. The existing facility is in good condition considering the age of the structure but a modern jail is recommended.

The grand jury also proposed that a stenographer be employed in the sheriff's office, and that an additional deputy sheriff be employed.

The complete report follows:

The Grand Jury of the State of Maryland for the body of Allegany County, for the April Term of Court in the year 1961, has completed its duties and reports as follows:

FIRST

We have been in session for three days, have examined thirty-five (35) witnesses, and returned six (6) indictments.

SECOND

THIRD

The Grand Jury received a report from Mr. J. William Hunt, chairman of the Washington Memorial Committee. A hearing on this bill will be held this summer and Mr. Hunt will appear in support of the project. The Grand Jury commends Mr. Hunt for his interest and able direction of this memorial project.

The collision occurred about 9 p. m. at the intersection of Baltimore and Centre streets, causing a woman in the private car to be hospitalized.

The local police officer was taking Jack Miller, 29, of 235 Paca Street, to Sacred Heart Hospital to be treated for severe lacerations of his forearms.

Officer Henry said he was proceeding north on Baltimore Street. He said Mr. Tate apparently failed to see the flashing red light or hear the siren on the police cruiser and pulled onto Baltimore Street from the north lane of traffic on South Centre Street.

Mrs. Elizabeth W. Tate, 40, wife of the driver of the car involved in the accident, was taken to Memorial Hospital where she was admitted with injuries to her right leg.

Two of the Tate couple's children, Cathy, 11, and James, 10, were treated at the hospital and released.

Police said Mr. Miller apparently cut his arms on broken glass of a door. He also was admitted to Memorial Hospital.

Following the accident, Officer Joseph Harvey took the injured persons to the hospital. Police estimated the damage to the police car at approximately $150.

35 Study Units Instituted By Legislature

Higher Education Expansion Included

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — State expansion of public higher education is going to be studied again this year.

So are nearly two score of other subjects as the Maryland Legislature continued apace with the present day trend of asking for committee and commission scrutinizing of an ever expanding field.

Resolutions and bills passed by the 1961 General Assembly called for 35 studies, some new, some old.

Last year, there were at least 32 study groups at work and some of these didn't finish.

The new study of higher education was proposed while recommendations of an old one still were hanging.

The old recommendations already had been referred by Gov. Tawes to the Legislative Council for consideration this year. The principal change would have put teacher colleges at Salisbury, Towson and Frostburg under administration of the University of Maryland.

New Agency

One new element to be studied is whether it would be better to set up a new agency to supervise all state colleges except the university or have separate boards of trustees for each. The state colleges now are administered by the Board of Education which also regulates the public schools.

Easily the most far reaching legislation coming out of 1960 study commissions was Maryland's first regulation of savings and loan associations.

One of the new studies calls for investigation of house improvement companies and their financing practices.

The resolution adopted by the House declares it "has reason to believe that many fraudulent practices and misrepresentations are worked upon the citizens of this state in connection with home improvement. . ."

Growing legislative concern over rates of interest on loans and charges on installment purchases was evident. Although State law fixes the maximum legal rate of interest at 6 per cent, complicated related fees and charges have led to legislative suspicion.

Usury Study

One resolution requested a governor's commission board study of interest and usury. Another urged the Legislative Council to scrutinize required disclosure by stores of their charges to customers.

Conflict of interest is expected to give the legislative Council a headache. Del. Charles W. Coss, D-Washington, unable to write a fair and satisfactory bill of his own regulating State employes or officials and their private business, asked the council to try.

At the governor's urging, methods of improving or reviving commercial air service around the state will be considered. Particular attention will be paid to Salisbury, Easton, Hagerstown, Frederick and Cumberland.

Continuing studies will include parks, alcoholism, prisons and migratory fowl.
